GOVERNOR HAS TILT WITH BAKER JUROR

When Demand Is Sent for Mr. Lawson's Appearance Charge Made Against Prosecutor.

SUBSTITUTE IS REJECTED

Mr. West Says Refusal to Accept Testimony of Another Is Plot of District Attorney to Play Into Partner's Hand.

SALEM, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—After an exchange of telegrams with the District Attorney and foreman of the Baker County grand jury, Governor West declared tonight that Colonel B. K. Lawson, who was in charge of the raid on the Copperfield saloons, would not go to Baker to testify before the grand jury regarding obscene pictures taken from one of the saloons.

Tart Message Sent. The Governor today sent Mr. Spaulding a red-hot message asking why Snodgrass was not wanted. The telegram in part follows: "Why doesn't grand jury want to hear Snodgrass? He is witness through whom this office expects to prove exhibition obscene pictures by Copperfield saloons; also fact that houses of prostitution were allowed to run wide open in Baker and that Godwin and Hand had full knowledge of fact. In line with his past conduct of using his office to aid Nicholas, attorney for gamblers and booze peddlers, Godwin wishes to have Lawson subpoenaed and brought to Baker at the expense of the taxpayers of your county in order that Nicholas may serve him with papers in civil action."

Pictures Given Grand Jury. Governor West said tonight that Colonel Lawson was out of the city when the subpoena was sent here for him and that he was at present too busy to go to Baker when his presence there was not necessary. Colonel Lawson said he did not intend to go to Baker at present and that Snodgrass would not go unless the grand jury changed its mind. The obscene pictures, which it is alleged were taken from a Copperfield saloon, were given over to the Governor when the state troops returned from Copperfield. The Governor forwarded them to Circuit Judge Anderson, who turned the package over to the grand jury without opening them.

KNEZEVICH, INDICTED, ESCAPES

Man Who Started Copperfield Fuss Reported Fugitive From Justice.

BAKER, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—Startling charges against District Attorney Godwin by Governor West today, accusing the District Attorney of attempting to get Colonel Lawson to Baker on a grand jury subpoena as a pretext to enable his former law partner, James Nichols, to get service in a civil suit, were answered by a demand telegraphed tonight to Governor West by Bird Spaulding, foreman of the grand jury, that Colonel Lawson come to Baker to testify before the grand jury that Lawson was wanted in a certain Copperfield case and that was why he had been subpoenaed. He told the Governor that he was not going to hear Mr. Snodgrass if he had any testimony and said the charges against Mr. Godwin and Sheriff Hand would be investigated if the Governor would furnish evidence.

This action was in reply to a message today from the Governor replying to the grand jury's demand that Colonel Lawson appear here as a witness in obscene picture case against William Wisogand, of Copperfield. The grand jury took a recess tonight after returning three true bills, the nature of which was not divulged. Witnesses from Huntington were heard chiefly today, although the grand jurors gave considerable attention to the West episode. The next three days will be devoted to drawing indictments by the District Attorney, after which the grand jury will reconvene March 24.

Martin Knezevich, indicted by the grand jury, has not been arrested and presumably has avoided arrest for the time at least by crossing Snake River from Copperfield into Idaho. Word from Copperfield today was that Knezevich anticipated the action of the grand jury and had packed his belongings and left the town several days ago and crossed over into Idaho.

Ed Hannon, City Marshal of Huntington, and a special deputy sheriff, went down the river from Huntington today to arrest the saloon man indicted for gambling and selling liquor to minors and he found that his quarry was gone. His wife left several days ahead of him and now the man who started the petitions which resulted in Governor West's scoop on Copperfield with the militia is within the pale of the law, at least until he can be located and extradition obtained.

No word has been received from Sheriff Hand, who is to Pline Valley yesterday to arrest Jesse Adrian and Morris Sullivan on indictments charging them with bootlegging.

Recently, while on a trip to Southeastern Washington, he bought a 51-acre farm in Columbia County, near Dayton, paying $7000 for it.

GRAND RUSH IS TODAY

Y. M. C. A. Membership Contest Closes at 7 P. M.

91,373 POINTS DAY'S SCORE

F. N. Clark's Men Report 54,200 Points for 24 Hours, Leaving J. E. Werlein's Team Far Behind on Day's Result.

Yesterday was the most successful day in the week in the membership contest of the Portland Young Men's Christian Association, and the teams will go out today encouraged to make a big showing before the campaign ends at 7 o'clock tonight. At the membership dinner last night it developed that 91,373 points had been scored during the day, and it was admitted by several of the teams that they were holding back part of their results. Today's results may equal the aggregate gains of the six preceding days.

