SENATE TO WAIT ON ACTION BY HOUSE

Meanwhile Committee Reports Amended Tolls Exemption Repeal Measure.

DEFINITE MINIMUM FIXED

of the controversy.

This was determined today after a canvass of members of the Senate com-mittee, who believe the question should take its course in tre lower house before consideration of any bill or amendment is undertaken by them. Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the committee, who will lead the fight within the party ranks against repeat, said tonight that he did not expect to call the committee together until he House has acted.

Fallure Regarded as Remote.

Should the House fail to pass the re-peal, which Administration leaders say is wholly inprobable, the subject would not be dropped in the Senate. Senator Root has a repeal bill pend-ing before the committee and an amendment to the Panama Canal act was introduced last week by Senator Chilton which would accomplish the repeal by giving the President absolute authority over canal tolls even to assessing charges where exemption is provided for American coastwise

The committee on interstate commerce today favorably reported the Sims bill to the House revised so as to repeal all features of the existing exemption clause. It probably will be taken up in the House within a few Representative Knowland, of Califor-nia, a Republican member of the interstate commerce committee, said this action "forever closed the United States" right to pass a battleship, rev-enue cutter, collier, lightship or other Government craft through the American canal without the payment of tolls."

Huerta? These are the important internal considerations.

Will Intervention Be Forced?

More important, perhaps than these, Interesting Data Given Out Showing is the overshadowing question whether the United States will not be forced to other side of the water?

That American intervention in Mexico is a matter of the future no one in Mexico City doubts—that is, if the United States intends to insist on constitutional government and the preservation of peace and order in this neighboring country. Huerta's elimination is not likely to settle the Mexican problem. There is no man in Mexico to take his place with the ability and strength to overcome the hibit of revolution which has been so assiduously

The situation among the unemployed Mr. Redfield regarded as improving. "Affairs in that respect," he said, "are better than they were 90 days back."

Nearly $1,000,000 now has been set lution which has been so assiduously cuttivated since the retirement of Don Porfirio Diaz. Indeed, there is no man in the world. The fault lies not with brigandage and bandittism by the selfseeking politicians, the most troublesome of whom are often unholy con binations of Indian, Spanish and possibly African blood.

Further Turmoil Certain.

So, even if Huerta goes and another takes his place, there is bound to be further revolution, turmoil and bloodshed. The country cannot stand much more of this sort of thing; the powers of the world with buge sums invested here probably will not stand for it. There is ample proof that one revo-

It was the custom of the country and it was necessary for him to do so in order to demonstrate his true worth, his bravery and his superiority over the victorious candidate There is one instance, said to be the only one in Mexican history, where a defeated candidate congratulated his victorious opponent. That man is politically dead in Mexico today. The people were completely incapable of understanding his motives and considered his action a show of weakness.

Resident Americans Bitter. That America's course of action does not meet with the approval of the Huertistas goes without saying. That themselves descrited by their own country. They consider their right to re-They consider their right to realde here and engage in business as inalienable as their right to the protection of their Government and to be

There have been, and are, in Mexico, Americans of an undestrable class, trouble-makers who arouse anti-Americanism, but there are also men of the highest type of Americanism, mining engineers, merchants and farmers. Some of these have made that ers. Some of these bave made their life work in Mexico. In this city there are many who have settled down, established what were flourishing businesses, bought their homes and have their families with them. Too old to establish themselves eisewhere, they must remain here. The Americans in Mexico C'ty are better off than many elsewhere, particularly in those regions in the war zone, for here business continues after a fashion, while in other places it is utterly rulued. Also, there is little danger to American life and limb in Mexico City.

Capital Life Has Darker Side Despite the gayety of the capital, there is the other and blacker side. On the curbs, with baby on back and hand outheld for alms, is some poor indian woman, literally keeping house in the outheld for aims, is some poor indian, woman, literally keeping house in the gutter. She probably knows no other home than the streets. Then occasionally down the streets come a company of soldiers, formed in a hollow square. Within this square, marching along as prisoners, are ascore or more of what are seriously but humorously called "voluntarios," poor peons, indians mostly, barefooted, ragged, some sad of face, others smilling, who have just been impressed into the army. It is the "leva," or levy, and each night the soldiers sweep out of their barracks, go to the poorer sections of the city, make arrests by the score and thus obtain recruits for the army in the north. It is estimated that within the last fortnight 3000 or more of these men have been jicked up on the streets.

