NEW BRIDGE ACROSS ZIGZAG RIVER PLANNED.—In the appropriation for work in the Mount Hood Forest Re-serve there is the sum of $250 to be used in rebuilding the bridge over Zigzag River, at a point near Laurel Lodge, near the Mount Hood automobile road. The old bridge at this point is in bad condition and has been condemned. Through the efforts of William DeVeny, of Portland, and others, a truss bridge was built across the Sandy River half a mile from the Zigzag bridge, and by rebuilding the Zigzag bridge there will be a safe crossing to the north side of the Sandy, and access given in that section. in rebuilding the bridge access given in that section.

Capper Tenders are Received.—The County Court yesterday received bids on 600 yards of carpet, 1200 yards of linoleum and 324 window shades for the west wing of the new Courthouse. The firms submitting estimates are the Meier & Frank Company, Olds, Wortman & King, Henry Jenning & Sons, J. G. Mach and D. N. & E. Walters. As the bids are in detail it will take some time to figure them out and determine which is the most advantageous. It CARPET TENDERS ARE RECEIVED .- The which is the most advantageous. POSTAL EMPLOYES TO LABOR—Christmas day at the Portland Postoffice apparently will be observed in the usual holiday manner, but in reality it will be working overtime and with extra help to provide for the distribution of mail matter the next day. At the main office all business except the moneyorder department will be open until noon and the same will be the rule at all delivery stations. The carrier service will be contracted to about one-third of the regular routine, which will require the handling of a large amount of extra matter with the assistance of relays that have been provided. Superintendents of the different divisions have been directed by Acting Postmas'er Williamson to dismiss their subordinates from duty as soon after noon as the exigencies of the business will permit.

will permit. AMUNDSEN TO LECTURE APRIL 6.— Captain Roald Amundsen, the famous Captain Roald Amundson, the lambda Norwegian explorer who discovered the South Pole, will deliver a lecture at the Heilig Theater, April 6 next, ac-cording to arrangements just completed by a committee composed of prominent Scandinavian citizens of Portland, inscandinavian citizens of Portiano, in-cluding Endre M. Cederbergh, Swedish Vice-Consul; C. S. Hendricksen, A. Eckern, Dr. G. T. Trommald, H. J. Langoe, B. G. Skulason and others. Captain Amundsen's lecture will deal with his preparations for the dash to the Pole, the trip itself, the discovery and return to civilization. WOMEN CHARGED WITH SELLING LIQUOR SUNDAY.—In a raid on the Occidental House, at First and Morrison streets, Patrolmen Huntington and Stewart and Special Agent Kay arrested Mrs. M. J. Walker for conducting the house and Alice Gilmore for selling liquor. The house, under former management, has been the object of many raids. The officers charge that the Gilmore woman sold three bottles of beer. Complaints against the women have been filed in

CITY COUNCIL MEETS TOMORROW .- The City Council will meet tomorrow at 8:30 o'clock long enough to adjourn until Thursday morning. Wednesday being a holiday, it was considered best to postpone the meeting. To safeguard the city against any possible trouble which might arise from not meeting on the regular day, a quorum will be on hand to meet and adjourn. Councilman Baker will preside at the meeting.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR REAL ESTATE DEALER.—Warrant for the arrest of R. B. Palmer, a real estate dealer, has been issued, upon the complaint of George L. Madden that Palmer collected money for him and falled to account for $775. Madden was the owner of a piece of real estate which he put into Palmer's hands for sale. He asserts that the collections due him amount to the sum mentioned.

New York Architect Coming.—A telegram was received yesterday by T. B. #### New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

REDOLENT of a toyshop and brim-ful of Christmas atmosphere is "Mr. Santa Claus, Jr.," the new musical melange which Keating & Flood are sponsors for at their cosy little playhouse, the Lyric. When the curtain yoes up a big toyshop in Santaland is disclosed, with toys stacked on the shelves and three huge boxes prominently on view in the foreground. Old Saint Nick, in the person of Charles Westford, sings and chatters with his flancee, Merry Xmas, played by Emerald Green (that's her real name). Then they open the boxes. A peppermint they open the boxes. A peppermint stick, the Kandy Kid, shows in one; a Jack in the Box bobs up serenely from another, and from the third is taken a lovely mechanical doll. All of these perform when various buttons are pressed; then the chorus, clad in North pressed; then the chorus, clad in North Pole raiment, sings a merry ensemble. Santa Claus, Jr., comes in, and with the aid of an explorer, Dr. Crook, plays hob with all his father's toys. The Kandy Kid, played by Lou Davis, has a solo. The Jack in the Box is a role Reece Gardner shines in, and demonstrates acrobatic ability. No loveller and daintier mechanical doll ever was lifted from a beribboned box than is pretty Frances White in this role.

