

'JAPPY' SURPASS HIT OF FIRST NIGHT

Assemblage Here Never More Brilliant; Home Talent Is at Its Best.

GAIETY INCREASED BY ELKS

'Beaux and Belles of Panama' Enthusiastically Applauded; Setting Rivals Traditional Descriptions of Fairyland.

Surpassing even the magnificent success of the first night's performance of "Jappylan," the marvellously beautiful Oriental extravaganza given last night before a capacity house at the Armory, never has a more brilliant assemblage greeted a Portland audience. Never has musical comedy by local talent been so beautifully staged.

When the vast throng was seated and the curtains parted there was a burst of enthusiastic applause, for the scene displayed rivaled all the traditional descriptions of Fairyland.

The vast auditorium, transformed into a bowery of pink-petaled blossoms, was lighted with myriad fairy-colored lanterns and the stage was draped in oriental banners and banked with blossoms.

Encores Are Frequent.
Throughout the entire evening the audience repeatedly encored the dancers and soloists. Flowers in great quantities, the choicest of the local shops, were received by those taking part. All the dancers showed grace and gave their numbers charmingly. Particularly pleasing was the beautiful "The Beaux and Belles of Panama," in which Miss Nona Lawler, with all the vim and fascination of a Colon belle, took the leading part. It was Elks' night, and members of the order were out in great numbers and, with the enthusiasm characteristic of the organization, they added an atmosphere of festivity and when time came for voting for popular dances they backed their "Beaux and Belles" loyally. The voting will continue tomorrow and will be the center of interest.

Smart society, replete in hand-some apparel, occupied all of the boxes, and in the main audience were noted many of the most prominent business men, society and club women, musicians and artists all enjoying the beautiful scene, the inspiring and tuneful music and the grace and skill of the dancers.

Miss Gilmore Sang Delightfully.
The opening chorus was given by 60 pretty "Jappy" maids, each one arrayed in handsome kimono and carrying a coquettish fan and gay chrysanthemum. Miss Theodora Gilmore, as soloist, sang delightfully. George Hotchkiss Street and his yachting party of Jolly American boys and girls made a decided hit. Mr. Street's vocal solo, voice and excellent stage presence made his part one of the evening's best.

Irish Colleen in emerald green bonnets and frocks of green and white were picturesque as they capered blithely with all the charm of Erin's lassies. Frank Moore was leader of the group, appearing in contrast to the girls in scarlet and white.

Parasol Girls Win.
Mrs. Herman Politz made an attractive leader for the parasol girls, who in stunning array and saucy tilt skirts were among the favorites. The "Rah-Rahs," with Frank Wilton, created lots of enthusiasm and gave their songs and yells as all true college boys and girls would do.

Rich in coloring and merriment as a band of happy gipsies, the Romany Dancers of Mexico, led by A. E. Davidson, received a full share of admiration for their number.

Striking in tableau effect and lighting, "The Dining Day" was given with all the delicate touches and gaiety to greet their Emperor, in the person of Hartridge D. Whipp, who took his part well, acting and singing with merit.

Leo Shapler Adds Comedy.
Leo Shapler added dashes of comedy and local hits and was supported by a frolicsome troupe. The duet of Mr. Street and Miss Gilmore and the Chinese love dance with partner, Gustavus, as principals, are worthy of special mention.

The band from the Elks' lodge added to the evening's success by contributing inspiring airs.

The "girls, girls, girls" were pretty girls and they won their share of admiration. A. E. Davidson was soloist of the number.

The Festival of the Harvest Moon and the jolly "Hello, Hello, Portland Town," followed by the voting contest brought the second evening of "Jappylan" to a brilliant finale.

MOSHER USEFUL TRAVELER

Passenger Agent Cares for Children on Cars While Mothers at Bridge.

If E. W. Mosher, city passenger agent for the Pennsylvania Company, continues to travel much the Northern Pacific will be the beneficiary of "special attention to children" or "additional service for women travelers," or anything else that suggests having a handy man on board.

