As the Liberty Bell is traveling exactly on schedule time, it will doubtless leave Portland on the time agreed upon and arrive promptly in Salem at 2 o'clock Thursday. And with the same promptness, after the 30 minutes at Salem is spent, the train will roll out. For this reason, those who wish to see the bell should be in Marion park before 2 o'clock in order to get in line for the march to the car as soon as the train stops on Front street. With the approaching streets to Front street all cared off, there will be no chance to see the bell from an auto outside.

Attention, Chemeketans.

All who can please appear in bell ringers at the Commercial club at 7 p. m. Thursday, July 15, to assist in taking care of the crowd at the reception of the Liberty bell. Will take about two hours, and the committee will appreciate your attendance. SECRETARY.

Martin Riggs, a Salemite, who has visited in Corvallis several times, has purchased the George E. Parker residence in the Fairmount neighborhood and Mr. and Mrs. Riggs will come to Corvallis at an early date to make their home on the newly acquired property. The Times has no intention of losing Benton county and will probably make their home in this city. The good will go with a new citizen to family to this locality.—Corvallis Times.

Special meeting of Pacific lodge No. 32, A. F. & A. M., this evening. Work in the M. M. degree. Visiting brethren welcome.

While no strict official order has been issued by Secretary Wilson for the Chemeketans to appear in uniform to help in the reception to the Liberty bell, yet it is by the request of the Chemeketans that a good majority of them have already connected to be on hand and add whatever possible in making the reception to the bell a great event for Salem. With favorable weather, it is estimated that a crowd of fully 10,000 will be on hand. The Southern Pacific and the electric are both running excursions from Woodburn on the north and Albany on the south, offering regular week-end rates.

Miss Anne D. Swezey, librarian of the public library, returned yesterday from a visit of six weeks at the exposition and cities in southern California. Miss Swezey attended the conference of the American Library association held at Berkeley, June 3 to 9. While in southern California, she visited all the libraries in the larger cities, noting their various plans of book distribution. She also spent some time in Seattle in conference with the Seattle librarian. After having noted the work being done by these various libraries, Miss Swezey has come to the conclusion that for the number of books in the library and size of the city, the Salem public library shows a percentage of circulation that equals and exceeds many of the California libraries.

Thursday, July 29, has been designated as official loganberry day at the Oregon building of the Panama-Pacific exposition. On that day loganberry juice will be served to all comers, and the domestic science class will demonstrate the various household uses that can be made of dried loganberries. Although to a certain extent this will be an Oregon day, for the benefit of the whole state, yet all the loganberry juice to be given away will be shipped from Salem and almost all of the loganberries. Arrangements are now being made so that every one going into the Oregon building on loganberry day will have ample opportunity not only to taste of the delicious loganberry juice, but to eat loganberry cobbler and loganberry pie and all sorts of jellies and other products of the berry for table use.

Vigorous Recovery In Stock Market

New York, July 12.—The change in Wall Street sentiment, visible ever since the German note was published Saturday, continued to display itself today. There was, in fact, a quite general vigorous movement of recovery thus early of the three past business days. The early advance in prices extended to a considerably larger degree than yesterday to the standard investment shares—even those which are natural marks of European liquidation.

Wall street stocks, however, again led in the advance and the violence of the movements in some stocks had the usual effect toward the close of giving a so artificially urgent to prices. The market therefore ended irregular and with a number of previous advances cancelled.

The reason for the late reaction was the fact that the upward movement since Saturday has been largely based on expectations by professional operators who had been counted upon the market's rapid to be a probable distributing influence.

Contract Is Let For Municipal Band Stand

The contract for the erection of the municipal band stand was awarded yesterday to Gilmore & Kingsman and the work of construction will begin within a few days. The stand is to be of reinforced concrete, will be oval in shape, 32 feet wide and 20 feet long, lighted by eight electric lights. As yet no plans have been selected for the stand but this will be definitely decided upon in a few days.

The bids submitted were as follows:

J. F. Mellhorop	$ [illegible]
A. L. Dalrymple	[illegible]
L. C. Dodges	[illegible]
Wechler & Wood	1,320
Stewart & Engstrom	[illegible]
Fred A. Dohrn	878
[illegible]	1,435

The plans for the band stand were drawn by George M. Post.

