Whale for City Museum.—With every bone intact, the skeleton of the whale which came ashore at Tilliamook Bay this week will in all probability be added to the City Museum before long. The body as it now lies on the beach at Bayocean Park is 45 feet long, and measurs 12 feet across at the thickest part. It is seldom that the skeleton of whale as 12 feet across at the thickest part. It is seldom that the skeleton of a whale can be obtained complete, so when E. P. Sheldon, curator of the City Museum, was offered the skeleton yesterday by the owners of the seaside resort, he conditionally accepted it at once. It is believed that space can be found for His Whale-ship in the City Hall. If not, then the skeleton will probably be placed in the Porestry building at the Exposition grounds. Lime will be used to clean off the flesh, and by Spring the bones should be in fit condition for transportation. The whale stranded on the Bayocean Park peninsula, a few hundred yards south of the entrance of Tillamook Bay.

Object To Closing Bridge—The an-

OBJECT TO CLOSING BRIDGE.—The an-ouncement that the Burnside bridge will be closed to all travel for two months while repairs are being made is received ith indignation by business men on East with indignation by business men on East Burnside street and on Union and Grand avenues near East Burnside street. It is admitted that the county will save several thousand dollars by allowing the contractors to keep the bridge closed while rebuilding the east end approach and making repairs, but the business men say that they will lose much more then the county gains. It is pointed out that while the Morrison bridge was being rebuilt it was kept open both to streetcars. while the Morrison bridge was being re-bellt it was kept open both to streetcars and pedestrians for months, being abso-lutely closed but 10 days. A movement is on foot to ask the County Court to ar-range with the contractor to keep one side of the bridge open, thereby distrib-uting the money loss among the people f the entire city.

INTEREST IN ARTS AND CRAFTS.-Con-INTEREST IN ARTS AND CRAFTS.—Considerable interest was displayed at the meeting of the Arts and Crafts Society, which was held yesterday afternoon, at the Art Museum, though the committee of 15 appointed at the preliminary meeting by Judge C. H. Carey, consumed the greater pertion of the time in deciding on the constitution and bylaws. On Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, another meeting will be held at the Museum of Art, when the officers will be elected and the constitution adopted. From the great enthusiasm which has already been manifested Portlanders are assured of an the Interest of the Inter unifested Portlanders are assured of an ganization that will rank among the set handicraft workers in the country, ater the society is planning to form a school with a salesroom attached, where those whose work has been approved of by a committee will be enabled to dis-play their handlwork, and thus stimulate an appreciation of the artistic.

Will Hold an Inquest.—After investigating the circumstances leading up to the death of N. Becker, who died early yesterday morning in a hospital, as a result of injuries received in the freight elevator of the Portland Hardware Company's warehouse, Chief Deputy Coroner Arthur L. Finley has decided to hot, an inquest. It will occur at 420 o'clock this afternoon. Becker is survived by his wife and two children.

STRUCK BY STREETCAR.—While driving across the tracks of the Mount Scott divi-sion of the Portland Railway, Light & Fower Company, at Front and Madison streets, at 7 o'clock last night. E. GRET

The Story of a Pagan

BY BEATRICE MANTLE

RET is a human paradox: The daughter of a gentleman, brought up in an Oregon lumber-camp, she loves the big outdoors and scorns the conventional.

She has the trained mind of a man, but the heart of a woman and the sweet innocence of a child. Gret fights for happiness and the right to live her own life as most people fight for fame and fortune, till, in the end, this clean-souled little pagan finds that love is the greatest of all. A fine, gripping dramatic novel of love and adventure in the Oregon woods.
