VESSEL HITS ROCK NEAR YAQUINA BAY

Unknown Schooner Goes Ashore

TWO OF RESCUE PARTY PERISH

Members of Life-Saving Crew Reported Drowned.

DETAILS NOT OBTAINABLE

Otter Rock Is Scene of Wreck, Ten Miles North of Newport-Boat Was Lumber-Laden-Probably From Grays Harbor Port.

NEWPORT, Or., May 3 .- (Special.)-An unknown steam schooner, lumber laden and waterlogged, is fast on a rock near the entrance to Yaquina Bay.

CORVALLIS, Or., May 3.-(Special.)-Telephone messages from Newport give meager reports of the grounding of an unknown vessel on Otter Rock, ten miles up the coast from Newport, at noon to

The Yaquina Bay live-saving crew went to the scene and in an effort to rescue those on board the craft, two of the life-saving crew were struck by the parting of a rope, knocked from the lifeboat and drowned.

the wreck had not returned at 7 o'clock this evening, and it was impossible to obtain any account of the disaster.

Otter Rock, where an unknown schooner struck at noon yesterday, is about ten miles north of the entrance to Yaquina Bay and is one of a half dozen points or promontories that jut into the Pacific in that vicinity. This rock is familiar to all Summer resorters who visit Yaquina Bay and is the destination of thousands of people each year who make the trip there and to the Devil's Punch Bowl, because of the magnificent scenery.

The rock is half a mile off shore and is surrounded by deep water. Though it is well in the track of southbound steamers, no accident is known to have occurred there before.

The cause of the accident is of course unknown, but in view of its being in the usual course of coasters it is not much of a hazard to venture that the craft became disabled while in proximity to the rock and, powerless to resist wind and tide, was carried onto it,

The statement that two of the lifesaving crew were drowned as a result of a rope breaking, probably means that the lifeboat was made fast to the wrecked schooner and that a heavy swell struck the boat with sufficient to sever the line, and, in snapping back, one end struck the unfor tunate lifesavers with terrific force and knocked them overboard into the swift-rushing surf, which, even in Summer, lashes the rock in an awe-inspiring manner.

The vessel was probably one of the lumber carriers operating between Grays Harbor and San Francisco. No boat has left the Columbia River which would be in that vicinity unless she had been disabled and had drifted at the mercy of the wind and waves.

Incipient Revolution Quenched by Peruvian President.

LIMA, Peru, May 3 .- Government troops have been sent out by President Pardo on the receipt of reports here that an surrection was brewing not far from this city. Alarm was felt in government circles on Friday night, when it was ru-mored that the insurgent leader, Dr. Durand, with 200 of his men, attempted to cut the wires of the electric light-ing plant which supplies the current for the lighting of Lima and the suburbs. President Pardo passed Saturday night in the harracks and this morning adal troops were sent out in search of the insurgents.

CRIME DONE NEAR HEPPNER

Crazed Lover Orders Victims to Pray, Then Shoots.

RIDE WITH THE DEAD GIRL

in His Shoulder-Lover Later Turns the Gun on Himself.

HEPPNER, Or., May 3 .- (Special.)-Crazed with jealousy, at 3:30 this afternoon, Henry P. Morrison, a brakeman on the Heppner branch of the O. R. & N., shot and killed his sweetheart, Nora Wright, wounded her escort, Barney Ahalt, and later turned the same gun on himself in an attempt at suicide, in one of the most startling crimes in the history of Morrow County. The tragedy occurred near Morgan, between Heppner and Cecils. It has been the custom of Morrison, after his run was finished on Saturday nights, to take a "speeder" and go back down the track to Cecils, where he would spend the evening and Sunday with Miss Wright. Last night he went down as usual. It is not known whether the young people had a quarrel or not, but Morrison returned to Heppner and this afternoon again started down the track toward Cecils.

First Shot Is Fatal.

"I am authorized by Mrs. William Thaw that the story to the effect that the Thaw family is opposed to Harry Thaw's release is without foundation. While it is not necessary for them to take any active part in the matter, nevertheless they are all in full sympathy." About two miles below Morgan the wagon road runs close to the track, and it is here that Morrison met Miss Wright driving in company with Ahalt. He jumped from the speeder, ran out into the road and commanded Ahalt to stop, saying, "You folks had better begin say ing your prayers." Then he opened fire with a revolver.

