Steamers Rose City and Bay City to Have Telegraphic Equipment.

COMMUNICATE WITH LAND

Portland-San Francisco Liners Will Be Able to Exchange With Shore Stations Throughout Voyage-Shipping News.

Wireless telegraph apparatus will be placed on board the new steamships Rose City and Bay City, which will operate betwen San Francisco and Portland for the San Francisco & Portland Steamship Official information to this effect was given out yesterday. When the first of the vessels goes into service on the line she will be prepared to receive messages from all points on the Coast where there are wireless stations.

The Rose City and the Bay City were recently purchased by Mr. Scherwin for service between San Francisco and Portland. They were then known as the steamships Lawton and Kansas City. The latter was a Morgan line boat and operated between New York and Savanoperated between New York and Savannah. The Lawton was purchased from the Government and had formerly ben used as a transport. The names of the two ships have been ordered changed to the Rose City and the Bay City.
At present the only merchant vessel on the Coast having wireless telegraph equipment is the Pacific Coast Company's steamer President. She is operating betwen San Francisco and Seattle. The Governor, now en route to the Coast from the East, is also so equipped. The Federal Government has established wireless stations at Flattery, North Head, Cape Blanco and Point Reyes. For a vessel at sea it is a comparatively easy matter to make a connection with one of these stations. On the occasion of the trip of the steamship President to Nome. a message was received by the operator at North Head when the vessel was 2300 miles to the northwest. One was recently sent from San Francisco to a Government vessel some 600 miles to the westward. To the shipping interests and to the Government, the placing of wireless apparatus on all steamships is a matter of the greatest importance,

Steamer Acapulco Capsizes in San Francisco Harbor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The steam-ship Acapulco of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Panama line, which was to have sailed for Ancon and way ports at 5 o'clock this afternoon, turned turtle at her dock at the foot of Brannon street at 12:45 P. M. as she was taking on coal for the passage. Although sev-

Neither Captain Trask, the master of the vessel, nor the officials of the company have given any explanation of the mishap, but the supposition is that the coal was improperly stowed. Without warning the Acupulco listed suddenly to starboard and within 15 minutes showed her keel. A dozen of the engine-room force and steward's hands were below. As they feit the ship go over they scrambled up ladders and com-panionways, and though a number of them were caught in the inrush of water none was hurt. Several were compelled to swim. As the vessel filled she partial ly righted herself and presently lay easy on her starboard side, the sea covering her main deck to a depth of from two

Steam had not been gotten up, as the sailing time had been changed from 1 to 5 o'clock and was four hours off. The fires that had been started under the boilers were drawn by the engine crew while the vessel was listing and all danger of an explosion was averted. A lot of personal baggage was ruined and a con-siderable part of the cargo of general stores will be a loss.

Mr. Frye, assistant to President Schwerin of the Pacific Mail Company, said he could make no announcement of a substitute sailing because no other ship

The Acapulco has a gross tonnage of 2572, net 1750, is 299 feet long, has a breadth of 40 feet and a depth of 20 feet. She was built in 1873 at Wilmington, Del.

STEAMER TELEPHONE WINS

Beats Telegraph in Hot Race to Mouth of Willamette.

The steamers Telephone and Telegraph tried conclusions in the Willamette River yesterday morning, with the result that the former vessel en-tered the Columbia with a broom bent to the top of the jackstaff. The Tele-phone rounded the Willamette River light several boat lengths ahead of the There was considerable excitement and passengers and crew of each steamer cheered lustily. After passing the harbor limits the fun began. The Telegraph was three boat lengths ahead. When abreast the Union Oil dock the boats were neckand-neck and logging off better than 20 miles an hour. At Linnton the Telephone was half a length ahead but the suction held the smaller steamer and it was impossible for the Teleand it was impossible for the Telephone to increase the lead until the deep water at Gillihan's was reached. There has been considerable rivalry between the crews of the respective steamers regarding which was the faster boat. A tryout had never been made. Friday the Telephone was unable to keep steam on account of bad coal, and the Telegraph people taunted them over their slowness. A race was framed up for yesterday, and it was one of the best ever seen in the Wil-

Quarantine Officers Begin Campaign Against Rats on Boats.

