

40,000 PEOPLE SEE AUTO RACES

Covey in Cadillac Wins First, and H. Bell in Studebaker Takes Second.

NOTHING TO MAR SPORT

Not a Man Hurt, Although Many Cars Are Disabled Early in Each Race—Starting Perfect—Excellent Driving Brought Out.

Before a crowd of fully 40,000 people, strung out over the 14-mile course, H. M. Covey, driving his little Cadillac runabout, won the 50-mile automobile race, covering the distance in 1 hour, 12 minutes, 20 seconds, and Harry Bell, driving a Studebaker, was first in the 100-mile event, in 2 hours, 4 minutes, 3 seconds. Both races furnished surprises, because the wise automobile men had figured that the Thomas 6 would catch the judge's eye in the 50-mile race, and that almost any car in the 100-mile race would turn up winner, save the Studebaker car. To add to the surprise was the fact that in the long-distance event, the Studebaker cars finished one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three, thirty-four, thirty-five, thirty-six, thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two, forty-three, forty-four, forty-five, forty-six, forty-seven, forty-eight, forty-nine, fifty.

because Covey, who was to have started second, moved over the line before getting the word and was made to start last. This would have given Covey fully a second the best of the following car and a second in a race of this sort might have meant the race. Promptly at 1:30 the first car in the opening event was sent off and but for the trouble that several cars got into in this race, the 50-mile race would have pulled off just as promptly. By holding the race back 10 cars were started and at the very last minute several cars were added that were not even in racing trim, just to make up a large field. R. D. Inman started his Thomas without even as much as removing the mud guards. The car made a couple of laps and had to limp back, because the chain would not stay on the gear.

First Race Somewhat Tame.

The first race over the 58.6-mile course was lacking in interest after the machines had sped around once, for only three of the cars passed the grandstand on the first circuit, and only two of them finished. They were Covey's Cadillac, which finished first in 1 hour, 12 minutes and 20 seconds, and Silimmon's White steamer. W. D. Wallace, who was figured to win the half-century event with his Pope-Hartford, had bad luck in both races, his car was disabled in the first lap of the 50-mile race, and in the second race his Thomas 400 experienced trouble with its valves and had to be retired after making one circuit of the course.

Five of the seven starters in the initial race passed the grandstand, although several of the machines made the first circuit while the Thomas 400 and Silimmon's were on their second lap. The chief interest in the race, however, centered in the 100-mile event, in which there were 11 starters out of the 12 entered. Harry Johanson's White steamer was disabled in the first race, and was withdrawn, while R. D. Inman entered his Thomas 400 in lieu of the Thomas 400 disabled in the first event. Inman's car was driven by W. F. Dodd, and after making four laps, was compelled to retire because of trouble with the radiator.

Good Start for Long Race.

The two Studebaker cars, which eventually won the long spin, got off fairly well, although their time for the first lap was beaten by both the Oldsmobile, driven by H. O. Harrison, and the Locomobile, driven by Murray Page. The Locomobile made the best time for a single lap when Page brought his car around the second time in 16 minutes flat. This proved his last trip, for he broke down near the highest pitch of enthusiasm, and when it was learned that the latter machine had become disabled, genuine regret was expressed on all sides. The crowd showed similar expressions when Howard M. Covey, in his Cadillac, was put out of the race by two bad punctures.

Five Laps of Good Racing.

After the elimination of the Locomobile the race narrowed down to the White Steamers, the Thomas Flyer, the Studebakers and the Oldsmobile, and for five laps it was a pretty contest. Just after leaving the finish line on the last lap around the course and being but five minutes behind the Studebaker having had to stop for oil, the Oldsmobile sustained a broken cylinder and had to leave the course near the Russellville schoolhouse. This left the field practically clear to the two Studebaker machines, for the Thomas had retired and the two Whites were somewhat behind, owing to several delays caused by needed repairs to their mechanism. As soon as three machines had finished, word was sent around the course to stop all the other cars which might have repaired and commenced racing again. About the time this order was issued the Thomas had come in sight and finished nicely, although no time was taken.

The performance of each car on each lap of the 100-mile race is told in the accompanying table.