The girl turned partly aside at his ommand, and the first shot fired struck her in the back of the head, killing her instantly.

ing Ahalt in the shoulder and causing a lesh wound. Ahalt whi ned the team into a run, Morrison returned to the speeder and also went back to Morgan. There he found that the girl was dead. Going into the wheat warehouse of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., he placed the muzzle of the gun wound was not immediately fatal, and for several hours the wounded man lay in the warehouse without medical attendance. Dr. Chick, of Iona, was called to attend him, but no hope was held out for his recovery.

Brooded Over His Trouble.

Morrison had been brooding over some thing for the past week or two. Conductor Wall, of the same run, says he found him in the baggage car one day, sobbing as if his heart would break. Saturday night his landlady in this city found him in the back yard, where he had been for some time, crying. To he he said that he was having trouble. He obtained the revolver with which he did the shooting from Express Messenger Smith, telling him that he wished to shoot a dog that ran out at him while passing a ranch.

Miss Wright's parents live at Cecils, where they own a ranch adjoining the

The Coroner will leave here for the scene of the tragedy in the morning, accompanied by the Sheriff and Prosecuting Attorney.

ARLINGTON, Or., May 3 .- (Special.)-Word has just been received here that Henry Morrison, a brakeman on the Heppner branch and formerly of this city shot and killed Nora Wright, wounded her escort, Barney Ahalt, and later attempted suicide by shooting himself in the head. John Long, bartender; arms broken. The complete destruction of the interior of the hotel makes the work of recovering bodies a difficult task. A confused heap of charred wood, bricks and twisted girders is piled up between the bare walls to the second story. Piece by piece this must be removed before the roll of the dead can be completed. Some of the bodies taken out are mangled and charred beyond recognition.

Night Clerk's Herole Work.

Infantry Company D and Battery D of the National Guard are on duty and aiding the fire and police forces to clear away the debris.

The fire was discovered at 3:20 o'clock this morning in the elevator shaft by Night Clerk Ralph Hopkins. He rushed to the upper floors alarming the guests, until the flames, which had spread with appalling rapidity, drove him back. His efforts, however, saved many lives.

The hotel was erected 50 years ago and the woodwork was dry as tinder. It burned like matchwood and within a few minutes from the time the fire was discovered the whole of the hotel was a mass of flames that filled the corridors and rooms with suffocating clouds of smoke and laid flery barriers across all means of escape save by the windows. Guests Leap From Windows.

The Fire Department rescued many persons by means of ladders, but some, frenzied by the onward rush of the flames, leaped from high windows to the paved streets.

R. S. Johnson, of Pana, Ill., jumped from the fifth story. His body struck a balcony and bounded far into the street. He was a crushed and bleeding mass when picked up, and died a short time later in St. Joseph's Hospital.

As the flames increased, men and women were seen in the windows of their rooms, where they wildly implored help. Those who got from rooms before the flames cut off their retreat were able to make their way to the fire escapes and so were saved with comparative ease. Soon the flames curled about the fire escapes. Some Lieutenant Cone commanding, sailed out | Dosch, who is well known in Portland, of the more hardy ones braved the building without injury,

May Be 20 Bodies in Ruins.

A score or more of women employed in the hotel were in the upper room in the rear of the hotel. Most of them escaped without injury, but some in their fright leaped to the alley and were more or less injured.

That there are still many bodies in the ruins is the belief of Fire Chief Hilbrecht and Chief of Police Ancken-bruck. Chief Anckenbruck, basing his estimate on the reports of the police, gives the number of dead in the ruins at 6 o'clock at 20. At that hour eight bodies had been recovered. A guest on the fifth floor, who was aroused at the outbreak of the fire and escaped, says he believes very few on the fifth floor

The New Avelina Hotel was a six-story building of brick, in the busi-ness center of the city. Its erection was begun in 1852, but it was not completed until several years later. In 1895 the building was extensively re-modeled and two stories were added. The hotel and furnishings were valued #### carrying their toll of dead. Escape in Scant Clothing.

John P. Strohecher, of New York, after a thrilling escape from death in the flames, reached the ground almost naked. He had no time to gather his apparel, the flames having burst into the room before he was awakened. Scores of men and women reached the ground, some of them with nothing on but their night clothes. None of the guests had time to save his effects. Dry goods and clothing stores were thrown open to men and women, and all who needed apparel were supplied without question.

R. S. Lewis, of Chicago, was driven from his room on the third floor to the window ledge. The flames were lapping about him, and he swung from window to window. Firemen hoisted a ladder to aid him, but it became en-tangled in wires. He became exhaust-ed, his grasp loosened and he dropped just as the ladder was raised under his feet, but it broke his fall and he escaped with his life.

