

LOOKING FORWARD TO THE PRIMARIES

Hungry Ones Cast Eyes Eagerly in Direction of Political Pie Counter.

FAT JOBS TO BE DIVIDED

Range in Importance From That of United States Senator, Paying $7500 Salary, Down to Constable, Worth $1500 Yearly.

Feasting their eyes on an assortment of fat jobs which the people will hand out in the elections next year, many aspirants for the prizes have sprung into the limelight and there will be more later. The pie-counter has many seats, but as usual there will not be enough to go round. First of grace is the job of United States Senator, which will pay its possessor $7500 a year. And thence down there runs a long string of chairs all the way to constable of the united Portland justice district paying $1500.

Sheriff's Office Profitable One.

The office of Sheriff pays $4000 a year, with some perquisites from feeding United States prisoners. Could the Sheriff obtain the feeding of the county prisoners from the County Court, the comments might be some larger, although Sheriff Stevens says that the meal price allowed would do little more than pay the expense of feeding.

John Manning will have held the office of District Attorney for Multnomah County more than five years when next election comes. It pays $5000 a year, with a snug sum extra in these days of high prices. Mr. Manning is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself on the Democratic ticket. W. T. Vaughn is an avowed aspirant for the nomination. Should Manning not seek the place, a number of aspirants will spring up in Democratic ranks, among them H. B. Adams, Deputy District Attorney, and Republicans add to hear the busy buzzing in their sky places are L. A. McNary, ex-City Attorney; G. C. Moser, now a deputy in Manning's office; Waldemar Stoen, ex-Justice of the Peace; George J. Cameron, Police Judge; J. F. Fitzgerald, Deputy City Attorney; John F. Logan and Ralph E. Moody.

Primaries Next April.

The primaries for selection of party candidates for the June election will be held next April. Nominations will be selected for county and state offices as follows: Sheriff, to succeed R. L. Stevens; salary, $4500 a year; two-year term. Circuit Judge, to succeed Thomas O'Day; salary $4000 a year; four-year term. Assessor, to succeed R. D. Sigler; salary, $4500 a year; four-year term. Treasurer, to succeed John M. Lewis; salary, $2500 a year; two-year term. Coronor, to succeed J. P. Finley; salary, $1000 a year; two-year term. Clerk, to succeed Frank S. Fields; salary, $3000 a year; two-year term. Commissioner, to succeed W. L. Lightner; salary, $3 a day during sessions of County Board; four-year term. Justices of the Peace, two for Portland district, one for Eastern Multnomah; salary in Portland district, $2400 a year each; two-year term. Constable, one for United Portland district; salary, $1500 a year; two-year term. School Superintendent, to succeed R. F. Robinson; salary, $2500 a year; four-year term. Surveyor, to succeed Philo Holbrook, Jr.; salary, $150 a month and 10 cents a mile for traveling. Five State Senators, one joint with Clackamas and Columbia Counties. Thirteen State Representatives, one joint with Clackamas.

MUST TIE THEIR HORSES

Twelve Arrested Yesterday for Leaving Teams Unhitched. After the issuance of an order by Chief of Police Glitzmacher yesterday afternoon, the patrolmen became very active relative to the enforcement of the ordinance governing the tying of horses left standing in the streets, and 12 arrests were made. The numerous accidents resulting from runaways following the laxity of teamsters in this respect caused the head of the department to order strict compliance with the law. Further arrests will probably be made today, as it is said at headquarters that there is a general disregard of the ordinance. Those who were arrested yesterday afternoon were: J. H. McBride, W. E. Taylor, George LaFontaine, C. A. Ferguson, M. Dautoff, Fred Hobbs, Joe Upstett, Otto Brandes, Thomas Gibson, U. S. Roderick, Martin Lyons, George Mosler. The arrests were made by Patrolmen Wanless, James Hunter, Pete Peterson and Graves. The order of Chief Glitzmacher follows: Judging from the many reports of runaway horses and teams and the resultant injury to persons and property it is apparent that the patrolmen on their beats do not give the matter of leaving horses unhitched the required attention. You will therefore instruct the officers to strictly enforce section 10 of ordinance 10499, relating to this matter and which reads as follows: 'No person or persons having or using any animal, except it be attached to a dray or truck, shall leave such animal without securely fastening the same; and no person or persons having or using any animal or animals attached to a dray or truck shall leave such animal without first securely locking the wheels of the vehicle to which it shall be attached. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50.'

The testimony was so conclusive that the police committee recommended no further investigation be made by the board.

GOVERNOR MEAD VISITS PORTLAND

Washington Executive Pauses on Way to Sacramento Convention.

HE DISCUSSES IRRIGATION

Most Important Subject to the West. He Says—Declares Artificial Watering Is Better for the Crops Than Rain.