The steamship Costa Rica, Captain Mason, which arrived in from San Francisco Saturday night, finished discharging yesterday afternoon, and, un-der a recent ruling of the medical de-partment, was fumigated. The work was conducted under the personal su-pervision of the quarantine doctor from the station at the mouth of the Bubonic plague, which recently de-veloped in San Francisco, is the cause for the cleansing of all vessels from the infected port. Until further orders are received, each steamer operating between the Bay City and Portland or Puget Sound ports will be fumigated each month. Rats are the principal carriers of Half disease germs, and it is the rodents which the Government officials desire to exterminate. All hatches are closed

HOMEWARD BOUND IN COAL

Old Bark Sails for Columbia River From Newcastle, N. S. W.

The old American bark Homeward Bound was reported yesterday as sailing from Newcastle, N. S. W., for the Columbia River with a cargo of coal. The vessel was previously reported as being under charter for San Francisco. The Homeward Bound is a steel ves-sel, and was built in Belfast, Ireland. in 1885. During the time she has been afloat she has had a varied career. She first flew the flag of Great Britain and was full rigged. She was christened the Zeminder. Later she was sold to the Germans and renamed the Gildemeister, The third change of flag found her named the Homeward Bound. She is of 1987 net tons burden and is a big carrier.

Prison Expert Severely Criticises Methods of State Prison Officials.

Why Was Albrecht, an Incorrigible Made a Trusty?-Discipline Is Needed at Salem Penitentiary, Says This Writer.

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 26.-(To the Editor.)-Friday morning I was very much interested in the letter from Governor Chamberlain published in The Oregonian, headed, "Lashing a Bad Convict." I also read carefully the Governor's interview in the Sunday's previous issue in which he defends flogging as a punishment for escaped convicts on their recapture. The interview and report published Friday are valuable in giving to the people of the state facts that they were entitled to, but that they were not familiar with concerning the state prison at Salem. The peo-ple should rejoice that the victim of the flogging did not swoon, as at first reported, also that a lesser number of lashes were administered than the Salem correspondent claimed. These reductions from the first report relieve the state of a portion of the disgrace brought upon it by the whipping

In my article in The Oregonian last Monday morning I took the position that the responsibility of holding criminals in prison rested on the prison officials themselves. In this position I seem to be at issue with Governor Chamberlain, but who can read his interview and report and be satisfied with the prison management at Salem? Let us examine the facts in the case laid before the people by the Governor He says Albrecht was a trusty. A trusty is a convict who, by his record, character, conduct and manifested desire for moral improvement has proven himself trustworthy. He is one in whom the warden has a right to feel that much more than the average confidence can be safely reposed.

In the Governor's interview last Sun. day, he says in referring to Albrecht. "He is absolutely incorrigible." Dictionaries define an incorrigible as a convict "bad beyond correction or reform." He is one who, by his record, character, conduct, etc., has shown that he is not trustworthy. He is a hardened criminal, one who has adopted crime as his profession. He is exwith a cargo.

The schooner Charles R. Wilson, which has been laid up here and overhauled at the Lindstrom yards, has received a new mast and been awaiting a charter, has received orders to selected from the incorrigibles in the criminals and no possible excuse can be given on the part of prison of ficials for slackening their vigilance over incorrigible convicts. The Governor says, in referring to the man-agement of the prison at Salem, that ie challenges comparison with the conduct of any similar institution in the United States. In reply, I would say that he will have difficulty in finding a prison between Oregon and the state of Maine where the flogging system is in vogue, with the possible excep-tion of Delaware, and he cannot point to another prison, including Dela-ware's, where the trustles are selected from the incorrigible convicts.

He explains matters in the case of Albrecht as follows: "At the time of his escape he was a trusty and when he was made such he was told if he violated his promise not to attempt to escape, his punish-ment would be flogging. He accepted the conditions imposed and brought his punishment on himself by violating it."

