

BISHOP OF ALASKA VISITS PORTLAND

PRaises HEROIC WOMEN

Many Volunteer to Conduct Schools, Missions and Hospitals in Wilderness, but Young Men Are Found Wanting.

Bishop P. T. Rowe, head of the Episcopal Church in Alaska, is a guest at the Hotel Portland. Bishop Rowe has lived in Alaska 12 years and, as he said last night, expects to spend the rest of his life there. He was an old-timer, a seasoned "masher" even before the Klondike was discovered and has seen Alaska develop from a frozen waste apparently forever worthless to man, into a field of active endeavor and rapidly extending civilization. Where once were only dog trails, now double bands of steel stretch out from the coast toward the interior, the locomotive climbs mountains and roars through canyon that were once in the solitude of the wilderness.

"Alaska is a wonderful place," said the Bishop last night. "It is a good place for a young man to go to. You must remember that the name Alaska if applied to an extent of country about the size of the Mississippi or the Columbia Valley watershed, with thousands of square miles to spare. At present the section making the most rapid progress is along the southeastern coast, especially in the vicinity of Prince William Sound. In 20 years at the longest, I believe, Portland and all other cities will be connected with that section by a railroad, following the coast line in a general way, probably.

Not a Frozen Waste.

"Alaska is not a frozen waste. This year we raised strawberries in Fairbanks, and that is inside the Arctic Circle. Along the southeastern coast are to be found in summer myriads of different butterflies of the kinds common to the United States, and hundreds of different flowers. This shows what the climate is. Along Prince William Sound the snow does not fall until October or November, and it is all gone in May. But the snow really does pile up in winter. Where it merely rains here it snows there, and one winter we had a snow fall of 72 feet in Valdez.

"Valdez is at the head of Prince William Sound, with Matanuska, Katella and Cordova not far away. At present Katella is the leading seaport. Cordova is too shallow for a good harbor for large ships, but Valdez is ideal; big, deep and well protected.

"Out of these ports in the near future is coming the coal for the whole Pacific Coast. The whole country to the north of Prince William Sound and at Matanuska, on the projected Alaska Central railroad, is underlaid with coal equal to any in the world. Pennsylvania has not better nor more coal than we have around Prince Williams Sound.

Huge Copper Deposits.

"Copper is there, too, and though we do not yet know just how much of it there is, we do know that we have one of the biggest and richest deposits of copper in the world.

"So far as my own special line of work is concerned, we are using all we can to help the people up there, but they who they may. We have 21 missions, and a mission in the north really means a combined school, church and hospital. And we have 7 hospitals besides. We never have any trouble in getting women to go up there to nurse the sick and teach school, just for the good of the world, but we do have trouble to secure the right kind of young men. For instance, there are now two of the noblest women in the world stationed at Sitka and one away from civilization, back on the Koyukuk River among Indians who have never seen other white women and only a few white prospectors.

Heroines of Present Day.

"You may judge what their life is year in and year out when I say that the mail I am now sending them will not reach them until next June. The quiet heroines of the world live and die today just as they always did, and the pity of it is that but a few ever hear of them. God bless these women! And there are others. I only mention them as an incident of what is being done up there in spiritual ways, as well as for the material things of life."

Bishop Rowe leaves Portland Tuesday for California, where he will remain a week, then return by steamer to Sitka. There is nothing of the snug holy man about Bishop Rowe; he reminds one of the Bishop in Owen Wister's tales of Wyoming, and in some ways of the still nobler Bishop in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables."

PREDICTS GREAT FUTURE

Judge Dietrich Speaks in Glowing Terms of Pacific Northwest.

