

Society News

By Gertrude P. Corbett.

A WEDDING of interest to a number of Portlanders and also a complete surprise is that of James Howard Word, son of Sheriff and Mrs. "Tom" Word, and Miss Ruth York, of Spokane, which was solemnized in Vancouver, Wash., yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Templeton, of the Presbyterian Church, officiated and the only guests were the bridegroom's mother and Harold Rossman.

There is quite an air of romance surrounding the young couple; Miss York visited the Word family here for several months and returned to her home in Spokane last Friday. The entire Word family were enamored of her charms, and all decided they were unable to do without her, and at the earnest solicitation of James Howard Word, this very attractive and fascinating little maid returned to Vancouver yesterday morning. Seated at the wedding her fiancé and his mother. She was attired in a smart gray tailored suit, with chic hat of the same shade, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

A wedding breakfast followed at the Word residence in Portland. Mr. Word is affiliated with the United States National Bank. His bride formerly resided in this city and they were students at the High School at the same time.

PIOOT STRAW HAT TRIMMED WITH TULLE AND FEATHERS

Underwood & Underwood, Seattle. Smart Spring Hat, by Parisian Miller.

Mrs. Rupert P. Snook entertained at her home Wednesday, with a delightful luncheon in honor of Miss Mary Campbell, a hostess. Seated at the prettily-appointed table were Miss Campbell, Miss Marguerite Deering, Miss Katharine Bowby, Miss Janet Jones, Mrs. Milton B. Henderson and the hostess.

The Ladies' Elk "500" Club met Wednesday, with Mrs. T. H. Bonney as hostess. The prizes were won by Mrs. G. D. Rushmore, Mrs. W. Allard, Mrs. M. S. Gram, Mrs. D. Campbell, Mrs. W. E. Jackson and Mrs. W. Adams. The next meeting will be held March 15. All Elks' wives, mothers, daughters and sisters are cordially invited.

The committee in charge of the inter-school hop has made arrangements to have a dance at Cotillon hall April 17. There will be several added attractions during the evening.

A delightful affair of yesterday was the party given by Mr. and Mrs. John Ditchburn in honor of her son, C. E. Mende. The house was decorated prettily for the occasion with a profusion of Spring blossoms. There were a number of features of the evening, and an elaborate collation was served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fay, Mr. and Mrs. W. Noyer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. John Ditchburn, Mrs. J. Drysdale, Miss E. Lyle, Miss M. Fay, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barnicle, Miss A. Barnicle, J. A. Hansen, C. E. Mende, R. Clary and Master George Noyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine R. Smith will entertain this evening with a large card party at their residence in Mount Tabor. Guests have been asked for 15 tables of the game.

Miss Claire Houghton has asked guests for an informal dinner this evening, and the latter part of the evening will be devoted to bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett (Kathleen Barlett), formerly of Tacoma, are being felicitated upon the arrival of a baby boy, who was born Tuesday. He will be named William, Jr.

The Woman's League, of the First Congregational Church, is planning another delightfully informal "at home" to be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the church parlors.

A brief programme, including a group of Welsh folk songs by E. Madsen Evans and an illustrated talk on Oregon wild flowers by Professor Sweetser, of the University of Oregon, will be given.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

An event awaited eagerly is the dancing party to be given by the Michigan Society Dancing Club Wednesday night, March 11. The new steps will be danced. The committee on arrangements is Mrs. Harriet Hendee, chairman; Miss Frances Vandervall, Miss Bessie Hager, Miss Hazeltrude Shaw, Miss Louise M. Colter, J. Billo, J. Bush and S. Frost.

Parent Teacher Associations

THE Portland Parent-Teacher Associations at their general business meeting held in the Library yesterday afternoon voted unanimously to send their president, Mrs. F. S. Myers, to Washington, D. C., to attend the National convention of the Congress of Mothers to be held April 22 to 27. Mrs. Myers will be asked to represent the Portland organization as their delegate to the National body. The motion was made by Mrs. C. W. Haystrick and was received with cheers and applause.

Mrs. Martin Wagner presided. An invitation was received from Mrs. Alexander, of the trades school, asking the association to hold its luncheon May 7 at the trades school, the girls of the school to prepare the report and arrange all the details.

O. M. Plummer spoke urging the women to attend the meeting to be held at the City Hall today regarding the meat inspection ordinance. Dr. Charles Ballard gave an able address on "Fly Swatting," speaking from a scientific and practical viewpoint.

Mrs. L. E. Ward, of Arleta, spoke regarding the proposed adoption of the Rigler textbook, referring to the book as "a ruination of the mathematical mind of the children of the day." She urged the women to attend a protest meeting if one were held.

