

SAYS SOCIALISM IS NOT REMEDY

Labor's Only Salvation Is Loyalty to Unions, Declares Father Yorke.

MUST ORGANIZE FURTHER

San Francisco Priest Tells Workingmen to Complete Work Begun. Craft Prosecutions in the Bay City Bode Them Evil.

Discussing the "Labor Question" at Merrill's Hall last night under the auspices of the trades unions of this city, Rev. Peter C. Yorke, of San Francisco, said that only by loyalty to their organizations could union men hope further to better their conditions. Socialism, declared the speaker, was not the remedy under present conditions and he urged union workingmen to complete the organization of their crafts throughout the United States. It was asserted that the right of laboring men to organize could not be denied, but in seeking to build up their organizations, they were advised to avoid politics entirely and to rely for further advantages altogether on their unions which had obtained for them the improved conditions they now enjoy.

Before proceeding with his address, Rev. Father Yorke commended on the fact that some of Henry's friends had criticized Yorke for being "too vulgar" in his reference to the graft prosecutor since coming to Portland. The speaker did not offer any apology for what he had said, but did remark that he "considered it very unusual that any friend of Henry should set himself up as an expert on vulgarity."

"Unions stand for one thing and one thing alone," declared the speaker, "better remuneration, better hours and better conditions. The right of the laboring man to organize cannot be denied, and he should be educated to know that he not only can organize, but can do so with a purpose that is lawful in order to better his condition. This is a law of humanity itself, inherent in human nature, and any law, rule or enactment which goes against that right is not only unjust, but is a violation of the law of God."

Portland Rabbi Discusses San Francisco Graft Trials.

DECLARES JUDGE UNFIT

Assault on Rabbi Nieto and Kaplan Characterized as Display of Bad Temper, Vulgar Abuse and Malicious Rage.

In his address last night in Temple Beth Israel, on "Mordcaai in the Gateway," Rabbi Jonathan B. Wise, referred to the recent incident in San Francisco graft trials, when Judge Dunne characterized Rabbi Nieto and Kaplan, concerned in Ruse's contract with the prosecution, as "willful, vicious falsifiers." The incident was cited as an example of the methods of the prosecution.

Dr. Wise also referred to the recent activity among the anarchists and the folly of allowing such a woman as Emma Goldman to go about the country preaching her doctrine of violence and hatred, and he expressed the hope that her contemplated appearance in Portland would be prevented.

Dr. Wise's address was in part as follows: The designation of two rabbis by Judge Dunne, of San Francisco, as "willful, vicious falsifiers" is a display of bad temper, vulgar abuse and malicious rage that bids fair to stamp the gentleman as unfit to sit in judgment upon the accused.

Ruse is a menace to the public welfare and should long ago have been incarcerated. Owing to the bungling of the Henry-Burns-Dunne crowd he is about to be set at liberty with a prospect of escape. It is a disgrace, whose fault is it? The gentleman whose violent denunciation I am unable to deny, without, however, being able to forget himself as to stoop to partisan and almost obscene invective there is occasion for remonstrance.

HAVE 4,000 SIGNATURES PETITIONS FOR HIGH BRIDGE TO GO TO COUNCIL.

North East Side Improvement Association Decides to Call Them In at Once. The North East Side Improvement Association last night decided to call in all bridge petitions to prepare them for submission to the City Council. Mr. Scott today withdrew from sale all eastbound tickets at the local office. The Tacoma office will be maintained by the Harriman company on route business east over the Hill line to Spokane and can collect tickets from Portland east. The office force will be reduced April 1 on account of reduced business.

No announcement of eastbound summer rates from Portland over Harriman lines has yet been made. If Harriman is to get into the Puget Sound and the Grays Harbor country the rate from Portland will have to be cut to absorb the fare to connect with his lines. Local railroad men believe such rates would prove one of the most severe rate wars in the history of Western railroading.

HILL LINE WILL BUILD DOWN NORTH BANK OF COLUMBIA FROM KALAMA AND EVENTUALLY TO SOUND. Under the name of the Grays Harbor & Columbia River Railroad, the Hill interests will build a railroad down the north bank of the Columbia River from Kalama and north to South Bend and Aberdeen. This road will be a continuation of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway and will eventually extend to Tacoma and Seattle. The present Northern Pacific line from Portland to the Puget Sound cities is one of heavy grades, and an entirely new route is necessary if a railway of modern construction is to be secured. Besides, the present road, in prosperous times, has all the traffic it can carry. Double-tracking is impracticable and the projected route will carry freight from the Columbia River as well as much of the transcontinental freight that is now handled by the Hill line. A railroad of easy grades that would carry this tonnage, even though of longer mileage would be more economical for the Hill line than to haul the traffic of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific across the heavy grades of the present lines crossing the Cascades. The new line will tap the big lumber and shingle districts of the Lower Columbia River on the Washington shore and will open up an entirely new territory to the projected transportation line.
