

BIG ELEVATOR FOR GRAIN WILL RISE

'Site of $175,000 Structure to Be Near East End of Old Steel Bridge.

BUILDING CONTRACT IS LET

California & Oregon Grain & Elevator Company Will Put Up 12-Story Plant Having Capacity of 250,000 Bushels.

A contract has just been let by the California & Oregon Grain & Elevator Company for the erection near the east end of the old steel bridge of what probably will be the largest grain elevator plant in the city. The project involves the immediate expenditure of between $150,000 and $175,000 for the erection of a 12-story reinforced concrete building 60x100 feet and 17 reinforced concrete grain bins each 15 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height. Ultimately the project will include besides the elevator and tanks, a large flouring mill, warehouses and concrete docks. The contract for the work has been let to the Brayton Engineering Company which concern will commence work as soon as the ground can be cleared.

Ground Recently Leased.
The ground to be occupied by the plant was leased from the Southern Pacific Company about six months ago. It is situated directly south of the east approach to the old steel bridge on a frontage on the river where the Southern Pacific has docks. The docks have been taken over by the elevator company in addition to the other property. Since obtained the lease on the property last Spring the elevator company officials have been busy with arrangements for the new structure. Plans were drawn in San Francisco. The entire building and the tanks are to be of reinforced concrete. The 12-story building will extend 50 feet above the top of the steel bridge. On each floor will be machinery for blending grades and distributing the various grades into the tanks ready for shipment. A huge arm or conveyor will extend from the tanks down to the harbor line for use in loading the blended grain onto ships in the harbor. This will be constructed in a new manner so as to make the handling of grain easy. It will be possible to handle 600 bushels of wheat an hour.

Capacity Is Large.
The tanks will be set in two rows of six tanks each. By utilizing the spaces between the tanks five more tanks will be added. The total capacity of 250,000 bushels of wheat. The tanks are of a model designed especially by the Brayton Company and used in large mills in other parts of the country.

Freight yards will be laid out as the work progresses. It is planned to have an arrangement whereby grain from the interior of Oregon can be handled speedily. The Southern Pacific will extend tracks into the general East Side freight tracks which are being changed to meet changing conditions on the East Side. Work on the elevator project is to be started as soon as the old steel bridge is torn down and the steel now stacked on the elevator site is moved away. Wreckers of the bridge are already at work as rapidly as possible. The California & Oregon Grain & Elevator Company is affiliated with other large companies operating on the coast and mills on the Pacific Coast. They are all said to be under one general head. The Portland elevator will be operated in conjunction with similar plants on other parts of the coast including San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Pedro and other cities.

PEOPLE'S BILLS VARIED

New Pictures Cover Range From Farce to Emotional Drama.

"The Army Surgeon," a superb Kay-Bee film that headlined the People's Theater's new bill yesterday, received constant praise from the crowds that saw it, and one of the frequent remarks heard as the people passed out was "Better than Custer's Last Fight." Those who saw that film will realize how good this latest Kay-Bee must be. "Father," which is almost identically the same plot as the famous play "Madame X," but with the father in place of the mother in the central role, found instant favor. "The Trunk's Door" a drama of a wife who "played hooky," and then fell asleep as he fished, made the little folks scream with laughter. The "Three Kings of Harmony" proved a versatile and popular as ever. Wednesday "The Thunderbolt," a splendid Thousander, and a Thanksgiving picture will be the features.

The Star showed a three-reel drama of life, "The Moth in the Flame," being an adaptation from the well-known song of similar title. It is an appealing story of a woman's weakness, her strength and her self-sacrifice for love. "The Cincinnati Zoo" and "Willie's Ticker," and musical features by Van Sicken and Francis and Arthur Edwell fill out the bill, which drew big crowds. Coming, Wednesday, "Black Sheep's Wool."

An exceptionally strong bill was inaugurated at the Lyceum yesterday, headed by "Don Caesar de Bazan," from the comedy-drama of that name. It is a romance of the days of chivalry, when men wore lace cuffs and ruffs, and swords as part of their everyday costume. "Cross Your Heart," a child drama, appeals to children, although it will be appreciated by their elders as well. Greek and Italian war pictures are of universal interest just now, while a comic, "The Wrong Flat," with some especially clever singing by the sailor boys" is registered at the top of a bill that thoroughly satisfied Arcade patrons.

JUDGE GATENS MAKES TALK TO STREETCAR MEN.

Cure for Social Evil Seen in Exercising Proper Parental Control Over Children.

That the social evil can only be cured, if ever cured at all, by the fathers and mothers exercising restraint over their boys and girls, and thereby cutting off the supply of immoral women, was the keynote of the address of Judge Gatens yesterday to streetcar men at the Hawthorne building, on East Water street and Hawthorne avenue. The meeting was under the auspices of the social service department of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, and Gus Rowden, superintendent, introduced Judge Gatens, who gave the men a heart-to-heart talk on "The Social Evil."

Judge Gatens declared that he did not believe in the spasmodic attacks that are made on immoral women, which, he said, are made just about election time, and said that absolutely no good had ever been attained by such methods, except to scatter the woman's broadcast without effecting any reforms.

