BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL

Eastern Washington and Northern
Idaho Aroused Over Whereabouts of Desperado—Fugitive Has Gun and Ammunition.

SPokane, Wash., June 9.—(Special.)—More than a score of men, including Sheriff Stone and his chief deputies, today scoured the hills southeast of Spokane in a vain search for William Byrd, who killed John Mankner and G. H. Whipple and probably fatally wounded C. W. Melner, at Dishman, Thursday.

The pursuers beat about the gullies, investigated every clump of trees and interviewed every homesteader and farmer within a radius of 20 miles, but all traces of the fugitive were lost at Miss Peak, where the country is wild and there is ample opportunity of his hiding for months, subsisting on game which is plentiful in that region.

Byrd is believed to be heading for the Coeur d'Alene reservation, which in times gone by has hidden many desperadoes.

The murderer is known to have at least 40 rounds of ammunition and is a dead shot having perforated his last victim with a bullet fired from a rifle held at his hip, the target being a hundred yards distant.

Farmer's Life Threatened.

The only man known to have seen Byrd is a farmer driving along a country road, and this farmer was warned on pain of death not to mention having seen Byrd. The whole country east of the city is excited, and comparison of Byrd's tactics with those of the noted Harry Tracy are heard on all sides. Byrd is regarded as even more dangerous than Tracy, for he is even a better marksman, more vindictive and knows hanging is certain if he is captured.

Bloodhounds from Spokane picked up the scent of Byrd about 9 o'clock Thursday night in the hills just east of the railroad running down the valley. They moved rapidly and soon the trail grew warm. Unmistakable signs of the hunted man were found and the slow speed he was making and the frequent stops showed he was undecided about his route. Finally the trail was lost in the dust and the posse returned to town, resuming the chase again this morning.

Posse Abandons Chase.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the posse again came in, but the search will be continued for days. The sheriff's office expects to hear at almost any moment of country folks being held up by the desperado, and has warned all officers in Eastern Washington and North Idaho.

The desperado is 40 years old and about six feet tall. His hair is dark and his eyes blue. His eyes are large and stick out from his head, while his nose is thin, long and sharp. He walks erect, with a swinging gait. He wore a gray coat, soft yellow shirt, blue overalls and a soft brown hat.

"NEVER" IS COSTLY WORD

Its Use in Bankruptcy Cases Causes
Arrest of Aberdeen Man.

ABERDEEN, Wash., June 9.—(Special.)—The simple word "never," spoken by Dr. A. W. Lueders, a medical specialist of this city, during the proceedings of his bankruptcy case, which was held in Montezuma last month, resulted in his arrest this morning on the charge of perjury. As the result of his preliminary hearing before Judge Tucker this afternoon he was bound over under bond of $500 to await trial at the next term of Superior Court.

During the bankruptcy case Dr. Lueders was asked if he did not purchase a draft of $1200 and transmit it to Portland February 3, 1911. To the question Lueders answered: "I never sent such a draft." It was later discovered that a draft of a like amount was sent February 12, 1911. Lueders contends that he meant he never sent such a draft on that date. The court ruled, however, that "never" meant for all time, and therefore bound the defendant over to wait trial before the Superior Court.

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 9.—(Special.)—In an attempt to decorate his little blue cloth cap with hydrogen balloons at a circus held here today George Morgan, 9 years old, lost his headgear in the clouds.

Master George had come to Vancouver from Salmon Creek, a few miles in the country. He was supplied with 25 cents, with which he bought three balloons. He tied the ends of the strings of the balloons to a small button on the top of his cap and then marched down Main street.

When the balloons and the cap disappeared in the dim distance, little George broke into tears and ran to find his mother to tell her of his tragedy.

BOSTON READY JUNE 15

OREGON NAVAL MILITIA WILL TAKE OVER CRUISER.

Details From Portland and Coos
Bay Divisions Will Bring Boat
Here From Bremerton.

SALEM, Or., June 9.—(Special.)—Y. I. Colman, Rear-Admiral at the Bremerton Navy-Yard, has notified Governor West that the cruiser Boston, for the Oregon Naval Militia, will be in readiness to be manned by Oregon officers on June 15.