The luncheon at the Hotel Portland that preceded the business meeting was well attended.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be an open meeting of the Oregon Congress of Mothers at the Meier & Frank room. Mrs. Arlene Pells, president, urged all the members of the Parent-Teacher Association to attend.

West Portland Circle Parent-Teacher Association will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting today at 3 o'clock. Mrs. S. W. Matham and Professor R. Krohn will give a demonstration and lecture on recreation for children. After the business is concluded refreshments will be served.

In the department conference on social work yesterday at the Library, Mrs. J. Kelly, chairman of the social committee of the Portland Parent-Teacher Association, gave an inspiring address and made many helpful suggestions.

Mrs. L. E. Ward led the lunch committee meeting in room G, representatives from 25 circles attending. By unanimous vote the members decided to federate as a "hot lunch" committee of the whole in the Central Parent-Teacher Council. Principal Newbill, of Arleta, was appointed chairman of the committee. Mrs. Allahands, of Lewellyn; Mrs. Bonham, of Montavilla; Mrs. Henry Hunt, of Rose City Park, and Mrs. McCoy, of Peninsula, were appointed to get in touch with the canning department of the Federal Government, asking that experimental canning depots be placed in the schools.

Dr. Mary Madigan will go to the Industrial Home next Friday afternoon to give a talk, being the representative from the Parent-Educational Bureau of the Oregon Congress of Mothers.

Lenis Parent-Teacher Association will give an entertainment on March 5 at 8 o'clock at the schoolhouse. An interesting programme will be a feature. At the last meeting Miss Gertrude Russell gave an address on the campfire movement and as a result two camps will shortly be organized in Leota.

The board of directors of the Old People's Home met yesterday and held their annual election of officers. Mrs. P. J. Mann, founder of the home, who has served capably as the head of the institution for several years, was unanimously elected president. Other officers who will assist in the management of the affairs of the home for the year are: First vice-president, Mrs. H. L. Pittcock; second vice-president, Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse; treasurer, William M. Ladd; assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. G. Gaud; secretary, Mrs. Herbert Holman; assistant secretary, Mrs. H. C. Eckenberger; corresponding secretary, Mrs. David Robertson.

The new board members, elected at the annual meeting of the membership on Monday, included Mrs. Mann, Mrs. H. H. Northrup, Mrs. Thannhauser, Mrs. Morris Whitehouse. The other members of the board are Mrs. J. H. Presar, Mrs. David Robertson, Mrs. Frederick R. Strong, Mrs. Robert W. Forbes, Mrs. E. B. Hamilton, Mrs. H. L. Pittcock, Mrs. J. G. Gaud, Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mrs. H. C. Eckenberger, Mrs. Martin Winch.

The board of trustees, elected yesterday, includes: Cyrus A. Dolph, W. M. Ladd, J. N. Teal, Richard Williams and Martin Winch.

Mrs. Hamilton, who acted as presiding officer during the illness of Mrs. Mann last season, has worked untiringly for the best interests of the home and has been assisted loyally by the members.

The annual tea for the benefit of the home will be held on Easter Wednesday and will be of interest not only socially but as a means of drawing attention of the general public to the splendid institution.

The Oregon Alumnae Association will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Library, room A. Miss Dorothea Nash will give a lecture. A large attendance is anticipated. The hour set is 2:30 o'clock. The patronesses for the afternoon are Miss Agnes Beach, Mrs. M. F. Caley, Mrs. E. N. Blythe, Miss Mary Gray.

Chapter C. P. E. O. Sisterhood, will meet today with Mrs. Margaret Seitz, 610 East Stark street. The annual reports and election will take place.

The biology department of the Portland Woman's Club will meet this afternoon at 8 o'clock. Professor Torrey will speak on "Adolescence."

The "inner circle" of the Psychology Society.

Informal dinner and bridge this evening by Miss Claire Houghton.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Smith, card party this evening.

Woman's League card party this evening at First Congregational Church parlors.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. Loveland honored at reception tonight at the First Methodist Church, Twelfth and Taylor streets.

Chapter C. P. E. O. Sisterhood, with Mrs. Margaret Seitz, 610 East Stark street, this afternoon.

Biology Department, Portland Woman's Club, this afternoon at 8 o'clock.

Women's Clubs

By Edith Knight Holmes.