Judge Gatens declared that the public social evil is bad enough, but not as bad as the evil in private life, which he showed by referring to the records of the Juvenile Courts. He placed the blame largely on the lack of parental control and responsibility. "Boys and girls," said Judge Gatens, "must have amusement, but the parents should supervise and control and be a part of that amusement with their children, if they are to be kept out of evil."

"I have been quoted as saying that children should be ruled by a club," said Judge Gatens, "but I never said such a thing. Children should be controlled through love and tenderness largely, but sometimes it is necessary to use the rod, and then I would use it. Let the boys and girls once get control of the house, and they will keep it to their own ruin. Let the father and mother be companions of their children, go with them. Let them understand that father and mother are the best friends and advisers they have. I have no illusions about reforming public immoral women by placing them under arrest and fining them and turning them loose, without providing means for their reform. It does not work out and never will. Society must start at the other end by cutting off the supply by protecting our girls and boys in the home. The Social Hygiene Society is doing a valuable work in urging parents to do their duty and not permit their children to remain in ignorance about the social truths, which should be imparted as early as possible."

Judge Gatens also spoke of the Portland Y. M. C. A. and declared that it is one of the great moral forces of the city and that the men at the head of the city's best efforts for the young men of the country. At the close the carmen extended him a vote of thanks for his talk.

Superintendent Rowden announced that similar meetings will be held in the same place every Sunday afternoon, beginning December 8.

MINISTER INDORSES Y. M. C. A.

Statement by Judge Gatens Cited as Absolving Institution.

Rev. Delmer H. Trimble, in his sermon at the Centenary Methodist Church last night, declared the Y. M. C. A. of the city to be free from any responsibility in the cases that had been brought up recently in the Juvenile Court and sharply criticized the attacks made against the institution by the Portland News.

"I have gone to headquarters as to the relation of the Y. M. C. A. to this matter," he said, "and I find that the institution stands for the bringing of every offender to justice. On Judge Gatens' own statement—and he is remembered at this juncture as being a member of the Y. M. C. A.—the institution knows more about this situation than probably anybody else—the Y. M. C. A. has from the beginning afforded him every assistance in bringing the culprit to punishment. A maximum of five men who were related by no closer bonds than association with the Y. M. C. A. (a relationship made necessary by the fact that they were among the several hundred roomers in the institution)—against this number only is suspicion directed by the papers as about responsible for this situation—even though the men be proven guilty—even you would be as a church if some men, after taking the members of our membership, should go morally wrong while a member of this church. As soon as the Y. M. C. A. had conscious knowledge of the situation on the part of these roomers, they proceeded to expurgate. There is absolutely no room for condemnation of the Y. M. C. A."

Mrs. Trumbull Tells of Good Work Organization Is Doing and Cites Case in Point.

The work of the Associated Charities for the needy is increasing every day as the winter draws near. On Friday over 200 cases of destitution were referred to the office and if all demands are to be cared for adequately for the future, the society must have increased support from the public.

In addition to the many families referred by business firms and individuals to the Child Labor Commission in providing for the many families where labor permits for children under 15 must be refused.

Concerning the assistance the Associated Charities is rendering, Mrs. Millie Trumbull says: "Among the applications for working permits which come to the Child Labor Commission are many from families where there is need of help. The questions asked of the mother or father reveal a condition that calls for sympathy, medical or legal aid or relief that the commission has no power to meet."

Any accurate diagnosis of a case, whether on mental, physical or social illness presupposes a gathering together of all the facts surrounding the case. In the case of a woman who has been a great source of comfort to have a bureau such as the Associated Charities now is to which we can turn for help, the workers are sympathetic and keen to get at the cause of the distress and then are quick to apply the remedy. The trained workers at the Charities are a great help to those of us whose work needs the strength which training alone can give.

"Here is a case in point: A 13-year-old girl was reported out of school by her father to the juvenile court. She was in the hospital, father out of work, all the attributes of a case of extreme distress. The visiting nurse was sent to the home to see what could be done. The Associated Charities was asked to send a visitor, who found every sort of constructive work needed—from cleaning the windows to threatening to send the father to jail if he didn't hustle for a job. After two months' work, the family is on a decent basis, the children going to school, the father working and a measure of harmony restored. Trained service and speedy, adequate relief is the keynote of the Associated Charities gospel."

RESERVISTS READY TO GO

Servians and Montenegrins Will Return to Fight if Necessary.

That Austria and Servia will go to war within the next few days was the general opinion expressed yesterday in the meeting of members of the Servian and Montenegrin Red Cross Societies, held at Alley's Hall. As soon as war is declared, the reservists of those parts of the Northwest almost to a man.

The meeting was attended by about 250 Servians and Montenegrins, who listened to addresses on war subjects. A report was read, showing that in the last month nearly 600 members of the society have left for the scene of war and as many more are only awaiting new developments before departing. After the meeting $950 was secured in a collection to help the war fund. This will be sent to headquarters in Belgrade, Servia, and in Cetinje, Montenegro.
