

COLTS HAVE OPTION ON YOUNG PITCHERS

McCredie Brings Brashear to Beaver Camp as Utility Man for Infield.

LOBER FINDS BATTING EYE

Hansen and Frambach, of Recruit Twirling Staff, Big Features of Practice Games—Davis, Speas and Hig Found Leather.

BY ROSCOE PAWCETT. PORTLAND TRAINING CAMP, Santa Maria, Cal., March 12.—(Special.)—Walt McCredie returned from Los Angeles today, and if Pinal oil wells had been squirting grapejuice the camp couldn't have been busier.

After announcing the signing of Roy Brashear for a utility pitcher, the Beaver chieftain conferred with Nick Williams, Portland Northwest manager, gave him first crack at a couple of young pitchers, distributed the new road uniforms, and then picked his two picked teams at each other in a red-hot seven-inning practice game.

But, more about Mac and his Brashear business: The former captain of the Venice Tigers is to report tomorrow, and McCredie thinks he will help a lot. Brashear is down to weight and is anxious for a job. He was released by Happy Hogan to make room at second base for Bill Leard.

"Brashear tore a ligament loose from the lower bone in his leg last season," explained McCredie. "So he did not have a good year, but he has been hanging around 200 year in and year out and will do so again. I intend to carry six infielders for the first few weeks."

The record book shows the veteran's bat work for four years past to be as follows: 1910, 234 and 37 stolen bases; 1911, 297 and 26 stolen bases; 1912, 314 and 27 stolen bases; 1913, 254 and 12 stolen bases.

Nick Williams left for San Francisco without any definite promise about Outfielder Milligan. Mac wants to carry the Cedar Rapids recruit for a few weeks, for he looks mighty promising, but Nick needs strengthening in the gardens.

Lober Finds Batting Eye

So there the cause resting. In today's practice session the hitting of Lober, Speas, Higginbotham and Davis, and the pitching of Recruits Hansen, of San Bernardino, and Frambach, of Rupert, Idaho, featured. In three times up Lober poled out three screaming singles, while Speas and Davis smacked two nice Krauss jumps out onto one of Hanson's fast ones for a wallop 50 feet over deep left fence for a homer.

The lineup with the hits, follow: Yainigans—Bancroft, ss.; Speas, 2b, 2 hits; Ryan, c.f., 1 hit; Doane, lf., 1 double; Kellerman, 3b.; Lober, 1b., 3 hits; Fisher, p., 1 double; Haworth, c.; Brown, r.f., 1 hit; Hanson, p.; West, p.; Regulars—Derriek, 1b., 1 hit; Davis, ss., 2 hits; Rodgers, 2b., 1 hit; Koros, 2b.; Milligan, c.f., 1 hit; Perkins, 1 homer; Higginbotham, p., 2 hits; Perkins, c., 1 hit; Smith, p.; Frambach, p. Score by innings—1 2 0 1 0 0—4

Yainigans.....2 3 1 1 1 0—9 Hits.....0 1 0 0 1 0—2 Regulars.....2 1 0 2 3 2—9 Hits.....2 1 0 2 3 2—9

Cowboy Hope Falls.

Seaton's cowboy hope, Smith, pitched the first four innings against the Yainigans, and the score speaks volumes. Frambach relieved him for the last three, and the 19-year-old blond again proved of gilt-edge stock. He walked two and allowed two scattering singles. The Regs would not have scored except for a wild heave by Perkins.

Big Hanson may be the sphere across with rifle-like velocity. He has a wonderful move in the box, and some time is sure to be a class AA leaguer. Hanson is a little shy on control, however, and like all youngsters, has a lot more of the fine stuff to master.

WOLVES SHOW BETTER FORM

One Southpaw Pitching Recruit Returns to Montana Home.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., March 12.—(Special.)—Captain Wolverton will be a more dangerous hitter in the pinches this year than last. Pep Young will be a better batter this year than last, and this improvement will bolster up his fielding work so that he will be an even better ground coverer than he was last season.

Recruit Second Baseman Gil de Forrest is due to find his batting eye within the next week. Southpaw Pitcher Mike Cann is rapidly rounding into condition where he will show up the boys who thought they could condemn him to the discard last week. Recruit Outfielder Gillespie is showing himself a great ground coverer in fielding and is possessed of one of the best throwing arms seen thus far in camp.

In a nutshell these are the developments in the training camp of the Sacramento Wolves. The pitching squad in camp has been cut by one southpaw, Anderson having been sent back to Montana. Al Schweitzer will be required to take things easy for a day or two on account of a broken toenail, suffered today when he batted a ball full force on his foot.

JEFFERSON NAMES OFFICERS

Milton Hermann Chosen President of Athletic Association.