New York Tenement-House Destroyed by Fire.

NEW YORK, May 3 .- An early morn ng fire in a four-story brick tenement at 17 Humboldt street, a thickly-populated district of Brooklyn, caused the death of six persons and the serious injury of four others today. Every member of one famlly, consisting of a mother and four chil-dren, are among the dead. There were many thrilling rescues by police and firemen, and it was due to their brave work that the death list was not larger. A half-dozen or more persons were entrapped in the upper stories and were saved by jumping into life nets. The financial loss caused by the fire is esti-mated at $10,000.

The dead are: Mrs. Dora Abrams, Sadie Abrams, Carrie Abrams, Anna Abrams, Charles Abrams, Mrs. Jennie Cohen. The injured are: Mrs. May Noble, Mrs. Amelia Hirschorn, Fannie Hirschorn, who sustained severe burns; Anna Hirschorn, who suffered a broken shoulder from jumping from a window into a life net. Told That Executive Is Making No. Deals-Anti-Race Track Gambling Bill Not Out of the Woods, However.

BY LLOYD F. LONERGAN. NEW YORK, May 3 .- (Special.) -- On

May 11 the Legislature will convene in special session and the final fate of the anti-racetrack bills and other reform measures be settled. Senators and Assemblymen went to their homes two weeks ago, jeering and laughing at Governor Hughes and his policies. They now find that the people are thoroughly aroused and that conditions are serious. In fact, Woodruff, Parsons, Barnes and others who control the Republican machine have held a number of heart-toheart conferences on the subject. They have not yet decided what action will be taken, although they admit some conmust be mad

Governor Tours State.

Since the close of the Legislature Governor Hughes has been buslly engaged in explaining to voters throughout the state the necessity of enacting into laws the bills he advocates. In New York, Brooklyn, Albany and Troy his remarks have been listened to by large and enthusiastic gatherings. Now he is on a tour of the state which will embrace the districts of most of the Republican Senators who voted against the anti-racetrack bills. In addition he will probably deliver at least one address in the Niagara-Orleans district, where the special election for a Senator is to be held on the day the Legislature convenes.

Puts It Up to People.

It is the Governor's policy to put the matter directly "up to the people." If they want the legislation he believes they do, the remedy is in their own hands. Should they prove indifferent, nobody else can be blamed. Friends of the Governor are emphatic in declaring that any decision arrived at by Woodruff and his allies will have no effect in shaping the course of Hughes. The Governor, they say, will proceed along lines which he has mapped out, and although he will certainly welcome the assistance of the state organization leaders, he will not be deterred by their judgment. Irrespective of what the machine leaders may decide to do, Governor Hughes will work between now and the day for the reconvening of the Legislature to put an aroused public sentiment behind the measures which he believes should be passed, but which the regular session re#### fused to enact on his recommendation. Gambling Bill First.

First in importance, in the Governor's opinion, is the anti-racetrack gambling issue, and his greatest efforts will be devoted to securing affirmative action on the Agnew-Hart bills. But there are also the direct nomination bill and the bill to amend the public service law by adding the telephone and telegraph companies to the corporations now under public regulation. The original plan of the legislative leaders was to meet, turn down everything that the Governor asked and then adjourn. Now, however, they are willing to make concessions. Within the past few days the Governor's lleutenants have been told that the Public Service Commission amendment would be passed "if Hughes consented to adopt a more conciliatory attitude toward the Legislature." What this promise means was not explained by the machine men who made

Making No Deals.

"The Governor is not asking for concessions nor is he making deals," was rests at present.

One fact that has encouraged the Hughes men is the change of heart displayed by State Schator Cassidy, of the Chemung district. Cassidy claims that on the day the vote was taken, and in fact a few minutes before the roll was called, he received the following telegram: "John and I urge you not to stand by the Governor on the race-track bills, owing to conditions in your district.

"J. S. FASSETT." Fassett is also a Congressman, and the two are the arbiters of the political fate of Senator Cassidy. This is given as an explanation of Cassidy's vote against the anti-race track bills, although he had previously pledged him#### self to stand by the Governor. Suddenly Found "Error."

But, of course, what is a pledge any way, when it conflicts with orders? After the Legislature had adjourned, and after Cassidy had heard a few things from his constituents, the discovery is made that there was an
