Play Festival Tomorrow—
For the play festival at the Salem play grounds tomorrow, the program is as follows: From 1:30 to 3, ball games, basket work and games; 3 to 4, German bat ball for boys and sewing for the girls; 4 to 4:30, fork drills; 4:30 to 6, basket ball and other games. The parents are cordially invited to attend. This play festival is of great interest to the children of Salem, and an important adjunct of their home life.

Garbage Collector Careless—
John Tracy, a garbage collector to the city, was arrested yesterday by Poundmaster Irwin on a charge of not providing proper receptacles for the reception of matter collected. This man had been warned frequently as to the method of hauling slop through the streets of the city and has paid no heed to the various warnings given by the police and health departments of the city. His arrest yesterday was a result of the careless manner in which he handles the garbage collected. He was fined $5.

A Patent Railroad Tie—
Amos Mitchell, of Kirksville, Missouri, son of M. Mitchell who resides at 918 Pine street, in this city, has invented and patented a railroad tie which does away with all spikes and securely locks the rail to a steel tie. They started manufacturing these ties in St. Louis and Kansas City the first of August. This tie will obviate the spreading of rails which has caused so many bad accidents recently.

Asks for Injunction—
The American Life and Accident Insurance company has begun suit against J. W. Ferguson, state insurance commissioner, asking for a restraining order preventing him from interfering with the above company in the transaction of business within the state of Oregon. The insurance company has already been suspended from doing business in the state, and the threat is made by the insurance commissioner that he will permanently suspend the plaintiff company. The suit was filed for the purpose of prohibiting the state official from shutting the company out of the state. Judge Wm. Galloway granted the temporary restraining order, pending a hearing. The complaint asks that the injunction be made perpetual.

LADD & BUSH BANK

CLERKS ARE PERMITTED TO ORGANIZE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Washington, Aug. 13.—Barred from affiliation with any organization countenancing strikes or lockouts, United States postal clerks won a hollow victory in the senate today when that body by a vote of 49 to 7 decided to give this branch of the government service the right to organize. The voting followed a spirited debate in which Senators LaFollette of Wisconsin, Root of New York and Smith of South Carolina took a prominent part.

Senators LaFollette and Smith took the position that there were no laws to prevent postal clerks from organizing or declaring a strike if they were dissatisfied with their compensation and working conditions. Senator Root took sharp issue with this stand declaring bitterly that no organization should be allowed which would be in a position to cripple the government service even in the slightest degree. Other senators saw behind the move an attempt to cooperate with the American Federation of Labor, and bitterly fought the measure. Still others asserted that as the American Federation itself cannot call a strike, the provision could not possibly affect that body.

The postal clerks won a victory, however, by the adoption in the senate of the amendment granting them the right to appeal to congress over the head of the postmaster general, whose word heretofore had been final.

During the progress of the debate Senator Cummins said that strikes by postal clerks "would be little less than treason."

The amendment was then adopted providing the right to any government employe to furnish congress with information, and it specifically directed that such employe was not to be interfered with.

Senator Bourne then withdrew his amendment.

Senator Reed's amendment permitting employes to organize, but forbidding their affiliation with "striking" organizations was then adopted.

Washington, Aug. 13.—A red hot debate on the question whether postal employes have a right to unionize and strike was precipitated in the senate today when the postoffice appropriation bill came up for further consideration.

Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina, took the stand that there was no law to prevent any citizen from joining any union organization, and contended that the postal employes had a right to quit work of they were dissatisfied with their compensation and working conditions.

Senator Root, of New York was on his feet in an instant. "It would be a sorry day for America," he shouted, "when we grant government employes the right to strike. A situation like that would soon result in no government. There is no organization under which government employes could strike. Such an organization should not be tolerated. No organization must assume to coerce the government.

"Striking is not illegal, but it must not be turned as a weapon against the public interests."

Senator Sutherland agreed with Root. He declared that the house provision permitting such an organization would be equivalent to an invitation to the postal employes to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, which organization, he said, would be able to call them out on a sympathetic strike.

PRINTERS MEETING IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Aug. 13.—When the 58th annual convention of the International Typographical Union opened here today the principal topic under discussion was the Chicago newspaper strike.

The suspended Chicago stereotypers desired a hearing at the convention, but President James M. Lynch, of the Typographical Union, in the chair, refused to permit President L. C. Straube, of the suspended union to speak from the floor.

The insurgents who are opposed to Lynch as president, wanted the same privilege on the floor, but this was also denied.

President Lynch stated that President Freel, of the International Stereotypers' union, alone would be permitted to explain the Chicago strike.

The San Francisco Typographical Union local telegraphed the convention asking that a strike be declared against the San Francisco Examiner. This was referred to a committee.

A resolution protesting against the proposed increase in postal rates on second class mail matter was adopted.

The anti-administration forces started a fight over the report of the law committee on a resolution to print decisions in appealed cases, but after a prolonged speech by President Lynch they were completely routed. The committee reported unfavorably on the plan, declaring that it would cost $30,000 a year to print the reports.

This statement was questioned by the "insurgents," who also disputed some of the statements made by Lynch. Despite all opposition, however, the committee's report was finally adopted.

Reds Win a Victory.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Stratford, Conn., Aug. 13.—Advices from the front in the war maneuvers here stated today that the blue army is retreating, and that the reds had driven the former across the Housatonic river.

This makes the second victory for the reds, and gives them an opportunity to attack the Croton reservoir, from which New York city receives its water supply.

MEXICANS AND SLAVONIANS HAVE BATTLE

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 13.—Two men were fatally injured and a third also may die from his injuries as the result of a race riot between Mexicans and Slavonians in North Broadway, shortly after noon today.

Police reserves were called and the two ringleaders were arrested. The police had difficulty in dispersing a crowd of several thousand persons that gathered.

The seriously injured are Steve Mundos and John Nelach, Slavonians, both of whom probably will die from knife wounds. Hasa Blosich, Slavonian, may also succumb.

The fight started in a saloon, where the bar was wrecked and mirrors smashed by flying bottles. A score of men were involved before the police interfered.

Big Steamer Aground.

San Francisco, Aug. 13.—Steering too fine a course around the treacherous bank off Angel Island, the British steamer Strathardle, with Captain Lamon at the helm, went ashore on the rocky bottom of the west side of the island shortly before noon today. The powerful tug Slocum and three tugs are standing by ready to give the Strathardle a line if necessary.

The Strathardle was bound in from Baltimore with 5400 tons of coal for the government. The vessel is value at $200,000 and carries a crew of 30 men. As the steamer grounded at high tide it will be difficult to float her.

The Widow Missing.

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 13.—The whereabouts of Mrs. C. H. Akeley, widow of a millionaire lumberman of Minneapolis, who died recently, is causing much worry today to her friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Akeley was reported a week ago to have left Minneapolis for Long Beach. Her frends explain her silence by saying that she probably is in San Francisco, where she will remain until a settlement is made of an alleged dispute regarding the division of her husband's estate.

A box sent here from Minneapolis by express and which is believed to contain valuable securities of the Akeley estate is being held by a bank pending the woman's arrival.

Thought It a Robbery.

Portland, Or., Aug. 13.—Alleged attempts of a man giving the name of William Clark to pass a forged check on the United States National bank here, caused a large crowd to collect at the bank this afternoon, and gave rise to wild rumors that the bank had been robbed of a large sum of money. Clark was arrested.

General Booth Dying.

London, Aug. 13.—The condition of General William Booth, head of the Salvation Army, is critical this evening. Booth's recovery from recent illness, which was thought probable, is now believed to be unlikely.