SALEM BUSINESS MEN WILL CLOSE STORES TO SEE LIBERTY BELL

The Business Men's league of the Commercial club met in an adjourned meeting last evening and went on record as favoring the closing of the stores from 2 o'clock until 3:30 Thursday afternoon, so that all may have an opportunity to see the historic bell.

A committee, consisting of Wm. Gahlsdorf, W. A. Dexter and Robin Hay, was appointed to draft resolutions regarding the attitude of the association towards peddlers.

The following resolutions were offered and unanimously passed:

Be it resolved by the Business Men's league of the Commercial club, That they endorsed the actions of the police department of the city of Salem in their campaigns against peddlers.

Be it resolved, That the Business Men's league of the Commercial club of Salem welcome all new business to Salem, when such business is legitimate and fair in competition;

Be it resolved, It is the sense of the league that they hold house-to-house soliciting by out-of-town or state agents as being unfair, not being subject to taxation or the expense of inspection and regulations under the city and state departments.

SCORES OF PEOPLE VIEW WONDERS OF RARE CACTUS PLANT

The residence of Mrs. P. W. Brown, 1290 East State street, was the scene of pleasant activity and the center of interest for a multitude of ladies, and also gentlemen, of Salem, last evening, from about 8 o'clock until nearly midnight, upon the occasion of the blooming of her giant "Night Blooming Cereus," a species of the cactus family of plant life. This year the plant, which stands over five feet high, bore two huge blooms, of a delicate pink shade and highly fragrant and they were beheld in both silent and exclamatory wonder and admiration by scores of Salem people, many of whom gazed upon this extraordinary variety of flower for the first time.

The Night Blooming Cereus is a very peculiar specimen of the plant family in that it blooms but one year and then only one night, the buds bursting into blossom after sundown and closing up forever before dawn of the following day.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a father and mother, a sister living at Walla Walla, Wash., and a brother in Texas.

She was a member of the O. E. Star of Van Duzer, No. 5, and also a member of the Women's Relief Corps of Salem. The remains are in care of the Terwilliger Funeral parlors and will be sent to Walla Walla, for interment.

REMONSTRATORS WIN STREET IMPROVEMENT CASE IN HIGH COURT

Case Reopened For Evidence As To Superficial Ara—Horticultural Fire Case

That the entire superficial area of property abutting upon a street proposed to be improved should rule in a remonstrance against such improvement, under the provisions of the charter of the city of Silverton, and not the front-foot area, as contended by counsel for the City of Silverton, and that Circuit Judge Galloway, for Marion county, erred in the refusal to grant permission to submit testimony as to the mathematical accuracy of the area measurement of the property embraced in the remonstrance to the improvement of McClaine street, the supreme court this morning remanded the case of J. G. Lais, et al., vs. the City of Silverton with instructions to reopen the case to both parties for further testimony on this point. Opinion by Justice McBride.

Under the original theory of the city of Silverton the front foot area of large tracts of unplatted lands abutting upon the proposed street improvement was to be considered as representative of property interests embraced in the remonstrance to such improvement. Later, however, it was decided that the entire superficial area of such tracts should be considered in the measurement and, such data of actual measurement being absent, the plaintiffs asked for further time in which to cause a survey to be made and accurate measurement obtained which the court declined to grant and held in favor of city and against the remonstrators. If the remonstrators can show by actual measurement of these premises that more than two-thirds of the property subject to assessment for the improvement is embraced in the remonstrance the proposed improvement will fail.

Horticulture Fire Wins and Loses.

Because S. T. Howard, Jr., purchased his half interest in the property insured with money belonging to his father's estate which did not constitute him an undivided half owner of such property, the supreme court holds that under the terms of the insurance policy of the Horticultural Fire of Oregon, he is not entitled to a half of the amount of the policy ($750) but that his partner, George A. Morse, who did own a half interest in the property in his own name, is entitled to a half of the insurance, or $325.

The suit was begun in Jackson county for collection upon two insurance policies against fire issued by the Horticultural Fire Relief company to S. T. Howard, Jr., and George A. Morse for $500 and $750, respectively, upon a fruit dryer and its fruit contents. Both burned and the insurance company demurred to the complaint on the ground that the policies were void in that Howard was not the sole owner of an undivided half interest as represented. The plaintiffs lost the suit as to the $500 policy in the lower court, but Judge Robert G. Morrow, sitting for Judge Calkins, held in their favor as to the $750 insurance on the building, which judgment the appellate court reverses as to Howard and affirms as to Morse interest in the policy. The opinion is written by Justice Eakin and Justices Bean, McBride and Harris concur.