United States Judge F. S. Dietrich, of the District of Idaho, was in Portland yesterday on his way to Tacoma, where for two weeks he will hold court in the place of Judge Edward Whitson. Concerning recent public matters in Idaho Judge Dietrich declined to speak for publication. He was accompanied from Idaho to Portland by his friend, United States Senator W. E. Borah, as I rode down the Columbia all day I marvelled on what a river it is, he said last night. "This country is still in its cradle, and some day, not far off either, it will have millions where now live only thousands. When Portland has the products from the millions of rich acres in Idaho that today are only sage brush, to say nothing of the other territory this city is the outlet for, when that day dawns as it must, this and other cities of this great Northwest will be lanes of industry. The wheat fields to the east of Portland must help feed the millions of Asia, and we in turn need the things that they have over there. What it will end in a man hardly dares to predict.

"Think of what the Atlantic Coast was only a century ago, and then think of what this Coast will be right here a century hence. I know little of the Nothing is more exciting on a stage than a railroad train with an impending wreck, involving a great loss of life. A scene of this character is vividly reproduced this week at the Star Theater in "The Girl Engineer." The French Stock Company opened with this new drama yesterday and the result suited the audience better than anything the stock company has offered in several weeks. The play is a story of life on the rail, with its dangers, heroism and its humorous sides. It was written by Charles A. Taylor, prince of melodramatic writers. There will be matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

"The Girl" at the Lyric.

Expectations are keyed up over the bill tonight at the Lyric. # APPEAL MADE TO GENEROUS PUBLIC

Upon Result of Canvass Tomorrow Depends Rose Festival's Success.

MUST SECURE $100,000

Amount Fixed as Limit None Too Large in View of Elaborate Plans Made — Damrosch Orchestra Coming.

Upon the generosity of the people of Portland as exhibited today and tomorrow will depend the magnitude of the Rose Festival of next year. If the Rose Festival canvass of more than 300 whirlwind canvassers during these two days active hustlers during these two days results in the pledging of $100,000, the mark set, the celebration will be, without question, the finest and most spectacular demonstration ever witnessed on the Pacific Coast. And whether it shall be consummated upon the broad scale outlined or not, is a matter that is entirely up to the public-spirited citizens of the Rose City.

All the days and weeks of planning on the part of the board of directors and the ways and means committee have looked forward to the work of "campaign day" tomorrow, but that as much ground as possible might be covered by the canvassers, preliminary work has been going on for several days past, for it was found utterly impossible to make a complete clean-up in one day, no matter how many committees were put in the field.

The festival management feels that it is not too much to ask $100,000 for a whole week's jubilee, for the same dollar that other cities like Los Angeles, New Orleans, Kansas City, St. Louis, where floral feasts and pageants are regular annual events, spends hundreds of thousands of dollars for the gala events many months before they are to be held.

Where Portland Has Advantage.

Therefore it is felt that $100,000 is a modest estimate of the money needed to make the festival the grandest ever held in the Pacific Northwest. Every dollar contributed will go much farther here than elsewhere, because Portland has an inexhaustible wealth of roses and other flowers, whereas other cities have to embellish their parades with, and make their decorations of artificial foliage and blossoms. In addition to this, no feast of flowers at Los Angeles or Priests of Pallas at Kansas City has ever been graced by the presence of the President of the United States, and there is every reason to believe that Mr. Roosevelt will attend the Portland Rose Festival, because the united efforts of the Coast States, with the Alaska-Tukon-Pacific Exposition management, will be exerted to bring him to the Northwest next Summer, making this his first visit here since May, 1904, just prior to the last National campaign.

Correspondence is now being carried on between the festival management and the Chicago Real Estate Board, the most influential organization of its character in America, with a view of persuading its members to make Portland their objective point on their junketing tour of the Pacific Coast next Summer. The board, some weeks ago, decided, at its annual banquet, that it would make a trip to the Pacific Slope some time during the Summer of 1908, but did not fix the date, leaving that to the executive committee to decide upon at some later time.

As soon as the festival Association learned of this, steps were taken to persuade the board to arrange its itinerary so that it could be here some time during the first week of June. Festival literature, together with a full explanation of the various attractions, will be forwarded to the Chicago real estate men, and the influence of the general passenger agents of the transcontinental railroads will supplement the invitation of Rose City people.