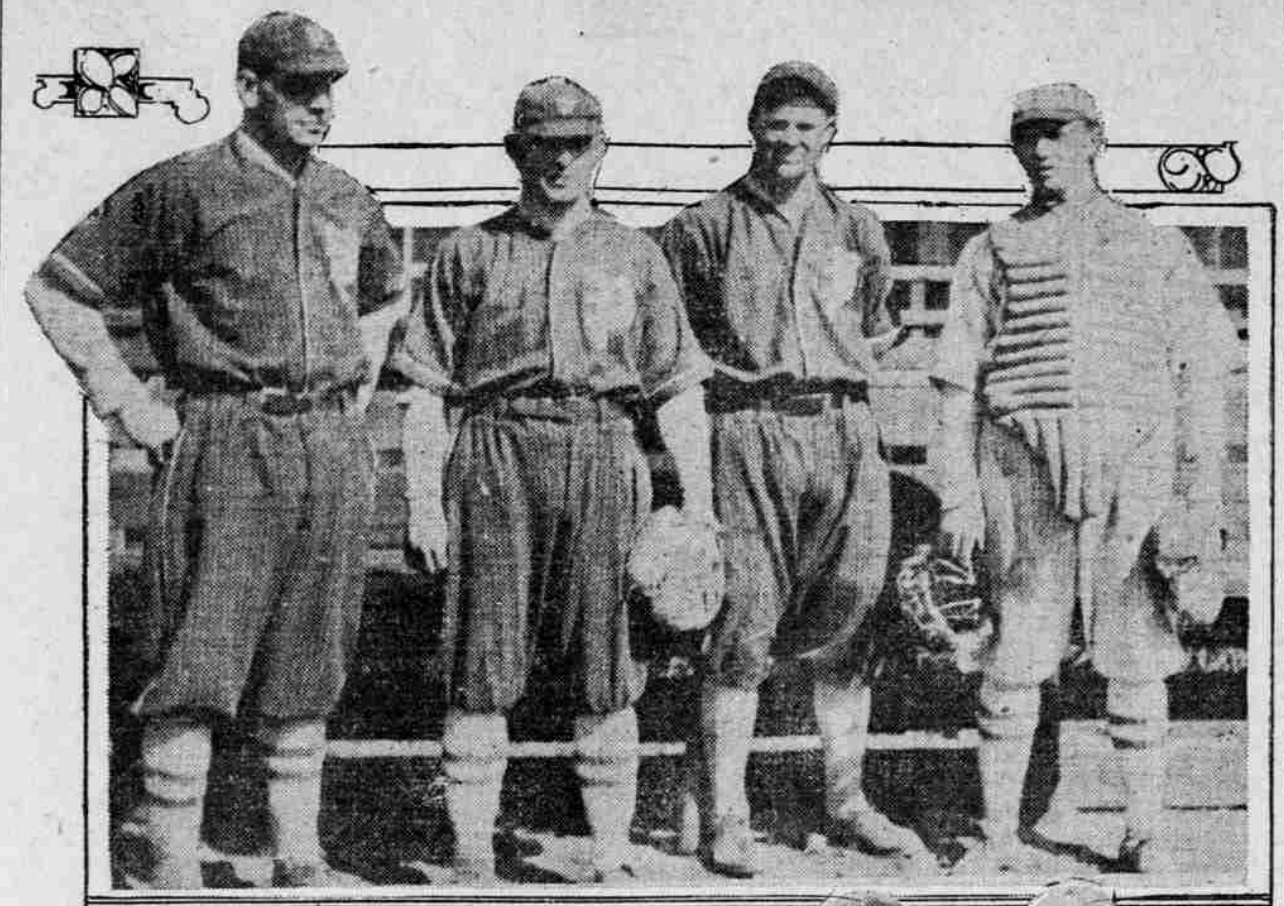

Officers of the Jefferson High School Athletic Association were elected for the ensuing term at a meeting held in the school auditorium yesterday. Milton Hermann was elected president, Flo Killingsworth vice-president, Clarence Farelus secretary, Laymon Bonney treasurer, Phoebe Snow sergeant-at-arms, Mr. Jamison and Miss Donnell faculty advisers, James Sheehy, Louise Watson, John Kennedy, Fred Johnson and Steve Wilcox board of directors.

Milton Hermann managed the 1913 football team and for the past two years he has been a big factor in the school's athletics. At present he is out for a pitching berth on the 1914 nine and chances are that he will again manage the football team next fall.

Laymon Bonney has represented the school in every form of athletics for the past year and has made five official "jags."

