

LAWLER CREDITED WITH DARROW TRAP

Harrington Confesses He Was "Stool" for Special Prosecutor.

UPROAR STOPS TESTIMONY

Witness for Prosecution Branded as "Traitor of Worst Kind"—Defense Asks for Records of Alleged Conversations.

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Oscar Lawler, special government prosecutor in the so-called dynamite conspiracy case, was the man who arranged for the alleged "trapping" of Clarence S. Darrow, by means of a secret telephonic device. So testified John R. Harrington on cross-examination by the defense today in the Darrow jury bribery trial.

Harrington testified that it was at the behest of Lawler made in Chicago that he came to Los Angeles for the purpose of leading his ex-employer and assistant in the McNamara defense into the trap laid by Lawler and Detective Foster of the National Erectors' Association.

The brief session today abounded in sensational incidents, one of which was a bitter denunciation of the witness by Chief Counsel Rogers for the defense. He branded Harrington as a "traitor of the worst kind."

Tumult Drowns Reply. Harrington half arose from his chair and tried to reply but his voice could not be heard above the ensuing tumult. The course of the defense in delving into the evidence said to have been obtained through a telephonic device, especially as the prosecution had refrained from introducing it, caused surprise. That it was a shrewd move was apparent when, after pursuing that line of questioning for a brief time, Rogers had the prosecution fighting to prevent the introduction of the transcript of the conversations between Harrington and Darrow.

The defense demanded the typewritten record of the conversations on the ground that the District Attorney had written the transcript. Harrington's arguments will be made by the defense tomorrow to support the contention that the evidence desired be furnished.

"Stool" Coached by Lawler. The District Attorney's reason for not introducing the record of the alleged incriminating conversations between Darrow and Harrington was intimidated by the latter when he said: "It was unintelligible."

Harrington said repeatedly that he had acceded to the request of Lawler to hold the conversations with Darrow for the purpose of clearing his own reputation. Lawler, he said, had told him what to say to Darrow in the hotel room adjoining which was another room occupied by shorthand reporters.

On four or five different occasions, the witness said, he had Darrow in his room. Each time he would notify Lawler and then telephone to Darrow to come to his room.

TONGUE ENTERS PROTEST

District Attorney Says He Did Not Get Notice of Hearing.

SALEM, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—District Attorney Tongue, of the fifth judicial district, has made objection to the Supreme Court that the old Clatsop County tax cases argued before that court without his appearance for Clatsop County. Approximately $5000 in state taxes, it is alleged, were unpaid by that county to the state and action was brought by the state for their recovery. The case was heard in the lower court and appealed.

LARGE RAT BITES CHILD

Clackamas Heights Baby Attacked While Asleep.

OREGON CITY, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—Basil, the four-year-old son of Otto Meindl, of Clackamas Heights, a suburb of Oregon City, was seriously bitten by a large rat today. The boy went to sleep shortly after noon and about 3 o'clock his mother, who was at work in the kitchen, was attracted by screams. She rushed into the bedroom and found her son trying to fight off the animal. Mrs. Meindl seized a broom and struck at the rodent, but it escaped.

The boy's left hand was badly lacerated, and the rat had eaten a large hole under the lad's left eye. Some time ago many of the dogs in the suburb were poisoned, and since then has become infested with rats. Many chickens and other fowls have been victims of the animals.

ROAD GRADING IS RUSHED

Difficult Part of Electric Line Is Now Being Finished.

JUNCTION CITY, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—The mammoth steam shovel is rapidly completing the heavy cuts and fills in grading for the Oregon Electric Railroad between Junction City and the Willamette River. This is the most difficult stretch of construction of the electric road, where the road crosses the flood lands of the Willamette River. There has been some delay in sinking the first two water-tight compartments for the piers of the five-span steel bridge across the Willamette River. Gravel has been washing into the compartments as fast as the steam shovel has been able to excavate. In order to rush this work machinery has now arrived on the ground for sinking the other piers by means of airtight compartments, the gravel being removed and the compartments being lowered by means of men working inside the airtight compartments below the level of the river water. These men will work under air pressure, which will keep the water from rushing into the working chamber as the compartment is lowered.

Judge Galloway Decides Big Referendum Action in Eugene's Favor.

WITHDRAWAL MOST LIKELY

Possibility That Some Agreement May Be Reached Between Officials Which May Halt Move to Supreme Court.

SALEM, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—Although, as predicted in The Oregonian today, Judge Galloway handed down his decision this afternoon in the University of Oregon referendum cases in favor of the university, and the decision presents a peculiar time when taken in the light of Governor West's desire to have the cases withdrawn, there seems to be a possible opportunity of the Governor's wishes being fulfilled.

Charles L. McNary, who is acting for District Attorney McNary, has not received the letter from Governor West asking for withdrawal of the cases, although the letter is somewhere in the mails. Attorney-General Crawford said today for the first time, that he would be willing to meet any overtures to withdraw the cases, although the plaintiff has won and the case is now on appeal, notice of appeal having been served today in open court.

Exclusiveness

In the Name of Your Home District

Ask a man in Cleveland, Ohio, "Where do you live?"

Let him answer, "On Euclid Avenue."

Your immediate conclusion is, "Well, that fellow is a man of means. He amounts to something. He lives in the bon ton district."

Ask a man in Chicago, "Where do you live?"

Let him answer, "In Hyde Park."

That doesn't mean anything. Hyde Park has as many shacks as it has mansions.

So, in Portland, if I say "I live on Portland Heights, in Irvington, in this section or that section"—that doesn't mean what it once did.

But let a man say, "I live in Westover Terraces."

That settles it. There is only one Westover Terraces. There can never be another. No Westover Terraces No. 2; no Addition to Westover Terraces; no imitation of Westover Terraces—topographically impossible.

Westover Terraces is designed for the particular family. Its magnificent layout, its beautifully contoured streets, its superior improvements, its commanding location, its easy accessibility, its distinctiveness—that's its distinctiveness—places it so far ahead of any other past, present or future effort to establish a neighborhood of class that Westover Terraces is beyond comparison.

In Block 9 there are a few opportunities remaining for yours to become one of the SIX FINEST RESIDENCES IN WESTERN AMERICA.

Why not settle it today?