What stronger indictment could be What stronger indictment could be drawn against the management of a state prison than these words of the Governor? Here custodians of a criminal who is "absolutely incorrigible" tenter into an agreement or compact with the convict to make him a "trusty" with the understanding that if he attempts to escape he will be whipped, if recaptured. And this is what is called arrison disclining at Sa-enter into an agreement or compact with the convict to make him a "trusty" with the understanding that if he attempts to escape he will be whipped, if recaptured. And this is what is called prison disclipline at Salem. Is there a prison disclipline at Salem. Is there a prison disclipline at Salem. Is there a prison discipline be ever heard of such a farce as this? How could a system of discipline be weaker or how could management be less competent?

The chief object of criminal laws is to restrain the viclous and protect the innocent. In a number of states habitual criminal laws have been enacted for the purpose of removing from society, once for all, the incerrigible or habitual criminal. In Illinois, and a number of other states, the third sentence to the state prison is a life term, no matter what the felony is. Such laws seem to be a wise method of dealing with persistent lawbreakers. They certainly seem like greater safeguards thrown around society than to make trustles out of the very class of offenders that habitual criminal acts are designed to restrain.

It seems from the report published that the warden did not whip Albrecht. He only gave him a few complimentary lashes to show the deputy warden what part of the anatomy is impervious to pain. This discovery of the very class of offenders that habitual criminal acts are designed to restrain.

This discovery of the warden's will be of inestimable value to science, will be of inestimable value to science, especially to the medical profession. Hereafter, when a doctor finds that an operation on a patient is necessary, if it can be performed above the shoulders no anaesthetic will be required.

scoffed at the Christian Science cult for clinging to the delusion that all pain is mortal error. But the warden of the prison at Salem does not claim it is mortal error unless it occurs "above the shoulders." It is now evi-dent that Albrecht's escape was made possible by the withdrawal of the vig-ilance that should have been kept over him after the prison officials knew that he was an incorrigible convict. The he was an incorrigible convict. The fault was with the officials. They are the ones responsible for the escape. They are the ones who should be dis-

Flogging is a relic of barbarism. It belongs to the Dark Ages and not to twentieth century civilization or humanity. It arouses all the lowest brutal instincts in a man to lay the lash on the bare back of a human being. It should be abolished once for all. It is whipping convict wrong a disgrace to the state and to the country. It should never again be permitted to mar the fair name of Oregon or the United States. W. W. CUTLER.

PRISONERS' AID OFFICIAL ON ALBRECHT CASE.

Holds That System in Vogue at Penitentiary Is Wrong, but Indorses Present Administration.

PORTLAND, Aug. 24.—(To the Editor.)—
The Oregon Prisoners' Aid Society requests space for the following correspondence. Rev E. W. St. Pierre, as parole office for the prison and superintendent of the society, is in a position to ascertain the truth of the charges in the Albrecht case. We feel that this correspondence should be given to the public in justice to the Governor, the officials of the prison and to the work the society is trying to do. clety is trying to do.

Superintendent's Reply.

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 17.—Rev. E. W. St. Fierre. Salem, Or.—Dear Sir and Friend: I inclose clipping taken from this morning's Oregonian. The charges contained in this article are of so grave a nature that I think that they should receive the prompt attention of this society. I do not for a moment think that these allegations are true, but yet they should be investigated and should not remain unrefuted.

Will you kindly make an investigation of the matter, and greatly oblige? Yours very truly, M. GOODMAN, Director.

Investigate Flogging Case.

Investigate Flogging Case.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 22—My Dear Mr. Goodman: Your letter of inquiry relative to the recent flogging of Hugo Albrecht at the penitentiary was duly received, and I answer now at the earliest opportunity after as careful investigation of the case as I could give the matter.