F. N. Clark's side last night reported 54,200 points for the day, leaving J. E. Werlein's men far behind on the day's results and coming within striking distance of them for the weekly total. Up to last night it was almost conceded that the Werlein team had led by so large a margin that it would not be overtaken. Now the week's score in its favor stands at 178,885 to 181,355, and the Clark side last night was jubilant. C. N. Wonnacott, coach for Clark's division, last night said that his men had enough gains in sight to win the contest unless the opponents should develop considerably greater strength than is expected. Besides the honor of winning, the successful side is to be entertained at a turkey banquet at which the losers will wait on the tables.

Walter Krupke has a big lead in the individual race for points and in all probability will win the gold watch that has been offered for first prize. Mr. Krupke has a score of 4,850. R. L. Turner and H. L. Grubb are next in order with 21,150 and 19,350 points, respectively. Watch fobs have been offered as second and third prizes. Wives of some of the canvassers have become so much interested in the contest that they have been calling up General Secretary Stone to ask if there is anything they can do to help the campaign. Both Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Werlein were present at the dinner last evening. It will not be surprising if some of the canvassers' wives get out and join in the work themselves today.

The final report of the campaign will be made at a dinner to be held this evening. It is expected that every man who has been active in the canvass will be present at that time.

Fall on Icy Walk Brings Death.

COLFAX, Wash., March 20.—Clark Colvin, aged 82, died at his Colfax home Thursday, following an injury from a fall on an icy sidewalk several weeks ago, which caused a broken hip. Mr. Colvin crossed the plains from Kansas to Colfax 35 years ago. He served in the Fifteenth Iowa infantry as color-bearer during the Civil War, and carried the flag through the battle of Lookout Mountain. He is survived by his second wife, five sons and three daughters.

NEW POLICY TO RULE

Washington Would Return Revenue From Tidelands.

PUBLIC USE IS PROTECTED

State in Mapping Out Conservation Program Decides Not to Sell Clam or Oyster Beds, but Leasing May Result.

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 20.—(Special.)—A definite start toward conservation of state resources was made by the State Land Board today, adopting in entirety recommendations for the handling of tidelands as submitted by State Forester Ferris, a member of the Board.

The program decided upon looks toward turning all tidelands containing clam beds over to the state fisheries department, to be made a revenue-producing asset, except for a number to be reserved in perpetuity for the use of the public. The resolutions adopted also declare it to be the policy of the state to sell no tidelands that might be suitable for oyster culture until these can be investigated by the State Oyster Commission.

No further sales of first-class tidelands, those within the borders of incorporated cities, will be made, according to the resolution. Instead, the next Legislature will be asked to provide for long term leases, with provision for readjusting the rental at five-year periods.

Second-class tidelands will be sold only to the owners of uplands, except for commercial or industrial purposes, and then the upland owners must be given right of ingress and egress over the tidelands to and from the water. These provisions are to prevent the bottling up of upland owners by persons buying tidelands for speculation.

Dry Leader to Visit Chehalis.

CHEHALIS, Wash., March 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Laura S. LaMance, National Women's Christian Temperance Union organizer, is to spend Saturday and Sunday in Chehalis in the interest of the move to make Washington dry in 1914. She will speak at the Baptist Church Sunday morning and at the Christian Church at night.

NEW COLONISTS ARRIVE

Special Rates Induce Many to Establish Homes in Idaho.

CALDWELL, Idaho, March 20.—(Special.)—Robert Farrar, in charge of the Short Line freight office here, reports the first arrivals here since the colonist rates went into effect March 15. Ten shipments of household goods were received, the owners being new colonists for this section. Two of these came from Kansas, two from California, two from Canada, one from Nebraska, one from Oregon and the others from the East. Twenty new families have arrived for settlement in the Homedale district, some 12 miles south of Caldwell.

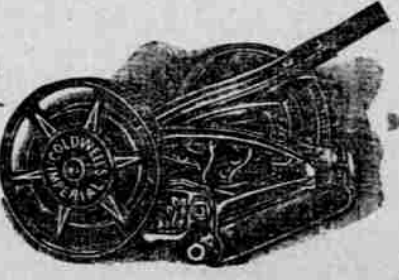

Reports from the real estate agencies indicate that colonization in this section will be considerably heavier than usual this year.