For the first time in the history of the service state naval militia will receive a vessel from the hands of the Government at a navy-yard and take it to its future home port, when details from the Coos Bay and Portland divisions receive the Boston June 15 and bring her to the port of Portland by an easy run, arriving the next Sunday.

Jacob B. Speler, Lieutenant-Commander, will leave Portland Sunday for Bremerton, where he will prepare to receive the Boston in the name of the State of Oregon. The details from Portland and Coos Bay will leave Wednesday for Bremerton.

The Boston has been refitted at a cost of approximately $20,000 and is in about the same condition as in 1898, when she was a member of the fleet of Admiral Dewey. Several months ago she was to be ordered sold as no longer of use in the Navy. Bids were about to be opened when the officers of the Oregon Naval Militia petitioned for it as a training ship.

GRESHAM SEES BOOM

MOUNT HOOD LINE TO ESTABLISH HOURLY SERVICE SOON.

Commercial Club Confident That
Carshops Will Go to Town—Station
Under Construction.

GRESHAM, Or., June 9.—(Special.)—It has been announced that cars will be run regularly over the Mount Hood road as far as Gresham in about six weeks. The first service will be given by two locomotives and a gasoline motor, making hourly trips from Portland. The company will open a ticket and express office as soon thereafter as practicable.

Plans for a modern station 24x48 feet are ready, and the structure will be built at once. It will be situated at the head of Roberts avenue, where side-tracks have been laid near the Commercial Club. The Commercial Club favors the bonus of free water as the increased taxes to be assessed against the company would more than offset the cost. The boundary lines of the city would be changed so as to take in the company's property, as it has been requested that such action be taken.

POWER COMPANY IS HIT

Oversight in Assessment Is No Relief in Tax Duty.

OREGON CITY, Or., June 9.—(Special.)—County Judge Beattie today denied the petition of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company to set aside the penalty and interest on taxes on the canal and locks at the falls of the Willamette. The company alleged that the assessor in making out the tax bills neglected to include the canal and locks. Later the company was notified of the oversight and a penalty of $558.75 and interest of $111.75 were added.

The company pleaded that owing to the mistake of the assessor it should not be compelled to pay the interest and penalty. The property was valued at $300,000, and the tax levy was $558.75. Judge Beattie held that the company should have discovered the oversight itself and paid the taxes when due.

PTOMAINES CAUSE DEATH

Infected Canned Salmon Fatal to Boston Man at Everett.

EVERETT, Wash., June 9.—Investigation by the coroner's office today resulted in an announcement that the death of Albert A. Borosky, of Boston, who died suddenly yesterday, was caused by ptomaine poisoning. The coroner learned that all the members of the household where Borosky was staying became ill after eating some canned salmon.

The attending physician accounted for its fatal effect upon Borosky by the fact that he was subject to intestinal trouble. Borosky came to Everett a week ago to marry a daughter of Dr. L. B. Molin. The wedding was to have occurred next Sunday. The body will be sent to Boston for burial.

WAPPENSTEIN JURY OUT

MUCH WRANGLING IS HEARD FROM JURY ROOM.

Disagreement Expected in Bribery
Case of ex-Chief of Police Wap-penstein of Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 9.—The case of Charles W. Wappenstein, ex-Chief of Police, accused of accepting a bribe for permitting the operation of disorderly houses, was given to the jury this morning, and late tonight there was no indication of a verdict.

Judge John F. Main announced that if a verdict is reached before midnight he will receive it, but if no agreement has been reached by that hour the jury is to be locked up for the night.

At lunch the jurors wrangled loudly enough to be heard in the corridors. This is taken as foreshadowing a disagreement. After the jury in the bribery trial of ex-Chief of Police Wappenstein had retired, Wappenstein was formally arraigned on four indictments charging him with receiving bribes on two occasions from Tupper and Gerald for protection of the Midway and Paris houses and the Northern Gambling Club, with conspiracy for the protection of gambling, and with maintaining a nuisance which the grand jury found the Arcade dance hall to have been. He was given until June 17 to enter his plea.

The state announced that it will be ready to try Wappenstein on June 15 on the indictment charging that he exported $300 from the Pacific Coast Company, and on June 16 the indictment charging acceptance of a bribe of $500 from Tupper and Gerald for protecting the Northern Club.