Foreigners Are Apprehensive. There is discernable, particularly among foreigners, a constant state of irritable apprehension. They who went through the "decena tragica," or tragic ten days, a year ago, know what a genuine outbreak in this great city means. They know the horrors and dangers of a great battle in the middle of a large city, how thousands are killed in the streets and how no place is safe when Mexican soldiery turns in. discriminately loose with rifles, ma-chine guns and field pieces. They have seen hundreds die and buildings fall under a heavy fire, and they do not want any more of it. Whether a repetition of that great disaster is possible is solely a matter of conjecture. General Huerta him-self says that it is not, that his troops are under thorough control. This is likely true and while a plot is pos-sible, resulting in a coup de etat for the overthrow of Huerta, it is not

MARKET IS FLOODED

On Contrary, Notes Secretary, Imports Are Actually Less Under New Tariff.

PROPHECY NOT REALIZED

Affairs Among Unemployed Held to Be Better Than Month Ago and "Much Better" Than They Were 90 Days Ago.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 10,-Wil-liam C. Redfield, Secretary of Com-merce, addressing the State Business Men's Association of Connecticut tonight, asked what had become of the threatened flooding of American markets with foreign-made goods attracted by the new tariff schedules. "All men are witnesses that the flooding of our markets with the products of the so-called pauper labor of Europe has not occurred," he said. "Nay, the total imports for the entire period since the tariff came into effect are actually less than they were for a like period a year ago. What has be-come of the millions on millions in value of goods waiting to be unloaded upon us whereby the power to purchase more cheaply was to bring disaster and distress upon American industries? was only 12 less than the number of men. The figures were 224 "Instead, as editors and speakers look back over the cold, hard facts of our foreign trade their remarks about

"Meanwhile the current has run strongly the other way and particular-ly is this true in the shape of fully finished materials, our foreign trade in sible, resulting in a coup de etat for the overthrow of Huerta, it is not likely that Mexico City will again go through the experience of last year.

FRICK IN HUGE COAL DEAL

FRICK IN HUGE COAL DEAL a rude shock when the imports for January fell off over $30,000,000, so as even to be less by almost $9,000,00 than the month of January, 1913. It is nor-mal and we expect a growth in the imports of manufactures under the new tariffs, in order that competitive con-ditions may exist to the general good. It is equally normal and we expect that as great or a larger growth will take place in the exportations of man-ufactures in order that business may run more steadily in our American shops and that the gold of the nations may be brought in increasing quanti-tics tinto the pockets of our people. Credit Denied "Big Business."

Of our foreign commerce, Mr. Redfield said, he did not share the belief that "big business" could claim the lion's share of credit for creating and holding trade in other countries. "Much that has been done by our big industries in the foreign field is ad-mirable," he said, "but their claim that they are essential to our success abroad cannot in my judgment be established. I think there is not one of them that could not do this business quite as well if they were smaller than they though I have no objection to their big-ness by itself considered." The secretary was optimistic concerning general conditions.

OAT FLAVOR NOT PROVED

Department of Agriculture Reports Result of Milk Test.

WASHINGTON, March 10,- (Special.)
-The Department of Agriculture recently reported the result of experi-ments to test the effect of oats on the flavor of milk. These experiments showed that oats do not have the beneficial effect on the flavor of milk which many dairymen believe. But as tested against oats, the public has gained the impression erroneously that the department recommends the feeding of corn and bran to improve the flavor of milk. Of 50 opinions ex-pressed regarding the flavor of the samples 25 preferred the milk from cows fed corn and bran. As 16 preferred the milk from cows fed oats and nine expressed no choice, it does not appear that either ration has any decided advantage over the other.

There can be no great superiority in

There can be no great superiority in the bran and corn when one-half of the opinions either were indifferent or were in favor of the other milk.

In view of these experiments the department does not recommend the feeding of bran and corn to improve the flavor of milk. Oats, corn, alfalfa hay, cottonseed meal, linseed meal, bran gluten and other good feeds for dairy cows, when properly fed in reasonable amounts, produce a fine-flavored milk but there is no substantial evidence that any one of them is superior to any of the others in this respect.