Mosher returned yesterday from the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania system's passenger agents at Cleveland. But they do tell that "Mose" had a lovely time helping women on and off the trains, taking care of their children while they played "bridge" in the observation car. Whenever the train stopped "Mose" would hop off and help the women off or on. Between stops he played with the kiddies, telling them stories and once in a while attempting to sing.

To every one of them "Mose" gave one of his cards. He was so busy handing out cards that he had a fresh supply printed while at Cleveland, but these were exhausted on the way West.

Their testimony was chiefly as to the position of the body, the fact that an automatic gun requires strong pressure on two distinct points to discharge and the statements made by Mrs. Loveland when they first talked to her.

MRS. LOVELAND TELLS HER STORY OF TRAGEDY

Woman Gives Details of Husband's Attack on Her, Struggle for Possession of Weapon and Firing of Fatal Shot.

BY EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES.
WITH eyes brimming with tears, a sob in her voice and her work-hardened hands clasping and unclasping nervously, Mrs. W. A. Loveland told the story yesterday of the incidents attending her husband's death and of the tragic moment when the fatal shot was fired. Her attorney consented to the interview, the first she has given to a reporter since the tragedy.

She was permitted to come from the cell in the County Jail to the matron's room.

Mrs. Loveland's eyes are a soft hazel and she has quantities of light brown hair. She wore an inexpensive ready-made suit and a neat waist.

"Oh, when I got out of this, what am I going to do?" she asked. "Why, I'm going to get work hard and prove to the world that I am a good woman. I will support my little boy."

Bravely she struggled against the tears, but at mention of the boy, Willard Strickland, her eyes filled repeatedly.

"He's a good little fellow," said the stricken mother, "and I was trying to bring him up to be a fine man. I will prove you that he is worthy and he shall not be ashamed of his mother."

"Work Got on Man's Nerves."
"You know my husband was a wood engraver," she said, "and he did such delicate work that it got on his nerves and he became highly irritable. He was always suspicious, always jealous."

When he worked late at night I sat up and made him a little supper. I went errands for him, taking his cuts down to Rice & Phelan's frequently.

"The making of the last cut ready to be the thing that completely upset him. On Tuesday when we went together to their place he found that his work wasn't complete. It annoyed him terribly and he exclaimed, 'I must be crazy.'"

"A few minutes later when we went to the Home Telephone Company to see about installing a phone he accused me of flirting with a man in the office whom I had never even noticed. That started him nagging me, which he continued to do all the rest of the day."

"When they reached their home he had put away their bundles, Loveland went out, giving no explanation. His wife waited patiently for his homecoming, watched the door, and when she saw his eyes at the window as each car stopped, listened all night in dread and suspense, but the man never came. At 10:30 o'clock the following morning she arrived, haggard in appearance and with no excuse for his absence.

Meal Is Prepared.
"I got him to eat some dinner at 1 o'clock," she went on, "and then he lay down on the couch to sleep. I was very tired, but finished my ironing and when I thought I'd rest a while too. The night before I had hidden that pistol under the mattress at the

The price may have something to do with determining that, but the main trouble is the desire of the great majority of people to live in our larger towns and cities. The bulk of the travel on the Pacific Coast (as elsewhere throughout the United States) makes stops only at the commercial centers."

LADD URGES EXHIBIT

Display of State Products at Ashland Good Plan.

RAISING FUND SUGGESTED

All Parts of Oregon Should Be Represented and Money Should Come in Small Contributions, Is Opinion Given.

"An exhibit of the products of the entire state of Oregon, displayed at an important gateway like Ashland, meets my approval," said William M. Ladd yesterday.

"First of all, however, it must not in any way be local, but must be a complete, exhaustive and attractive exhibit of the resources of the state, substantially housed, kept in fine order, and must be handled in an economical and impartial way."

"The different counties and communities of the state, at least during the winter travel of 1915, should have men in charge who are not only well informed generally, but wherever possible those who have had practical experience upon farms, orchards, dairies and ranches of the state and who know how to tell about it."

