Effort Will Be Made to Place Newcomers Where Conditions Will Be Most Satisfactory—Girls to Be Well Cared For.

Lewis County Value $19,470,080.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—S. C. Davis, Lewis County Assessor, yesterday announced the total assessed valuation of all property in

Our mission in visiting the principal cities of the Pacific Northwest at this time primarily is to urge our people that will be held in San Francisco in November or December for the purpose of formulating some plan for giving protection to the increased number of immigrants that will be attracted to the Pacific Coast following the completion of the Panama-Pacific Canal.

Many Immigrants Expected.

"Many of our people will be lured to the western portion of the United States by the Panama-Pacific Exposition. This influx of these people will begin with the completion of the canal."

Included in this immigration is a stronger, more vigorous element that will bring with them some means, desirous of locating where they may make satisfactory investments and prosper. This class will not require the same measure of protection that we plan through information bureaus to direct them to those localities where they are most needed and where they will be able to be of most use to themselves and thrive accordingly. In other words, we would educate the adult for-

HOOD RIVER, Or., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—A number of the prominent citizens of the city and valley here are now agitating a movement to bond the entire district for installing a water system to cover the entire fruit district of the lower valley and the city. It is proposed to secure the water from the noted Lava Springs that rise in Woodworth Park where the Horticultural Chautauque was held last week.

"The east and west side ranches for the most part are now supplied with water from wells," says Leslie Butler, president of the Horticultural Society and holding the same office with the Butler Banking Company, of this city. "Because of the seepage through the soil of the water turned on the orchards it is feared that these wells will become contaminated. The water system for the entire community is feasible and we should give it serious thought and bring it about as soon as possible."

The scheme has found favor with many who have viewed the springs, which will furnish more than a supply for the district. Many of the ranchers and business men installing the proposed system for the water supply at the recent gathering at Woodworth Park.