Although the Horticultural Fire Relief Insurance company has failed since the action was begun it undoubtedly was obliged to put up a surety bond for the amount of judgment on appeal in which case the insured will secure his amount of damages allowed by the court.

HUBBARD CELEBRATES.

Hubbard's Fourth of July celebration was pulled off in fine style last Saturday. The weather man was on his good behavior as well as the other powers of the great country. There is one city ordinance in Hubbard that interferes with the small boy and his firecracker and merrily no one was injured because of them.

The prize for the best decorated auto went to A. G. Walling, best decorated single rig, Miss Mae Vonner, best float, Hesperidean Sisters, fraternal order having won in last Arion tourney No. 13, Pythian Sisters.

Judges, M. B. Koons, Joe Zimmerly and L. A. Bradley.

In a short time after the parade a large crowd had gathered at the grove and some of the program. After dinner a good hearing was given Mr. McClaine, the principal speaker of the day. He reviewed the events leading up to the rupture between America and the home country, expressed thankfulness for the peace that blesses this country while Europe is being torn with awful carnage. The people appreciated his address and several times gave him hearty applause. The choir rendered several fine selections, closing with "The Star-Spangled Banner," the national hymn.

The program closed with a game on the lake, a motor launch with the Dodd and Howard was a good exhibition until the boat sank, when the launch here got into the fender's pickles and from that on changed her behavior to the sport loved, closing with it 10 to 3 in favor of Hubbard. Very few cigars were made on either side and all the fun enjoyed the game.

The prizes for horse race were pulled off soon after the game was over. The big event was the race and was won by Hubbard horse, Minnie Willis Chief, F. A. Funk, E. W. Hughes, Frank Saunders and Ray Andrews.

First Prizes were the only ones, assume such the standing honors and the 2d and 3d and Jackson. Running broad jump was joined, prizes were won by William Minder—Enterprise.

Death of Editor Blethen of Seattle Daily Times

Seattle, Wash., July 13.—The funeral of Colonel Alden Joseph Blethen, editor of the Seattle Times, who died Monday afternoon at 4:39 o'clock at the family residence, 519 West Highland Drive, will be held from the Blethen home Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Colonel Blethen was 69 years old. He had been ill for a year, during part of which time he traveled in a vain search for health. He went first to California, then to Florida, where he made steamer reservations for a trip to Cuba, but because of failing health changed his mind after boarding the steamer and abandoned the trip.

Hurrying home, he was confined to his apartments under a physicians care in New York City, and again for several days at Chicago. Arrived at Seattle he placed himself in care of the family physician, Dr. J. H. Lyons.

High blood pressure, bronchitis and a series of colds combined at intervals to undermine Colonel Blethens health and rendered his constitution unable to combat an attack of septicemia.

Partially unconscious since July 17, he was for the last eight days unable to take food or talk, and only at times recognized members of the family. He was kept alive by stimulants.

The Times will continue to be published under Blethen management. Colonel Blethen several years ago providing for his share of the stock to go to his two sons, Joseph and Clarence B. Blethen, upon his death. Besides holding the controlling interest in the Times Colonel Blethen controlled the Times Investment company, a corporation holding the realty and securities of the newspaper. He also owned considerable personal real estate in Seattle and in the east.

Colonel Alden J. Blethen was a native of Maine, having been born at Knox, Waldo county, December 27, 1846, his parents being Alden and Abbie L. Blethen. After acquiring a common school education, he entered Wesleyan seminary and college, where he was graduated in 1868.

After practicing law in Portland, Maine, for several years, he moved to Minneapolis where he purchased an interest in the Tribune and the Journal. He served as editor of the Tribune and manager of the Journal until 1888 when he sold his interest in those papers.

Colonel Blethen repurchased the Tribune the following year, but fire destroyed the building in November of the same year and he thus suffered heavy losses. In 1890 he erected the new Tribune building at a big cost, but the great financial panic of 1893 brought disaster to him and he lost all he had saved.

While in Minnesota he served as colonel on the staffs of both Governor Nelson and Governor Clough.

In 1896 Colonel Blethen came to Seattle, where he purchased the Times, a small evening paper. The Sunday Times was added in 1902.

