

LOLA NORRIS SAYS SHE LIES AT FIRST

Government's Star Witness Is Shaken as She Admits False Testimony.

'TO SHIELD BOYS' HER PLEA

Mrs. Caminetti Takes Stand in Effort to Help Husband and Tells of "Spats" and Threats—Defendant Testifies Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Lola Norris admitted today that she had given false testimony about her relations with F. Drew Caminetti. Revealed to the stand to explain her first efforts to shield Caminetti and Maury I. Diggs, immediately after their arrest at Reno, she owned frankly that she had not told the truth, and to that extent her credibility as a witness and the value of her story to the Government was shaken, but her explanation was that she had lied to save the man she loved and then trusted.

Mrs. Caminetti followed her with testimony which was a repetition of what she had previously told for the benefit of Diggs at his trial. She made a willing and even eager witness for her husband. Caminetti will begin tomorrow his personal defense with his own account of how he happened "incidentally and accidentally" to leave his wife in Sacramento with a baby weeks old while he fled across the California line with Lola Norris to Reno, Nev.

Caminetti Pleads Motive. Caminetti does not deny his acts; he seeks to qualify them by the motives from which they sprang, "not willfully." In a word, his defense, as stated today by his counsel, is to all intents and purposes, the same as that put forward by his companion, Diggs, convicted on like charges.

Although Caminetti had fully expected to testify in person today, the Government forestalled him and instead he listened to his own words as taken down by W. E. Doan, a Sacramento court reporter, in reply to the questions of P. F. Atkinson, Assistant District Attorney of Sacramento County. It was to Atkinson that Lola Norris admitted today she had not told the truth.

In the course of the interrogation, the accuracy of which Caminetti does not question as taken by Doan, he repeatedly admitted that he had promised to marry Miss Norris after he should have obtained a divorce from his wife on the grounds of physical cruelty. His wife was not in court to hear this testimony.

Promise of Marriage Repeated. "When did Caminetti first tell you that he would marry you?" Atkinson had asked her. "Well," she answered, "we didn't discuss the subject much before we went away, but I wouldn't have gone on any other understanding."

"Do you think he would marry you now?" "I know he would," she answered. "Would you?" Atkinson had asked, turning to Caminetti. "Yes," was the answer.

The introduction of this testimony was unforeseen and changed the whole course of the trial, as distinguished from its predecessor, that of Diggs, it formed part of the transcript admitted in the possession of the Government, but had been withheld from the jury over the protest of the defense. When its production the Government rested abruptly.

Cross-Examination Is Dropped. A brief recess followed, in which counsel for the defense laid their heads together. Cross-examination of Doan was first tried and rather hastily dropped. The more of Doan's notes were read the less good they did the defendant. After the reading of the results of the consultation began to appear.

The afternoon session began with character testimonials by minor witnesses, who on cross-examination by the Government, admitted knowledge of previous escapades by the defendant. Then Lola Norris was recalled, in the new role of a witness for the defense.

She admitted on the train having told District Attorney Atkinson a warrant oath—that she and Marsha Warrington had occupied the same berth on the way to Reno; that she had left Sacramento "on account of the notoriety," in the belief that her absence would make it easier for her parents; that at Reno she and Marsha Warrington had shared one bedroom and the two men the other. This she testified was not true.

Story Told to Shield "Boys." "Why did you tell Mr. Atkinson that you and Miss Warrington had occupied a berth together?" asked Theodore Roche. "Miss Warrington and I had agreed to tell that to shield the boys," she said. "Had you ever talked to Caminetti and Diggs before this as to what you should say?"

"Yes, Mr. Diggs told us to be sure to say that we girls stayed together, and I told Mr. Caminetti I would stay by him. I wanted to protect my good name."

"Well, Miss Norris, don't you want to protect your good name now?" "If I tell the truth I don't see how I can."

Mrs. Caminetti testified to her husband's nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of appetite during the week he left her and of her threats to carry their domestic infidelities to the Juvenile Court.

"I told him I had been to see Judge Hughes," she swore, "and he replied, 'My God, girl, haven't I worried enough!'"

KINGDOMLESS KING AND PRINCIPALTYLESS PRINCESS WHO WILL WED TODAY.

MANUEL OF PORTUGAL AND AUGUSTINA OF HOHENZOLLERN.

ROYALTY IS THERE

Score of Highnesses Attend Prenuptial Banquet.

EX-KING TO WED TODAY

Manuel of Portugal and Princess Augustina Victoria of Hohenzollern Surrounded by Brilliant Company.