Great Musical Festival.

As a part of the general arrangements that have already been made for brilliant events of all kinds, some of the best musical talent in America will be forwarded to the Chicago real estate men, and the influence of the general passenger agents of the transcontinental railroads will supplement the invitation of Rose City people.

CURES ALL LAME BACKS

Mix This Simple, Helpful Recipe at Home and Try It, Anyway.

Get from any prescription pharmacy the following: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

Rose Planting Day.

Some time this week it is expected the Park Board will decide whether or not it will approve of a general rose planting day throughout the city, and a formal planting of roses by the public on the Plaza Park blocks. This matter was brought to the attention of the Board more than a week ago, and the delay in arriving at a decision has been due to the Board's inability to get into communication with G. H. Olmstead, of Olmstead Bros., expert landscape gardeners and authors of the famous Olmstead Park and boulevard plan.

Should the Board approve of this project, it is believed that "Rose Planting Day" will prove one of the best advertising plans for the Rose City yet devised, particularly when it can be demonstrated to Eastern people that Portland can plant flowers by the wholesale, even as late as the middle of November, which will probably be the time set for rose planting in case the scheme is endorsed.

Summed up briefly, for the benefit of those who will be called upon to open wide their purses and check books, today and tomorrow, the Festival Association desires to call attention to some of the most important attractions which the Festival will endeavor to have as inducements for large crowds, not only from the Coast but from everywhere, to be here at that time:

Some of the Attractions.

President Roosevelt as chief guest of honor.

Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans, as guest of honor, with a magnificent fleet of warships, the greatest aggregation of seafighters ever mobilized in Pacific waters. Governors and staffs from all Western states.

Governor of Hawaii, with territorial officials, and delegation of business men.

California State Board of Trade, with affiliated Boards of Trade from the chief cities of the Southern state.

New York Symphony Orchestra, Walter Damrosch director, the greatest musical aggregation that ever crossed the continent.

A number of other attractions of signal importance, that are now being arranged for.

It is for the purpose of providing a fit environment, or local setting, for such attractions, that the Festival Association is making its earnest appeal for $100,000. To entertain fittingly such distinguished guests and celebrities, expenditures must be on a lavish and unsparing scale, and it is considered by the men behind the Festival as altogether a most modest estimate, that all such expenses of the must be prudently and wisely expended. If the proposed plans are to be consummated.

NO WINTER BALL GAMES

National Commission Refuses to Meet California State League.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—There will be no winter games between the California State League and the major league clubs. This point was ruled upon by the National Baseball Commission at its meeting this afternoon on a contention raised by the Pacific Coast League. The California State League, which is an "outlaw," desired to arrange a series of games with Eastern clubs, between the regular baseball seasons. The practice of "farming" out players was also given its death blow by a decision of the Commission to revise the rules governing sales with options for recall of players so as to provide that all such options in either major or minor leagues should be made by August 20 of each year and the players required to report at once to the club exercising the option, with the further provision that no club could enter into such contract with options for recall more than once for the same players.

part of Portland Heights is farther out than Ladd's Addition. Irvington is about one and a half times further out from Third and Washington streets than Ladd's Addition. It is almost twice as far from down town to the City Park as it is from down town to Ladd's Addition. Many other comparisons in distance could be made that would show Ladd's Addition one of the most favored locations in the city. Its magnificent conveniences in this respect make Ladd's Addition, without question, an unusually desirable place for the erection of a home.

Strange as it may appear, and interesting, as well, a few moments with the map of Portland will reveal many startling truths about the distance of Ladd's Addition from the landmarks of the city. Ladd's Addition is actually nearer to First and Washington streets than King's Heights. From the west end of the Morrison-street bridge to Ladd's Addition is a shorter distance than from the same point to the Union Depot. It is practically the same number of blocks from Fifth and Washington
