

MAURETANIA DOES NOT BEAT RECORD

Storms Retard Passage and Her Time Is Five Days, Five Hours and Ten Minutes.

HAS $12,500,000 IN GOLD

Brings Largest Shipment of Specie on Record for Western Banks.

Longest Day's Run Is 717.6 Miles, Breaking Record.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Poking her nose through a dense curtain of fog that hid the the enveloping shroud, the biggest, the most luxurious ship ever launched on any sea...

Bearing a fortune of $12,500,000 in gold for the money markets of the West she fought her way through 2000 miles of storm-swept ocean, battling every mile of the course to meet and defeat the world's trans-Atlantic speed record of four days, 18 hours and 40 minutes...

Head winds and tumultuous cross seas baffled the attempt, yet the Mauretania won the coveted right to fly a "blue ribbon" at her peak. On Thursday, November 21, Captain Pritchard drove the huge ship 21 knots (75.6 miles) by the favor of a shift in the wind to the north-east...

The average speed of the passage was 22.1 knots, or 24.1 miles an hour. Her average speed on her record day's run of 824 knots was 23.9 miles an hour. Her poorest day average was 20.31 knots an hour, from noon of November 19 to noon of November 19. Captain Pritchard believes that in a fair weather passage he can beat the Lusitania from coast to coast.

The Mauretania is 792 feet in length over all—two feet longer than the Lusitania; has a beam of 88 feet, a depth of hold of 40 feet; is 150 feet high from keel to funnel tops, and 216 feet from keel to masthead; draws 37 feet 6 inches of water (mean estimate); has a tonnage displacement of 4,900; is indited with horsepower of 10,000; was launched on the Tyne, England, September 20, 1906; carries a crew of 800-odd officers and men; has accommodations for 520 passengers in the first-class cabins, 500 in the second class and 1200 in the steerage. She cost approximately $7,500,000.

The $12,500,000 gold brought by the Mauretania is said to be the largest shipment of specie ever carried by a ship. It was conveyed to the vessel at Queens-town in six specially guarded cars.

WIRELESS HERALDS ARRIVAL

Tells of Enthusiastic Concert on Board Last Night of the Run.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP MAURETANIA, by Wireless. South-west Fleet, Mass., Nov. 22.—A most enthusiastic concert was held on board this vessel last night. Sir Clifton Robinson was chairman and speeches were made by G. B. Hunter, S. S. McClure and Frank W. Doubleday. Irish songs and poems by Rudyard Kipling, set to music, were sung by Dennis O'Sullivan. The collection for the seamen's fund amounted to $550. Unanimous congratulations from the passengers were cable to the Cunard Company.

PROVE WOMAN IS INSANE

break off the relationship. Then Mrs. Bradley cried and denied Brown's statement, saying she and Brown had an understanding that Brown was to get a divorce, and she still believed Brown would keep his promise. Mr. Henderson said:

From One Emotion to Another.

"She seemed to be going from one emotion to another. At one time she would wring her hands and at another would appear elated, saying she was 'all right' and that Arthur would do what he had said he would. She said that she had entered on the relationship with the understanding that they should become man and wife."

She complained of the fate of her children if Brown did not marry her, saying:

"Of course, everybody will blame me, and he will escape. Right here in Utah I have done nothing but what the whole people of Utah have done by Arthur Brown. They trusted him with their best office and I trusted him."

"But of course, results are very different," the witness said he remarked.

She told Mr. Henderson of Brown's having performed an illegal operation on her. She seemed to be dominated by two absolutely inconsistent emotions, despair and hope. She appeared rational, though very emotional.

District Attorney Baker, reading from one of Mrs. Bradley's letters about an interview with the witness, said:

"He laid his head on his desk and sobbed," Mr. Henderson said; "that was not at that interview," but admitted he was shocked.

Brown Sometimes Was Drunk.

The witness said Brown was a drinking man, but did not drink constantly; he would go for months without drinking at all. The witness had seen him staggering drunk a few times. He would frequently go into the office intoxicated and lie down on a lounge. His character was erratic, sometimes bad, sometimes better. When he was drinking it was bad.

Referring to Brown's written acknowledgment of the paternity of the children, Mr. Baker asked:

"What would you say? Was he under the influence of liquor when he wrote that, or not?"

"I don't know," said the witness, frowning a little. "He might have, that might have been one thing, and then he may have been in the dark. His eyesight was not good, as he suffered from iritis."

Brown's temperament, he said, was eccentric to the last degree; he was angry at somebody always, whereas Mrs. Bradley laughed aloud.

Made Idol of Brown.

Samuel A. King was recalled and questioned again regarding Mrs. Bradley's state of mind during his conversations with her. He said she was extremely agitated and laboring under very great stress of mind. He said that at that time Mrs. Bradley's admiration of Brown amounted to idolatry. Witness had regarded her as on the verge of mental collapse.

"In the conversation with you she was rational, was she not?" asked Mr. Baker.

"At times I thought her quite irrational," replied the witness, adding that Mrs. Bradley had no control of the emotions. "She was a perfect nervous wreck," he said.

Insanity in Family.

Lyman Shrewsbury, postmaster at Bonnedoon, Cal., an uncle by marriage of Mrs. Bradley, testified that Mrs. Bradley's father is paralytic; that her grandfather, on the mother's side was very eccentric; and that his own wife, who was a sister of Mrs. Bradley's mother, had been irrational whenever worried. She often took a butcher knife to bed with her and was ready to fight any one. On one occasion she was armed with both knives and threatened to kill her sister-in-law. Another sister of Mrs. Bradley's mother, Mrs. Ryan, had been sent to an asylum. Mrs. Bradley several times prompted this witness.

Brown's Promise to Marry.

Mrs. Bradley's mother, Mrs. Maddison, was recalled to testify concerning a visit by her (Mrs. Maddison's) sister, Mrs. Sweney, in 1903, when Mrs. Sweney was wanted to take the Bradley children. Brown, she said, was there and objected. He said that in no circumstances could they go; that he would provide for her (Mrs. Bradley) and that he meant to marry her.

Assistant District Attorney Given was called by the defense to testify to the fact that, when he went to Santa Cruz, Cal., to take the deposition of Mrs. Bradley's father, M. H. Maddison, he found Mr. Maddison to be a paralytic. He was cross-examined by his chief, Mr. Baker.

Mr. Wells, one of Mrs. Bradley's attorneys, then began reading Brown's letters to Mrs. Bradley and continued until court took an adjournment until Monday.