THE board of directors of the Old People's Home met yesterday and held their annual election of officers. Mrs. P. J. Mann, founder of the home, who has served capably as the head of the institution for several years, was unanimously elected president. Other officers who will assist in the management of the affairs of the home for the year are: First vice-president, Mrs. H. L. Pittcock; second vice-president, Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse; treasurer, William M. Ladd; assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. G. Gaud; secretary, Mrs. Herbert Holman; assistant secretary, Mrs. H. C. Eckenberger; corresponding secretary, Mrs. David Robertson.

The new board members, elected at the annual meeting of the membership on Monday, included Mrs. Mann, Mrs. H. H. Northrup, Mrs. Thannhauser, Mrs. Morris Whitehouse. The other members of the board are Mrs. J. H. Presar, Mrs. David Robertson, Mrs. Frederick R. Strong, Mrs. Robert W. Forbes, Mrs. E. B. Hamilton, Mrs. H. L. Pittcock, Mrs. J. G. Gaud, Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mrs. H. C. Eckenberger, Mrs. Martin Winch.

The board of trustees, elected yesterday, includes: Cyrus A. Dolph, W. M. Ladd, J. N. Teal, Richard Williams and Martin Winch.

Mrs. Hamilton, who acted as presiding officer during the illness of Mrs. Mann last season, has worked untiringly for the best interests of the home and has been assisted loyally by the members.

The annual tea for the benefit of the home will be held on Easter Wednesday and will be of interest not only socially but as a means of drawing attention of the general public to the splendid institution.

The Oregon Alumnae Association will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Library, room A. Miss Dorothea Nash will give a lecture. A large attendance is anticipated. The hour set is 2:30 o'clock. The patronesses for the afternoon are Miss Agnes Beach, Mrs. M. F. Caley, Mrs. E. N. Blythe, Miss Mary Gray.

Chapter C. P. E. O. Sisterhood, will meet today with Mrs. Margaret Seitz, 610 East Stark street. The annual reports and election will take place.

The biology department of the Portland Woman's Club will meet this afternoon at 8 o'clock. Professor Torrey will speak on "Adolescence."

The "inner circle" of the Psychology Society.

Informal dinner and bridge this evening by Miss Claire Houghton.

A few of the conditions that make for insomnia. Avoid late and heavy dinners. If you use tea or coffee discontinue them, for no light or strong drink beverages that use up energy but produce no equivalent.

A warm tub bath at 98 to 100 degrees, remaining perfectly quiet in the water, and continuing the bath for 20 or 30 minutes, drying and going right to bed, often produces the most restful sleep.

Sleep in a cold room, with as much light as possible excluded. If the feet are inclined to be cold use a hot water bag. Silex ointment.

As an aid to exclude external sounds I would suggest that you place a firm wad of cotton in each ear at bedtime and remove in the morning. This may annoy you for a night or two, but you will find that slight sounds will not reach your brain so easily. Then I would suggest that you start an active campaign in your neighborhood to swat the roosters.

The time should develop a rooster without a crow. Until such a product can be produced, there should be a strong public sentiment in every neighborhood to exterminate this disturber of the silent night as well as of the egg basket. Those who have choice birds and cannot afford to quiet them for all time should be required to put them in solitary confinement within sound proof walls for the night.

Moreover, hens do not lay so many eggs when a rooster is distracting their attention, and what is more important to those of us who live in the cities and have to buy eggs, fertile eggs do not keep so fresh as the non-fertile eggs. Therefore for these and other reasons let us swat the roosters.

The time should develop a rooster without a crow. Until such a product can be produced, there should be a strong public sentiment in every neighborhood to exterminate this disturber of the silent night as well as of the egg basket. Those who have choice birds and cannot afford to quiet them for all time should be required to put them in solitary confinement within sound proof walls for the night.

Moreover, hens do not lay so many eggs when a rooster is distracting their attention, and what is more important to those of us who live in the cities and have to buy eggs, fertile eggs do not keep so fresh as the non-fertile eggs. Therefore for these and other reasons let us swat the roosters.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessing Fuessle.

(Copyright—The Adams Newspaper Service.)
The Morning After.

MARIAN lay awake for hours, unable to sleep, after her supper in the Pompeian room with Bert. Crouched under the covers of her bed, she seemed to be lying at the bottom of a world-wide void. Already the few wonderful hours in which she had stood on the hilltops of hope seemed a lifetime ago. Again, life stretched ahead of her in grays and blacks.

Suddenly one of Bert's sentences leaped at her out of her chamber's gloom. "She's a divorced woman," he had told her, in explaining his inability to marry the woman he loved. Who was she? For the first time the question flew into her mind. Could it have been the one whom he meant?

