MAP SHOWS ANOTHER GREAT LINE

INDICATES ALSO THAT HILL HAS BECOME THE OWNER OF SOME MORE SMALL ROADS AND WILL COMPLETE BIG LINE.

It is now the same as if Jim Hill himself had said it. The Hill road from The Dalles to Medford, Jacksonville and the coast appears on the Great Northern map in the company's Oregon booklet.

That the Pacific and Eastern is not a mere branch line, and that it is a part of the main line of the Oregon Trunk, is now an assured fact.

The map is published by the Great Northern railway, of the Hill system, and shows clearly the route to be taken by the Oregon Trunk.

This map shows the railway as crossing the Columbia a short distance above The Dalles from the station of Clarke on the North Bank line. From thence it comes south through Wasco county to its present terminous at Madras in Cook county. After that the leader of the heavy black mark shows the line as unfinished but to extend through Bend and various other places, crossing the line of Klamath county west of the Walker range of mountains and in a valley between the Walker and the Cascades. It traverses the western edge of the Klamath Indian reservato the north point of upper Klamath lake and turns west crossing the portage and thence over the Cascades a short distance north of Mount Pitt to its present terminous at Butte Falls from when the leaders cease and the solid black line indicating a finished railway extends not only to Medford but to Jacksonville.

There has been a great deal of rumor of late the Pacific and Eastern would never build beyond Butte Falls, and that the road would only be used as a logging road to bring out the timber from that country; but that it would never be built further and join that branch of the Oregon Trunk known as the Des Chutes. All doubt of the intentions of Jim Hill in regard to the Pacific and Eastern are now disposed of and it is an assured fact that the Pacific and Eastern is part of the main line, and Medford is to be on the main line.

The route of the Oregon trunk will be from The Dalles, up the Des Chutes valley, parelling the Des Chutes river in many places, then passing through Madras, Redmond, Laidlaw, Bend, LaPine and Crescent, then along the west slope of Walker range, skirting the western portion of the Kalamath reservation, passing the north end of upper Klamath lake, then in a westerly direction passing Mount Pitt, the Butte Falls, which makes the tie between Medford and Portland on the Hill system.

Of the entire Oregon Trunk line the only two divisions which today are completed is that portion from The Dalles to Madras. From Madras to Butte Falls the line is under construction or projected, and from Butte Falls to Medford the line is completed. The location engineers of the Des Chutes have made their final location through the Klamath reservation and up to the north end of upper Klamath lake.

The Pacific and Eastern had two Oregon Trunk engineers in the field all last summer. The two men were Mr. Tracy and Mr. Cranshaw, both reputable engineers, and known in the professional world as first class men on railroad location. These two men had large parties of surveyors in the field between Butte Falls, the present terminal of the Pacific and Eastern and upper Klamath lake.

When the Oregon Trunk shall be completed from The Dalles to Medford it will be one of the best scenic lines in the country, it will also do away with the stiff grades which have been such a drawback to the Southern Pacific travel.

The greatest surprise of all brought out in the late Great Northern map is the fact that it shows the Hill system complete from Butte Falls to Jacksonville. The line is not shown as projected from Medford to Jacksonville, but as completed, and since there is only one railway in operation at present between Medford and Jacksonville, the natural conclusion is that Hill is now the owner of the Rogue River Valley railroad, commonly known as the Barnum road. All circumstances point to the fact that the road is either owned or at least under bond by the Hill system. During the last six months there has been great activity on the Barnum line. A new motor car is one of the features. Another display of suddenly awakened energy is the fact that a reconnaisence was made from Jacksonville to Ruch in the Applegate valley.

During the spring of 1909 President Barnum released the mortgage for $1[illegible],000 on the railroad.

The mortgage had been in effect since 1901, when Mr. Barnum purchased the road from Hunneyman De Hart & Company, and had continued to stand against the road until the spring of 1909, period of nearly nine years.

The purpose of lifting the mortgage seems to be a perfectly reasonable procedure, since it would give the corporation a clear and unquestionable ownership of the road.

This article is not based on any wild rumors, nor tips from any one of the would-be wise ones, but it is authentic, and according to the latest news from the headquarters of the Hill system. Any person wishing satisfaction of the facts can be satisfied by calling at the office of The Medford Sun, where the map and booklet embodying the greater part of this information will be gladly shown.

USELESS TO TRAVEL

No matter what you need for yourself, your home, or your business, you want to get it at the most advantageous price, don't you? If anybody is willing to sell you what you want at a price that is specially low, you want to know it, don't you? Now, doesn't it stand to reason that, if you go out yourself, hunting—the man who has what you want is going to see that you are eager for it, and will charge you all he thinks you will pay. If you go hunting for it yourself you're likely to miss the only man who would sell at the lowest price. And doesn't it stand to reason that the quicker, surer way to find that man who has what you want, and who will sell at the very lowest price, is to send a message to him, where he is sure to be looking for it—in the market-place of the Munnimakers—the little classified ads. in the Capital Journal. Your own good sense tells you that if you go to the sellers, they'll charge you more; make the sellers come to you, and they're likely to charge you less. The one sure way to buy at the lowest price and at best advantage is to bring the sellers to you by a little ad. in the Capital Jour-nal.