The first "matinee dance" given by the June 14 class will be held in the school gymnasium today, starting immediately after school and lasting until 5:30 o'clock. The funds derived from the dance will go toward defraying the expenses of printing the Specimen, the official paper of the school. The June 14 class also decided to stage the "College Widow," but the exact date of presentation has not been selected.

PENDLETON DROPS TRI-STATE LEAGUE

Baseball Enthusiasts Refuse to Put Up Cash to Support Game in That City.

SUCCESSOR STILL IN DOUBT

Vale, Lewiston and The Dalles Are Mentioned as Possible Contenders for Franchise but None Considered Seriously.

PENDLETON, Or., March 12.—(Special.)—Wesley N. Matlock, president of the Pendleton club, tonight said: "Our action was caused by the lack of proper support. The banks refuse to make any contribution and the sentiment among hotels and other business houses was anything but encouraging. While we could probably raise the necessary money without their assistance, I do not think it fair to ask the directors to sacrifice their time and money and then not receive the support of the business community. I am not blaming the men for refusing to contribute, but I do blame them for not making their attitude known before."

Walter McCredie Exemplifying the Spirit of Two Young Giant Pitchers, Hanson and Salveson

President Brown sought by telephone to induce the local directors to rescind their action, but was told it was final. Pendleton has surrendered the franchise of the Western Tri-State League. Efforts of Mayor Matlock, who was head of the Tri-State club in the "Let'er Buck" city, to obtain support from baseball enthusiasts failed and he decided to give up plans to furnish organized baseball for the town.

This decision was made after a committee of ardent fans had spent a week in soliciting funds to support the team and had obtained a little more than $100 in Portland.

LAST SOCCER GAME SCHEDULED

Columbia and University of Oregon Teams to Meet Tomorrow.

SOCCER TIE TO BE DECIDED

Varsity Team Will Play Columbia in Portland Saturday.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, March 12.—(Special.)—The university soccer team is practicing hard for its final game next Saturday, when the Columbia University will be played on Multnomah field, Portland, to settle the tie of last Saturday.

Eugene has become soccer enthused since the Columbia-Oregon match, and indications point favorably toward a permanent installation of the British sport. In fact local Englishmen, some of whom played on famous teams of their country, are turning out with the varsity men and helping them master the finer points of soccer.

Dr. Stewart, athletic director of the Oregon Agricultural College, said when here last Saturday with his basketball team: "Just as soon as our new football field is completed two soccer fields will be provided at Corvallis."

From Dr. Stewart's attitude and that of the Oregon coaches, intercollegiate soccer games are not far distant. Colin V. Dymont and squad of 12 men will leave early Saturday morning for Portland.

BOHLER'S SELECTION OPPOSED

Dr. Stewart, of O. A. C., Names All-Northwest Basketball Team.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Or., March 12.—(Special.)—Dr. E. J. Stewart, athletic sponsor at the Oregon Agricultural College, has selected an All-Northwest basketball quintet which he thinks would be an even more formidable aggregation than the five officially chosen by Coach Bohler, of Washington State.

Stewart's team is as follows: Forwards, Loux, of Idaho, and Dewey, of Oregon Agricultural College; center, Savage, of Washington; guards, WALLA WALLA, Wash., March 12.

Walter McCredie Exemplifying the Spirit of Two Young Giant Pitchers, Hanson and Salveson

(Special.)—L. M. Brown, president, secretary and treasurer of the Western Tri-State League, will go to Pendleton tomorrow to determine whether the possibilities of keeping Pendleton in the league are hopeless.

BASKET SHOOTERS USE FISTS

Boxing and Wrestling Feature Game Won by Washington.

Boxing and wrestling featured the 40-to-19 defeat of the Portland School of Trades basketball team at the hands of the second quintet of the Washington High School yesterday. The contest was played in the Washington High gymnasium. Breckon suffered a bloody nose, Heltschmidt an injured eye and Kaye is wearing a discolored right optic, the result of a right swing. Fouls were frequent on both sides. Breckon and Heltschmidt starred for the losers.

The lineup: Washington (40).....Trades (19) Harris.....Goal.....Gorecky Breckon.....F.....Winchell Parsons.....C.....Shiner Bohl.....G.....Jensen Heltschmidt.....G.....Jensen W. A. Fenstermacher, referee. Kaye

Hart Schaffner & Marx Good Clothes Makers

SAM'L ROSENBLATT & CO. The Home of "Hart Schaffner & Marx" Clothes.