It was possible—strongly probable—and the more she thought of it the more certain she became. He had given her no reason to suppose that he meant another. Everything that had preceded seemed to bear out her conclusion—his manner, his words, everything.

Could it be, she wondered, that he had come to her as he did for the sole purpose of hurrying this harsh fact into her mind? The speculation revolved around and about in her mind. He guessed how much she had always cared for him and taken this opportunity to punish her for the manner in which she had married? The bells took on a bitter resentment for what he had done took possession of her. She hated him for his cruelty and wept herself to sleep in sheer and utter despair.

When she awoke in the morning the events of the past evening came back to her, a grim procession of unwelcome visitors. The prospect of marrying again, this time to a man she genuinely loved, followed by the jolt Bert had given her, left her almost sick and when she rose she was aware of a raging headache.

"Come here, sweet, old comrades," she said as she began to dress, "you've got your work cut out for you. We're going job hunting and we've got to find something. Unless we work we can't eat. Heavens," she moaned, "if there were only something that I knew how to do! How do women ever accomplish anything anyway? If I only had some sort of talent! If I had only learned something at school that amounted to anything!"

Such is the complaint of thousands of divorced women. Marriage is a serious venture, but divorce is a thousand-fold more serious. The problem of the divorced woman is a serious one.

When she awoke in the morning the events of the past evening came back to her, a grim procession of unwelcome visitors. The prospect of marrying again, this time to a man she genuinely loved, followed by the jolt Bert had given her, left her almost sick and when she rose she was aware of a raging headache.

"Come here, sweet, old comrades," she said as she began to dress, "you've got your work cut out for you. We're going job hunting and we've got to find something. Unless we work we can't eat. Heavens," she moaned, "if there were only something that I knew how to do! How do women ever accomplish anything anyway? If I only had some sort of talent! If I had only learned something at school that amounted to anything!"

Such is the complaint of thousands of divorced women. Marriage is a serious venture, but divorce is a thousand-fold more serious. The problem of the divorced woman is a serious one.

When she awoke in the morning the events of the past evening came back to her, a grim procession of unwelcome visitors. The prospect of marrying again, this time to a man she genuinely loved, followed by the jolt Bert had given her, left her almost sick and when she rose she was aware of a raging headache.

"Come here, sweet, old comrades," she said as she began to dress, "you've got your work cut out for you. We're going job hunting and we've got to find something. Unless we work we can't eat. Heavens," she moaned, "if there were only something that I knew how to do! How do women ever accomplish anything anyway? If I only had some sort of talent! If I had only learned something at school that amounted to anything!"

Such is the complaint of thousands of divorced women. Marriage is a serious venture, but divorce is a thousand-fold more serious. The problem of the divorced woman is a serious one.

When she awoke in the morning the events of the past evening came back to her, a grim procession of unwelcome visitors. The prospect of marrying again, this time to a man she genuinely loved, followed by the jolt Bert had given her, left her almost sick and when she rose she was aware of a raging headache.

"Come here, sweet, old comrades," she said as she began to dress, "you've got your work cut out for you. We're going job hunting and we've got to find something. Unless we work we can't eat. Heavens," she moaned, "if there were only something that I knew how to do! How do women ever accomplish anything anyway? If I only had some sort of talent! If I had only learned something at school that amounted to anything!"

Such is the complaint of thousands of divorced women. Marriage is a serious venture, but divorce is a thousand-fold more serious. The problem of the divorced woman is a serious one.

When she awoke in the morning the events of the past evening came back to her, a grim procession of unwelcome visitors. The prospect of marrying again, this time to a man she genuinely loved, followed by the jolt Bert had given her, left her almost sick and when she rose she was aware of a raging headache.

"Come here, sweet, old comrades," she said as she began to dress, "you've got your work cut out for you. We're going job hunting and we've got to find something. Unless we work we can't eat. Heavens," she moaned, "if there were only something that I knew how to do! How do women ever accomplish anything anyway? If I only had some sort of talent! If I had only learned something at school that amounted to anything!"

Such is the complaint of thousands of divorced women. Marriage is a serious venture, but divorce is a thousand-fold more serious. The problem of the divorced woman is a serious one.

When she awoke in the morning the events of the past evening came back to her, a grim procession of unwelcome visitors. The prospect of marrying again, this time to a man she genuinely loved, followed by the jolt Bert had given her, left her almost sick and when she rose she was aware of a raging headache.

"Come here, sweet, old comrades," she said as she began to dress, "you've got your work cut out for you. We're going job hunting and we've got to find something. Unless we work we can't eat. Heavens," she moaned, "if there were only something that I knew how to do! How do women ever accomplish anything anyway? If I only had some sort of talent! If I had only learned something at school that amounted to anything!"

