BOYS' BLEACHERS TO BE DEDICATED BY SALEM ELKS SUNDAY

McMinnville Elks Will Accompany Team To Contest With Senators

When the new bleachers at the Salem ball park are dedicated next Sunday a great delegation of McMinnville Elks are expected in Salem to assist the local lodge in the dedicatory exercises, and at the same time root for the McMinnville Yellowlands, who will meet the Senators after the certain raining ceremonies.

The Yellowlands have dropped but one game out of 15 during the season, while the Senators have lost six there out of 15, but the one game lost by the McMinnville team was to the Colored Giants of Portland. Salem defeated the Giants three straights, but the Yellowlands could take but two out of the three in the series against the Portland aggregation.

The "dope" source upon fast ball and in addition the biggest attendance of the season is expected as Elks have been invited from a majority of the valley towns, including Dallas, Albany, Jefferson, Silverton, Stayton, Gervais, Woodburn and towns in Yamhill county.

The new bleachers were erected by the Salem Lodge of Elks, No. 336. Manager Turner of the Senators assumed that he was desirous of allowing all boys under 16 years of age to see the games and stated he would give free admission to them for the next 10 years if anyone would come forward and construct the bleachers. The Elks responded and the "Big Brothers" are ready to turn the bleachers over with appropriate exercises.

McMinnville is taking a double interest because of the fact that the practically undefeated Yellowlands will have their first tryout against the Senators, and because McMinnville and Salem lodges of Elks are closely affiliated. McMinnville is Salem's "daughter lodge," the Elks of that town being members of this lodge for many years, until a dispensation was received and a charter granted.

Aside from the Elks, Manager Turner is boosting for a large attendance from the various towns of the valley as well as from Salem.

"I believe that Salem will develop a decided boost if we can get the auto owners attending the games on Sunday," he stated this morning. "I am satisfied if they see the game Sunday they will come back, as from every line that can be picked up on the Yellowlands they are evenly matched. I understand that the dedication of the stands will be a pretty affair and that the Elks are planning to turn out in large numbers. I greatly appreciate what the Elks have done for the small boys of the country and I hope to see the boys out in swarms, as well as their elders."

FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Olympia, Wash., July 7.—Max's first skirmish of the season with forest fires has resulted in victory to man, according to State Fire Warden Farris, who announced today that all fires in the state are now under control. Thus far there has been no loss of green timber, the fires having been confined to logged off areas.

SALEM TERRITORY IS FORGING AHEAD IN NATURAL WAY

Year Increased by $10,000 Postal Receipts For Fiscal Over Previous Year

Notwithstanding the postal receipts for the quarter ending June 30, 1914, for 3rd and 4th-class matter were over $1000 in excess of the receipts for the quarter just closed for the same classification of mail matter the total receipts at the Salem post office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915, exceeded the total receipts for the previous year by nearly $10,000. This is an indication of how the annual postal receipts for the Salem office are growing from year to year and reflects the stable growth of the city and surrounding country. The increase in postal receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, was $7,429 over the fiscal year 1913.

The heavy receipts on account of 3rd and 4th class mail matter for the quarter ending June 30, amounting to $[illegible], as shown in the Journal of yesterday, as compared to $[illegible] for the corresponding quarter this year, was due to the heavy shipment of the election pamphlets and campaign matter incident to the general election. One curious feature about the steady and substantial growth of Salem's postal business is the fact that, in spite of the sensational increase caused by the heavy volume of election matter, the increase is overtaking and exceeded by the normal volume of business during a non-election year. This, too, in face of the fact that a considerable volume of mail business is curtailed by reason of the war in Europe and the natural depression of business in other parts of the country.

The following statement shows the postal receipts for the fiscal years 1913, 1914 and 1915, being from July 1 to June 30, inclusive each year, by quarters, and the gradual and rapid increase in the total volume of business for each succeeding fiscal year. The second quarter's receipts in each line of figures represents the heavy volume of traffic due to the holiday period and the fourth and last quarterly receipts the period in 1914, when the election mail is heaviest and normal in 1914 and 1915.

Theoretical Fleet Makes Attack Upon Three Ports

Fort Townsend, Wash., July 7.—A three battle in which all three forts guarding the entrance of Puget Sound will participate to repel an imaginary invading fleet is being planned in connection with target practice of the state coast artillery reserves with the regulars at the forts this week. The battle will be at night. Five years ago such a battle was "fought" and the incessant detonations shattered windows in Port Townsend. The heavens were alight for miles with the glare of searchlights and rockets.

Watching the Scoreboard

Pat Moran remained very painfully. That's what Doc White is going to have painted on his shingle.

The Salt Lake stings were all drawn yesterday, and the Venice Tigers did wherever the spirit moved them.

Walt Cuthbert opened up smoking Pittsburg's first offering in the outer pasture for three bags. In all, three pitchers were submarined.

How have the mighty fallen! Behold the Giants and Braves taking turns in the cellar.

It remained for the humble Brooklyn Dodgers to collar the Braves by beating them twice.

Spokane made enough runs off Vancouver yesterday to last all week—10 to [illegible].

Red Sox believe in winning early and then resting. They bunched their hits in the opening innings of both Washington games and got leads the Senators could not overcome.

Zimmerman's triple broke the ice in the fourteenth at Chicago and Brooklyn's fourth defeated the Reds 5 to 4.

The most interesting thing on the program was a near fist fight in the seventh.

If this crust war continues it might be well to send the ball players onto the diamond wearing right mouse mitts hereafter.

San Francisco Call: We might ask our royal visitor, Sri Jagajit Singh, if he knows anything about the derivation of the word "jersey." Circumstantial evidence incriminates him.

Jack Coombs' Pitching Days Appear To Be Over

New York, July 7.—Jack Coombs, former "iron man" of the Philadelphia Athletics, collapsed in the fourth inning of the first game between Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon. Coombs was carried to the club house where he soon recovered but it is feared he may never be able to pitch again.

Coombs' back, which kept him out of the game last year, caused his collapse today. Two years ago Coombs was in a plaster cast for months, following an attack of typhoid because of the ailment. He had had a successful season with Brooklyn to date and was hailed as a "come back."

Salem Anglers Enjoy A Successful Fishing Trip

Frank Kubin, his two sons, Chester and Otto, J. E. Allison and Frederick H. Paulus, the last named three employed in the department of secretary of state, and all well known disciples of Isaac Walton and recognized as past masters in the science and art of inveigling the sportive trout from his hiding place, motored to the headwaters of the north fork of the Santiam Sunday and spent Sunday evening and the great part of Monday fishing and basking in the cooling shades of the forest. They caught 185 fine specimens of mountain trout and enjoyed the trip immensely.

George Davis spent Sunday and Monday in Marion.