Frances White in this role.

Ed. S. Allen has another of his clever character studies as Santa, Jr., and has his audience holding onto the arms of their chairs with mirth. One of his comedy hits is when he substitutes for a statue and assumes poses (?) when wound up. Jack Wise is Dr. Crook and plays the role with attention to detail. He has one very fetching song, "Aviation," with the chorus in effective brown and white aviation costumes tumes.

Frances White has a specialty that is encored repeatedly in "Snowballings" with the chorus for a background, she sings and dances; then all join in pelting the audience with cotton balls. Of course the audience pelts right back at them, and the fun continued last night until Miss White was forced to say no to the repeated calls for more. She is the prettiest and most charming ingenue Keating & Flood ever introduced for Portland inspection, and her tireless energy, cheery smile and pleasing personality, to say nothing of her graceful dancing and ability as a songstress, have captivated Lyric patrons. Miss Heazlitt has taken Maysongstress, have captivated Lyric pattrons. Miss Heazlitt has taken Maybelle Baker's place and plays acceptably as Queen Aurora Borealis.

An individual hit is scored by Lou Davis, who makes merry as the Kandy Kid, and has a specialty about "Buckwheat Cakes" which he sings with facial contortions. The stage decorations are particu-The stage decorations are particularly Christmassy. A big decorated and lighted tree stands in one corner, and Emerald Green, as an animated Christmas tree, dances all over the place. The guiding hand of Charles Alphin is discerned in all the chorus numbers and the bits of business. "Santa Claus, Jr.," will continue all week at the Lyric.

MARTIN BECK has seen to it that his part in contributing to the dispenser of humor. Their little scene joys of Portland's Christmas week is is supposed to take place in a manidission will not meet as had been fittingly done, and the bill he has sent planned.

DECEMBERATE IS SENTENCED. — First overruling motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment Circuit Judge Gantenbein yesterday morning sentenced E. E. In a di-lapidated old motor Miss Dayne, as the lapidated old motor Miss Dayne, as the flashy Miss Genevieve Montmorency, queen of the elite troupe, bursts into the story with Percy, trombone soloist and chauffeur. The machine breaks down and Hip Flitters (Mr. Cressy), manager of the Town Hall, who happens along in his capacity as billposter, helps Miss Montmorency mend the car. Their conversation, sarcastic and right off the cynic's bat on the part of Miss Montmorency, and good natured and quantity humorous on the part of Hip, keeps the audience in a state of mess of song and brass music. Their saxophone and clarinet selections were Don Carney has a big act all by himself. He is a singing comedian who tells some funny stories with the aid of a piano. He has a good voice, but deals rather sparingly with his singing selections.

Pantages.

THE Pantages Theater has prepared for the holiday week with a strong bill, which features the Daly Minstrels, five brilliant black-face musicians and dancers. Two athletic numbers and a troupe of trained seals keep the children amused. The minstrels are Eugene Rauth, William Barr, Jimmie Cowper, William Daly and Harry Willard. Each has a special selection of either song or comedy, and between the five they manage to spring a lot of good jokes.

Harry Willard probably has made the greatest hit with his singing of "When the Rainbow Shines at Noon." He has a beautiful mellow bass voice. Cowper and Daly, as the end men of the com-pany, also did a couple of jigs and spe-cialty dances and got a volume of applause for both.
Miss Nevins and Gordon made as big a hit as anything else on the varied cure parlor and the jokes he springs do his character of the traveling salesman full justice.

The mix-up ends with a little song entitled "The Scare Crow." Miss Nevins takes the part of the scare crow and it is several minutes before the audience discovers that the dummy which Gordon throws all around the stage is nothing more or less than Miss Nevins. Captain Tieber's seals have been seen