Such is the complaint of thousands of divorced women. Marriage is a serious venture, but divorce is a thousand-fold more serious. The problem of the divorced woman is a serious one.

New Waists

$1.35

TWELVE different models in dainty crinkled crepes and embroidered voiles. Pretty touches of Cluny and shadow lace are added, some with bits of embroidery.

In smart blouse effects, with drop yokes, long three-quarter and short sleeves.

A Special Assortment at $1.35

Bartholomew

Portland's Exclusive Garment Shop for Women
Washington, at Tenth

makes me think of something Kipling wrote in his swinging sweet champagne. He picked up a little volume from the table and read:

"When an opulent papa sends his son and heir from the world to enlarge his mind, does he reflect, I wonder, on the places into which the innocent strolls under the guidance of equally inexperienced friends? He turned a leaf or two, and read on: 'It was not till a fat person in a black dressing gown began to squeal demands for horrible stuff called a bottle of wine that I began to understand the glory of the situation. I was seeing life. Life is a great thing. It consists in swigging sweet champagne that was stolen from a steward of the P. and O. and exchanging bad words with pale-faced baggages who laugh denzably without effort and without emotion.'"

"So they cursed and they drank and they told tales, sitting in a circle till I felt that this was really life, and a thing to be culled if I wished to like it." "There was an interlude and some more shrieks and howls, which the generous public thought of as an immense mirth and enjoyment of life."

"This spoke about themselves as 'gay.' They does not look much on paper. To appreciate the full grimace of the calm hear it from their lips amid their own surroundings. I winked with vigor to show that I appreciated life and was a real chippy, and that upon me, there were no flies." "There is an intoxication in company that carries a man to excess of mirth; but when a party of four deliberately sit down to drink and swear, the bottom tumbles out of the amusement somehow, and loathing and boredom follow." "If this be life, give me a little honest death, without drinks and without foul jesting. Any way you look at it, it's a poor performance, badly played, and not near to a tragedy to be pleasant. But it seems to amuse the young man wandering about the world, and I cannot believe it is altogether good for him."

"That's the truth," agreed the New Bride, gravely. "I wish that view of life is called seeing life would beget more general. So many people, especially young folks, seem to think it is smart and clever and quite the thing, to do the 'seeing life' stunt. If they would only think a little deeper and get at the real meaning of such an experience, how much better they would understand that life truly is, and what joy is in it. This method of 'seeing life' makes me think of looking into a charnel house full of grewsome and dead men's bones and creeping and crawling things; when all about is a beautiful landscape for them to feast their eyes upon, with flowers and blue skies and brooks and birds and children's laughter. Why will people choose death when they can have life?"

One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

Worrell's

The Largest Cloak and Suit House on the Coast

Our Great Discount Sale

OF 33 1-3 PER CENT ON EVERY NEW SPRING SUIT, COAT OR DRESS

As a profit-sharing possibility is being largely taken advantage of by hundreds of women today—Think of it, buying your

New Spring Garments

AT THE BEGINNING OF THE SEASON AT

1/3 LESS

THAN REGULAR PRICES

$75.00 Garments at	$49.85
$60.00 Garments at	$39.85
$45.00 Garments at	$29.85
$35.00 Garments at	$22.45
$30.00 Garments at	$19.85
$25.00 Garments at	$16.65
$22.50 Garments at	$14.95
$15.00 Garments at	$9.75

WORRELL'S

Sample Cloak & Suit House

CORNER SIXTH AND ALDER, OPPOSITE OREGONIAN

the button-over forms which are extremely straight in cut and give the effect of a waistcoat. Not only are these wide girdles attached to the smart two-piece suits with bolero jacket, but they are also used extensively on gowns with the waist showing the stimulated bolero. Many conservative forms are cut slightly below the waist-line, but others are made to come well over the hips—in fact, they are almost as deep as a skirt yoke.

Majestic Opens New Bill. One of those thrilling pictures of Parisian crime and clever detective work is being exhibited at the Majestic. It is entitled "Fantomas, the Mysterious Fingerprint," and is a production of the Gaumont Company. The picture has merit was evidenced by the fact that the theater was crowded all the afternoon and evening.

The story is a typical one of the Paris underworld, replete with murder, assassination, miraculous escapes and marvelous detection. In a way, the story is a serial, although it is complete in itself, or it might be more correct to say that it is to have a sequel, for the announcement is made at the end of the film that "the remarkable adventures of the phantom crook will be continued shortly."