Restless, Reckless, Fighting Bill Brady—Never Was Another Like Him! Starring as a newsboy in New York, he thought up a scheme to get the sporting news to the papers earlier than it had been done. He made big money, for a kid, and put the papers wise to the fact that sports were a good thing to play up. At 15 he rode the rods, without a bite to eat, half way across the country. In Nebraska, as a candy butcher on trains, he made a stake, got in a poker game with a seeming "rube," lost his roll, his stock and his shirt, and beat it for Frisco. At 18 he walked onto the professional stage, without a minute of training, assumed an important role, and got away with it. Before he was 21 he was a Shakespearean actor and manager, had his name on the boards, and shared curtain calls with his star. At 23 he toured the country in a "monster" production of "She"—eight real actors and one hundred supes. A rival company with a big cast published him as faker. He sued the manager for libel, threw him in jail, got a $10,000 verdict—then, in a regal manner, waived the verdict. He discovered Jim Corbett, took him all over the United States, made a lot of money, kept it all in his pockets for months, and nearly gave a bank cashier apoplexy by depositing, all at once, $13,500 in checks and drafts on banks in every corner of the country. He put every cent he could rake, scrape and borrow on Corbett at the battle of New Orleans. If Sullivan had won, he and Corbett and all their retinue would have walked the ties out of town. They departed on velvet, amid the popping of $4.50 corks. He never was a piker in anything. Many a time he has lost on the turn of a card what the rest of us would consider a fortune. He thinks in skyscraper figures. He can take a shoestring and stretch it into an Atlantic cable. He can make a nickel look like a million dollars! His life story contains 40,000 words. It will be served to you in chapters of 2000 words. The first installment will appear in this paper next Sunday, and succeeding chapters will appear in the Daily and Sunday Oregonian.

NEW FIELDER TRIES OUT MILLIGAN, DRAFTED FROM CEDAR RAPIDS, LOOKS GOOD. Player Who Slipped After Chance in American Association Comes Back and McCredie Grabs Him. PORTLAND TRAINING CAMP, Santa Maria, Cal., March 12.—(Special.)—Only one new outfielder is trying for a berth on the Portland Coast champs this year. His name is Davey Milligan, and he was drafted from Cedar Rapids last fall by McCredie, said city being in the Central Association, a class B league. Milligan began playing at Hannibal, Mo., in 1909, and went so well that he was purchased by Indianapolis of the American Association. But he didn't set the association on fire with his batting record of .253, nor did he startle anybody in 1911 back at Hannibal when he hit .266 and stole only 12 bases. But Dave began to "comeback" in 1912. He binged the leather at a .301 clip and grabbed off 56 stolen bases in the season. Last year Hannibal's franchise was transferred to Cedar Rapids. Milligan batted .320 and stole 53 bases. Then Manager McCredie grabbed him. Dave is 26 years old, stands 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 160 pounds. In fielding he looks mighty good. Just what disposal McCredie will make of his fifth outfielder, is problematical if the veterans all go good from the jump, Dave likely will land with Nick Williams. NAUGHTON FUNERAL IS LARGE Public Attends Funeral of Veteran Sporting Writer of California. SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Evidence of the affection and esteem in which W. W. Naughton was held, not only by newspapermen and the sporting fraternity, but by the public in general, was given today at the funeral of the veteran sporting writer, who died Tuesday. St. Mary's Cathedral, where the service was held, could not accommodate all of "Uncle Bill's" friends. Six members of the mechanical department of the Examiner, of which newspaper Naughton for many years was the sporting editor, carried the coffin. Honorary pallbearers, numbering many prominent newspaper and professional men and special committees from newspapers, social and athletic clubs marched in the procession. Messages of condolence from all parts of this country and from Australia have been received by Mrs. Naughton and the San Francisco Press Club, of which Naughton was president. PAYETTE TO PLAY BALL AGAIN Officers Elected and Four Teams Will Be in League. PAYETTE, Idaho, March 12.—(Special.)—At a meeting of business men and players of last year's team, held Tuesday night, it was decided that Payette would again enter the Idaho-Oregon Baseball League. Plans for the coming season were discussed and the following officers elected: C. E. Mandeville, league director; Nelson Wilber, manager; E. A. Moss, financial manager; Tom Seymour, coach. The Idaho-Oregon League, which was organized last year has proved a success financially and promises to be more interesting this season, as better teams will represent the four cities in the league, which are Vale, Ontario, Payette and Weiser (Idaho). Solomon Defeats Stuart. Henry Solomon defeated J. A. Stuart 200 to 107 in the third contest of the McCredie Billiard Palace 15.2 ball five tournament last night. It took the winner 49 innings to run out for an average of five each frame. Solomon made runs of 12, 40, 14, 17 and 15, while the best the loser could muster were 14, 15 and 15. Walter Johnston and T. T. Stonerod will play the only match scheduled for tonight in the McCredie Billiard Palace. State government annually costs New York $6.71 per capita.