I think the question of the advisability or inadvisability of flogging at all, for any reason whatsoever, had better not be discussed here by me. There are, of course, differences of opinion about the matter, and whereas you and I would probably find no difficulty in agreeing, we should allow others the right to differ from us on the policy. I realize how almost impossible it is for men to concede this right where feelings are very strongly engaged, but, nevertheless, I have found myself piaced where my feelings have had to be restrained at all cost.

It is wrong to jump in and unqualifiedly.

It is wrong to jump in and unqualifiedly condemn earnest, good men, especially when such are placed where they have ample opportunity to learn practically of things beyond my own experience. And it must be recognized that we have good men in charge of our penitentiary. And they, so far, have seen their way clear to abolish flogging in all cases excepting only where a trusty runs away after having been turned out and placed on his honor, with the distinct understanding that if he breaks his word he will be flogged.

Misunderstanding Exists.

crime as his profession. He is exactly the opposite type of man that the trusty is. A trusty is a convict to whom special privileges are given on account of his good behavior and other characteristics that I have mentioned. An incorrigible convict is one to whom special privileges can never safely be given. Now will Governor Chamberlain or the Warden at the prison kindly inform us why the trusties are selected from the incorrigibles in the prison at Salem? Must a convict there become an incorrigible before he is qualified to be a trusty?

It was my experience to hold a position in a state prison in the East a number of years and I have been interested in prison reform where it is possible for the past 15 years, and I have had the satisfaction of knowing quite a large number of young men who have been reclaimed to society after they had served one or more terms, and became good citizens. But they had adopted a new life-purpose and manifested a desire to reform. But that is not the case with hardened criminals and no possible excuse can have red in the prisoner, is responsible and should be purposed in charge of the prisoner, and not the prisoner, and not the parisoner, is responsible and should be punctaged in charge of the prisoner, and not the prisoner, is responsible and should be punctaged in charge of the prisoner, and not the prisoner, and not the parisoner, is responsible and should be punctaged in charge of the prisoner, and not the prisoner, and not the purposer, is responsible and should be punctaged of the understand the matter. Did Not Faint Away.

Did Not Faint Away.

Albrecht, according to the testimony of all who are in a position to speak understandingly on the matter, did not show the least sign of swooning. Immediately on being released he walked firmly to the dispensary, where, as is customary, his shoulders were salved. He worked all that day, and has been at work ever since, excepting one half a day, when he was laid off on account of a slight headache, in no wise attributable to his punishment.

This is, if I mistake not, the third flogging under the present management, in every case due to the same cause—breaking parole—for the trusty system is practically that. Governor Chamberlain expressly said, on many occasions, at least once in my hearing, that prisoners breaking their paroles were flogged. If anything is to be said, it should be directed against the system, and not against this isolated instance of it. Let us be fair-minded in our attitude. I should very much prefer that the accuser, who merely signs himself "Observer," signed his name to what he has to say. has to say.

Finally, this administration has been re-

Finally, this administration has been repeatedly accused of too much leniency in dealing with prisoners. This is the first time, as far as I know, that anyone has come cut with a charge of cruelty. I should like very much to escort anyone interested in prison reform through the prison and hear what they have to suggest to better conditions here. I am probably as much of an entusiast as anyone living on the question, and I admit that I am almost satisfied.

CURES

Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal it is because the blood is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which corrupts and pollutes the circulation. Nothing is more trying than a non-healing, chronic old ulcer. The very fact that it resists all external applications, and ordinary treatments, is good reason for alarm, for the same germ which produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore, and especially is this true if the trouble be from any inherited taint. Surface treatment cannot reach the trouble—the blood is at fault and must be purified before a cure can be hoped for. In S. S. S. will be found a remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It is a perfect blood purifier—one that goes directly into the circulation and promptly cleanses it of all impurities, poisons and taints. The ulcer can never heal while the blood discharges into it the noxious matter with which it is infected, but when S. S. S. has rid the blood of this cause and freshened and built up the circulation the sore will heal naturally, and of its own accord. S. S. S. begins at the bottom and heals the place as it should be healed and makes a permanent and lasting cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any special medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.