Albert E. Mead, Governor of Washington, was in Portland yesterday. He is on his way to attend the National Irrigation Congress, that meets in Sacramento, Cal., September 2, of which Governor Chamberlain, of Oregon, is president. 'Of all the conventions held in the West these irrigation gatherings are the most important,' said Governor Mead, at the Oregon Hotel. 'We are too far west of the center of population to expect the great National Republican and Democratic conventions to come here, and next to these come the irrigation conventions in importance, and ultimate results for good to the country as a whole. 'Personally, I think that I cannot serve the State of Washington better than by attending every irrigation convention possible. Both Washington and Oregon, to say nothing of the rest of the Northwest, in the long run will produce more from the ground through irrigation than by natural rainfall. 'In a naturally wet country like the Pacific Coast west of the Cascades irrigation is little understood. Most people consider it a mere or less of a makeshift to take the place of rain, and never when it is coming, or whether it is going to come at all or not. You may have a Summer when crops suffer for lack of water during the growing season, then when you get ready to harvest what crop you have, down comes the rain and ruins it. 'Irrigation, on the other hand, puts the water right under the control of the farmer. He gives it to his crops just at the right time and in the right amounts. Some crops require much more water than others. When harvest time comes he turns off his water and has clear weather in which to gather the fruits of his Summer's labor. 'A different crops require different amounts of water you can readily see why diversified farming is more practical under irrigation than under natural rainfall. There is also another phase of the matter: When a man farms depending on rainfall alone, he must manure more heavily than when he irrigates. The heavy manure costs him with it an immense amount of natural fertilizer that rain water does not. You will notice that the spots of the world where farming is carried on are the longest and that are so good today as they ever were are exclusively those under irrigation, such as the Valley of the Nile. 'Now do not jump to the opposite conclusion and say that I think that a region dependent on natural rainfall, like your Willamette Valley, for instance, is on the high road to a howling wilderness. Man can, and has, farmed under natural rainfall for centuries, but he must keep adding more fertilizer. There is Grand, for example. 'Every inch of water running to waste is a dollar running to waste. It should be utilized in one of two ways; either spread it out over what is now waste land and make the deserts into gardens, or else harness it into electrical power. The Pacific Northwest little knows the heavy running of waste day and night, year in and year out, down her mountain sides. Mount Rainier alone, competent engineers say, gives rise to more waterpower than does Niagara Falls. At first sight it may seem a waste of water, but a few figures soon prove that the statement is absolutely true. Mount Rainier sheds less water, of course, than flows from the great lakes, but the water from Rainier drops over 14,000 feet, while that over Niagara Falls only a few hundred. A pint of water falling thousands of feet is more powerful than a horsehead of water falling only a few hundred feet. There you have it. And this tremendous supply of waterpower, eternal as the sun is today running to waste. If it were miles from civilization it might be excusable, but it is within 25 miles of the greatest harbors in America. 'See what Portland is losing daily in the water power flowing down Mount Hood, Mount Jefferson and Mount St. Helena. Spread the waters from the higher sides of the Cascades out over Eastern Oregon and Washington and harness the waters from the western slopes with copper wire, lead it into our sound and river cities, and no place in the world can compete with our own Northwest.' This is what America is beginning to call this wonderful section of late, since such a shouting has been set up about Alberta being the modern garden of Eden—plus a few frost bites. So you see why I am on my way to attend the Irrigation Congress.'

REMODELING TO COMMENCE

Chamber of Commerce Is Seeking Temporary Quarters.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce will probably move into new quarters next week, as the hall at present occupied by the organization is to be remodeled. After the alterations are completed the Chamber will return to its present quarters, but instead of having a room three stories in height, it will be but one story high. The owners of the Chamber of Commerce building will put a force of men at work, putting in two additional floors, to be sub-divided into 20 offices, while the lower hall on the second floor will be allowed to remain as it is, so as to accommodate the offices and the exhibit of Oregon resources. Carpenters will begin at once the work of erecting scaffolding. A car of steel arrived yesterday morning for use in the work of remodeling. Temporary quarters have not yet been secured by the Chamber, as Acting Secretary Mosesohn is awaiting the arrival of Secretary Giltner before making final arrangements. The temporary offices will probably be arranged for on the ground floor in the Chamber of Commerce building or in a building in the vicinity. An effort is being made to secure a place where at least part of the exhibit can be accommodated, so that tourists arriving the latter part of next week may be shown at least some of the products of the state, for the rooms are generally crowded during the low-rate season. During such times the Chamber employs a man at the Union Depot whose duty it is to direct people to the exhibit and bureau of information. This will be done again during September and October.