SIGMARINGEN, Germany, Sept. 3.—

A brilliant ante-nuptial banquet was held here today in connection with the marriage of ex-King Manuel of Portugal and Princess Augustina Victoria of Hohenzollern, which is to be performed tomorrow by Cardinal Netto, former archbishop patriarch of Lisbon. The 74 guests who assembled in the Princesse gallery of the great castle overlooking the Danube included, besides members of the family, about 20 royal highnesses. Principal among them were Queen Mother Amalia, of Portugal; the Prince of Wales, representing King George, of England; Prince Eitel Friedrich, representing the German Emperor; the Duke and Duchess of Coburg; Infante and Infanta Carlos of Spain, representing the King and Queen of Spain; the Duke of Genoa; the Duke and Duchess of Aosta, of Portugal; the Duke and Duchess of Vendome and the Duke of Montpensier, representing the Bourbon family, formerly ruling in France; the Duke of Oporto, uncle of King Manuel; Prince Carol and Princess Elizabeth, Prince and Princess Henry XXXIII of Reuss; Princess Friederich, of Hohenzollern; Cardinal Netto, former archbishop patriarch of Lisbon, and Grand Duchess of Baden; several members of the Royal Wurtemberg family and of the Portuguese royal house.

In the formal program of the banquet, which was made on Sunday in conformity with the papal dispensation, ex-King Manuel receives all his titles, including that of Majesty. It is expected that 80 members of royalty will take part in the actual ceremonies. The bride will be given away by her father, Prince William of Hohenzollern, Cardinal Netto, former archbishop patriarch of Lisbon, will perform the religious rite and Count August Eulenburg, Earl Marshal of the Hohenzollern family, will conduct the civil ceremony.

Sigmaringen is the seat of the Sigmaringen Hohenzollerns, who are distant relatives of Kaiser Wilhelm and one of the richest families in Europe. The wedding presents received are magnificent. They include a splendid set of table silver from King George and Queen Mary and a gold wine service from Queen Alexandra.

PRINCE PLEASES FRANCE

Wedding Affords Excuse for Absence From Sedan Celebration. PARIS, Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Parisians have learned with pleasure that the Prince of Wales, who is in Germany to attend the wedding of King Manuel tomorrow at Sigmaringen, thus found a way to avoid attending a review of the German army yesterday in celebration of the victory over the French at Sedan.

GOLDEN SPIKE IS DRIVEN

All of the speeches congratulated the Portland, Eugene & Eastern when the completion of this link in its system, emphasis being laid upon the eastern means provided for reaching Portland and through Porter the markets of the world. A second theme in talks was the appeal for greater development of the resources of the valley. A third underlying theme was that of co-operation in community publicity.

Mr. Van Winkle emphasized this idea, declaring the Panama Exposition the greatest opportunity ever presented the Upper Willamette Valley for attracting immigration, and he intimated that the Albany Commercial Club soon would issue a call for a meeting to be held at Albany to consider the question of boosting together for the whole Willamette Valley. The final speaker of the morning was President Strahorn. President Strahorn in his remarks paid fitting compliment to Stephen Carver and Al Welch, the "true pioneers" who stood the strain of pioneering and risked much in the development of the western portion of the Willamette Valley, and then the speaker went on to urge a more complete development of the land. He said in part: "We are today celebrating an event of unusual moment to three different interests, in addition to those I referred to. Corvallis, because it fixes that city on the main line of what we firmly believe is destined ultimately to be one of the greatest electric railway systems of the world. To Eugene and Springfield, because it gives them all the manifold advantages of our chief southern terminal. To you, good friends, whose fortunes are so happily cast with the magnificent territory between, because it ends your day of pioneering, brings you in closest touch with the world you have so long looked at from a distance and with the aid of your responsive touch will quicken into new life every possible activity. Oregon's two great colleges are now almost within hailing distance.

Diversity of Products Urged. "May I be permitted to suggest how you can best help us and yourselves? I would preach the gospel of more thoroughness in everything that is being attempted, less land and lot speculation, a return to the good old plan of greater diversity of farm products, more efficient farming, and a multiplication of practical, tried out industries, best designed to utilize and get the most money out of our raw material. It is absolutely indispensable that we do more dairying, more poultry raising, more cattle, horse and hog raising, that we grow more alfalfa, corn, flax, beans and other vegetables, more fodder and root crops, more berries, produce more honey, can, preserve, dry or otherwise make up at home a good many things that are wanted or are now supplied by enterprising distant states. Think of California's production of $3,000,000 of canned and preserved fruits and vegetables a year, against $1,000,000 worth here in Oregon. We know we can produce the raw stuff of better average quality in greater diversity and quantity than any other place in the United States. How fast we might advance is best illustrated by California's record of 16,000 carloads of fresh and canned fruits, vegetables and wines shipped in 1910, increased to 116,000 carloads in 1911.

"The success and experience gained at the Eugene and Corvallis canneries argue as nothing else can for the efforts. Also that they are conservative and safe enough when thus handled to justify every grower to lend them all his financial and other support in his power and to secure liberal advances at the banks."

President Strahorn who came on the Eugene with the returning excursionists, tonight said: "I am exceedingly gratified by the interest that was taken in the celebration today, and especially so considering the weather below and the entirely fitting and important that we should take note of these epoch-making events in the development of our state."