"Equivalence should be given to the productions of every portion of the state. A thorough canvass should be made of all the communities in Western Oregon, Central Oregon and Eastern Oregon in advance. The commercial organizations representative of public sentiment in every portion of Oregon should be canvassed, and a full explanation made to all as to the common-sense reasons why this presentation at Ashland should be made."

"Personality, in favor of Ashland, is the most important gateway in Oregon outside of Portland. The travel on the main line of the Southern Pacific between Portland and San Francisco is constant and the traffic is larger than at any other time. The stop made by the trains at Ashland is a long one, for it is not only a division point, but at the beginning and the end of a long hill and mountain climb, and caution makes it necessary to take time for complete inspection of every train that passes."

"A comparison of Northern California hills, canyons and mountains with the fertile valleys of the Rogue River is especially favorable to Oregon. A great many of our people know the situation at Ashland, and it is unnecessary for me to pay any compliments to that favored region."

"I am especially anxious that every precaution should be taken against making the display local in any particular, and I would like to see such a character of direct results come from this effort that the state Legislature would decide to make the exhibit a permanent one. I have taken a walk during the train-stop at Ashland, bought fruit there upon so many different occasions that probably, like other citizens of the state, I would continue that habit and pay no special attention to the exhibit; but I don't think that would be the case with the thousands of strangers, particularly those who are looking for a place for a permanent home."

Here's a Cure For Sciatica

Painful Form of Rheumatism Quickly Overcome.

Those sharp darting pains that characterize sciatic rheumatism should be treated in the blood. And by using S. S. S. you not only get relief but cure. S. S. S. has the peculiar action of soaking through the intestines directly into the blood. In this way its influence is at work in every artery, vein, and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes in effect a filter to strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys and bladder to all work to the end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison; it dislodges by irrigation all accumulations in the joints, causes acid accretions to disolve, renders them neutral and scatters those peculiar formations in the nerve centers that cause such mystifying and distressing rheumatism.

And, best of all, this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. If you have drugged yourself until your stomach is nearly paralyzed, you will be astonished to find that S. S. S. gives no sensation but goes right to work. This is because it is a pure vegetable infusion, is taken naturally into your blood just as pure air is inhaled naturally into your lungs.

You can get S. S. S. at any drug store. S. S. S. is a standard remedy, recognized everywhere as the greatest blood purifier ever discovered. If yours is a peculiar case, you may desire special information develop to The Serravallo Specific Co., 221 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

All Who Read May Know

The readers of The Oregonian, especially those who are in touch with all that goes on in its advertising columns and who are reaping the personal benefits that come from the information thus gained, will not be surprised to learn that newspaper advertising is now considered by expert authority to be the most valuable and most direct method of reaching the public. An article or product of real worth and merit.

Newspaper advertising of the first class is a truly wonderful thing. The Oregonian, has outgrown its purely local usage and you now see manufacturers and distributors carrying on extensive newspaper advertising campaigns in various cities and sections and often over the whole country, to the end that all who read may know the merits of their wares.

I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—Mrs. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

STATEMENT OF PORTLAND MAN HELPFUL TO OTHERS

Well Known Man Says He Will Recommend Plant Juice to Anyone Who Asks About It.

Mr. George Cully, one of the old-time residents of Portland and who for the last 10 years has been connected with the street-cleaning department here, made the following statement about Plant Juice:

"I have suffered all my life with liver trouble and sick headache. This condition has been a great deal and always seemed to be worse in the Spring. I have tried a great many things for it but seemed to get very little result. Recently I became interested in Plant Juice and obtained a bottle. It seemed as though the very first dose did me good and I am feeling much improved in health. I get up in the mornings feeling rested, my appetite is good and my food seems to agree with me. I am very glad to recommend this remedy to anyone who suffers as I did."

Plant Juice effects on the human system are truly wonderful. If you suffer with indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, gas, bloating after meals, sour stomach, coated tongue, headaches, dizzy spells, spots before the eyes, no appetite, do not sleep well, wake up in the mornings tired and without any energy try Plant Juice; it will do you more good than anything you have ever taken. For sale at The Owl Drug Company's store.—Adv.