Colonel Blethen was married in 1869 to Miss Rose Ann Hunter, of Strong, Maine. They have four children: Alden Joseph Blethen, Jr., Clarence B. Blethen, Mrs. Florence Blethen-Duffy and Mrs. Marion Blethen-Mesdag, all living in Seattle.

CITY HALL NEWS

Lola Foster and C. C. Smith, who were arrested last night by the Salem police on charges of disorderly conduct, both entered pleas of not guilty this morning and their cases were set for trial this afternoon. It was charged in the complaint that Lola Foster and C. C. Smith were found to be occupying room No. 5 at a rooming house on Front street at about 2 o'clock this morning, when they were arrested. Both parties in the case explained that Mr. Smith had rented the room about a month ago when Mrs. Foster was at Chemawa. Then she came back to town and Smith went away and she took the room. Smith said he was going to Chemawa to start to work this morning and went to the room to pack up his belongings and was waiting for the 1:35 Oregon Electric. While waiting he sat down on the bed, according to his story, and fell asleep on the bed in which Mrs. Foster was sleeping.

Upon being questioned by the officers they both admitted that they had lived together as man and wife for five years and that they were not married. Mrs. Foster said she had borne children by Smith.

Charles Knapp and Jean Hoss, who were arrested in Portland on four charges of burglary yesterday, were found to have in their possession a 17-jewelled Elgin watch, which Hoss admitted having taken from the residence of Paul Berger at 1045 Chemeketa street in this city, according to information received by Chief Welsh yesterday evening. The Portland officers wish to try the men in that city on the charges against them there and after that will turn them over to the officers in this city. The watch belonging to Mr. Berger will be returned at once. Mr. Berger's residence was entered some time ago and the burglars took a trunk out of the room in which Mr. Berger was sleeping and took $12 from it in addition to the watch which they took from his trousers.

According to information received by Chief Welsh today, Jean Hoss is the son-in-law of Mr. Berger, and was, of course, familiar with the premises.

Fred Steiner paid a fine of $15 in police court today on a charge of cutting corners. The fact that Steiner has been in before the court three times for various charges in connection with the traffic regulations was the reason for the heavy fine.

F. A. Taylor, who was arrested last night on a charge of riding his bicycle on the sidewalk contrary to the city ordinance, pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was given the minimum fine of $2.50 by Acting Recorder Elgin.

TOOZE SAYS POLICE ARE HOUNDING HIM FOR SPITE WORK

Will Fight the Case to a Finish To Clear His Name Of Stain

"I am going to fight the case to the finish," said Walter L. Tooze this morning, in reference to his case now pending in police court in which he is charged with "keeping open a rear and side door entrance to a billiard and pool room operated by him at 306 State street, in the city of Salem, in the regular course of business."

"This door in question," said Mr. Tooze, "opens on a main thoroughfare. I did not open the door myself, yet I am the one arrested and charged with a crime. It was opened by Mr. Patterson, my partner, for a distance of about 14 inches, to get a breath of fresh air."

"I came to Oregon 30 years ago and have spent 25 years of this time in Marion county. I have always been a booster and have been in public life to advance and promote the best interests of this county and city, and this is how I am paid for it—charged with a crime. Of course it is not true, but a falsehood goes further than the truth every time. And all because I did not support the present chief of police in his race for this office.

"I, personally, have been hounded and my place of business has been under the surveillance of the lynx-eyed police department every minute since the first of the year. I have been accused of bootlegging when ever the prohibition papers admitted the charges were false. My place has been raided as a gambling den when the only evidences of a game of chance found by the officers were an old cat and three kittens in a barrel in the basement. Never has a drop of liquor been found in my place, above or below, though it has been searched with the evident intention to injure my business.

"I took City Attorney Trindle through that door in question and out through Hauser Bros.' across the street to George Waters' cigar store. There we found the rear door open. The same is found at Kane's, Klett's, Bligh's and Paul Monarch's. All these men keep their rear doors open as they have a just and perfect right to where they have toilet facilities in the rear. It simply shows that I am the 'goat.'

"My case will be tried July 28, and you may say that Walter L. Tooze will deliver the principal address. I will be assisted by Walter L. Tooze, Jr., a son, who is an attorney in Dallas, and by L. H. McMahan, of Woodburn, who has been my friend for years, and who offers his services gratis in my defense. I ask no quarter from the public or from Chief Welsh, as this is to be a finish fight, and I can depend upon the inherant justice of the American citizen to vindicate me in this case."