Rich Country Is Reached. The country tapped by the Portland, Eugene & Eastern has been anticipated long the coming of the railroad, and has been preparing to take the fullest advantage of the newly-acquired transportation facilities. Already a Commercial Club has been organized at the new town of Ferguson, almost before there is a town; but the settlers, from Pioneer John Ferguson down to the newest comer, are determined to let the world know what they have there. Porterville, Hubert and Lela are planning to compete for the traffic coming from the Triangle Lake and Lake Creek Country, intercepting it before it can reach the older railroads.

On Fern Ridge E. L. Kramer is leading the movement to put workers on the land. Having put his own land into the highest state of cultivation, he is now bringing from the East 40 families, who will acquire small tracts from him. He will erect a number of small residences for the newcomers, and is planning the erection next season of a fruit cannery that will cost $30,000.

OPTIMISM BASED ON HUERTA'S PROMISE

Wilson Construes Gamboa's Note as Assurance of His Non-Candidacy.

REGIME'S FALL FORESEEN

Mexican Government Thought Destined to Go to Pieces on Financial Rocks—William Bayard Hale at Capital.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Administration officials revealed tonight that the optimism they have felt in the last few days over the Mexican situation has been based largely on what they have construed as an indirect assurance of Victoriano Huerta's intention not to be a candidate for the presidency of Mexico in the October elections. Much stress was laid at the White House and other official quarters on the associations of Federico Gamboa, Mexican minister of Foreign Affairs, in his last note to John Lind, pointing out the ineligibility of Huerta under the Mexican Constitution to become a candidate to succeed himself. While the Administration here does not regard Huerta as the constitutionally chosen provisional President of Mexico, and therefore does not consider him necessarily bound by restrictions in this connection, they admittedly see in the Gamboa note a Federal answer to chief American proposals. Huerta shall not be a candidate in the forthcoming elections.

Provision Easy to Evade. Among Constitutionalists here the view is held, however, that the constitutional prohibition against Huerta's candidacy would be evaded easily by his resignation in favor of another Provisional President some time before the election.

Administration officials who realize that such a contingency is possible believe, nevertheless, that Gamboa was acting in good faith in his declaration of the candidacy of Huerta. It had been raised as an issue in Mexico before the United States brought it into the discussion; that everybody there had taken into consideration his ineligibility for the Presidency and had not launched any campaign for him.

Outside of administration quarters, however, rumors are being attached to the pronouncement in concert of various official and semi-official newspapers in Mexico City a few days ago that Huerta now would be compelled to resign, that recognition would not be extended to him. Their action would be based on the precedent of President Hayes in 1877, who refused to recognize Porfirio Diaz for a long time after he was elected, on the ground that the United States had a right to observe whether the government set up was approved by the Mexican people and could guarantee stability and international obligations.

Unofficial reports incidentally continue to state emphatically that while the Huerta government cannot last much longer on account of its financial difficulties.

Hale Arrives From Mexico. The arrival today from Mexico City of Dr. William Bayard Hale, personal friend of President Wilson, who has been making a study of the political conditions in Mexico for the last three months, is calculated to add materially to the President's information on this aspect of the situation. Mr. Hale said today he went to Mexico unofficially and of his own volition, but any data he had gathered would be at the service of the United States Government. He has an engagement to talk with President Wilson at length tomorrow. Meanwhile Mr. Lind will remain in Vera Cruz pending orders from Washington. At the White House it was said that messages have been exchanged with the last 24 hours with both Mr. Lind and Charge O'Shaughnessy at Mexico City, which warrant taking an encouraging and hopeful view of the ultimate success of the negotiations.

DECISIVE STAND TAKEN

Remonstrances Against Canyon Road Sewer Overruled by Commission.

Taking a decisive stand on the questions—legal and otherwise—surrounding the construction of the Canyon road sewer in the western part of the city, the City Commission yesterday overruled all the remonstrances against the assessments on the big pipe, adopted a rule disregarding the claims of property-owners, passed an ordinance assessing the cost to the property benefited.

The action on the city's part was taken upon recommendation of Commissioner Dieck, who says the action is necessary to make the city's stand consistent. The action also makes it possible for the contractors to get their money for the work.

ASSESSOR'S ROLL IS READY

List Will Be Turned Over to Board of Equalization September 8.

County Assessor Reed has the 1913 tax roll ready to turn over on September 8 to the County Board of Equalization, consisting of Circuit Judge Cleaton, County Clerk Coffey and himself. He states that a recapitulation for the purpose of showing assessment totals will not be made until after the Board of Equalization finishes its work in October. The assessment books will be open two weeks, so that they may be inspected by property owners, and there, after the board will use the balance of the month in hearing and passing on complaints against assessments. The books will be laid out on long tables in the Assessor's office. After the board has concluded its labors Assessor Reed's staff will then extend the rolls. Due to the initiative law exempting wearing apparel, household furniture and jewelry from taxation, the personal roll will be much smaller than in previous years. Last year there were 45,000 names on the personal roll. This year there are less than a third of that number.
