TEN FIRMS QUOTE PRICES

D. Solis Cohen Objects to Suggestion That Fire Committee Does Not Take Cost Into Account in Awarding.

"I've been told that in submitting bids to this committee the question of price received no consideration," declared a representative of the American Rubber Manufacturing Company, addressing the fire committee of the Executive Board yesterday.

"That's a ridiculous statement for you or anybody else to make," interrupted D. Solis Cohen, chairman of the committee, "and we do not care to hear any more of the same kind of talk."

The incident took place at a meeting of the committee yesterday when bids were opened for supplying the department with 8000 feet of 2 1/2-inch and 1200 feet of 1 1/2-inch hose. At the time, the sales representative was presenting the merits of his particular type of fire hose. In all, 10 bids were submitted. DRESS SUIT WAR OPENS

OREGON UNIVERSITY STUDENTS TACKLE PROBLEM. Movement Under Way to Taboo "Swallow-Tail" Apparel at Annual Sophomore Hop Saturday.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Dec. 12.—(Special.)—A repetition of the war recently waged at the University of Washington on dress suits at formal student dances is promised here by a movement started today.

The Oregon Emerald, the student newspaper, in its issue tonight published a number of interviews with members of the faculty and student body, generally favoring the prohibition of swallow-tail apparel at the annual sophomore hop, to be held Saturday. This is one of the four big dances given during the year by the various classes, and it is maintained by the "abolition" element that many university men will stay away because they lack the regulation costume.

It is not intended to taboo the wearing of dress suits at private functions, but only at those to which the general university public is invited. These, it is felt, can only be made absolutely democratic by doing away with all dress distinctions, for although the wearing of a dress suit is not compulsory, most men feel out of place in any other garb, it is said.

Freshmen have been restricted to sack suits at all social functions for a number of years, as a mild form of subjection. However, the extension of the rule to include all the classes would be a radical change. For years the sophomore hop has been a brilliant spectacle, with the men in their somber attire contrasting with the co-eds in all their finery.
