for some time to center attention on Hanson and Gill Labor Vote Waking Up.

From the Griffiths - Horr - Murphy standpoint there is the hope that if a compromise could be effected on one of them the public might tire of a Han-son-Gill controversy and turn to some-body else for relief. With all three running, the chance that the public on running, the chance that the public of its own initiative would pick the sam candidate, la rather remote. Bradford seems fated to dispute with Gill for the ownership vote.

Politicians have been trying to ge a line on the labor vote which is waking up and registering stronger. Labor leaders are trying to instill a fear that a Mayoralty candidate might be elected who would use his office against labor but the bulk of the labor vote is still undecided. A feature of the past week's registration, however, was the qualifying of the shipyard workers.

Registration Is Light.

Registration is bound to be a disap-clatment. The state is working under a four-year registration law, which provides that a voter who fails to par-ticipate in any general election immediately must re-register. Because of lack of interest in the Councilmanic election last Spring fewer than $2,000 votes were cash-at least half of the eligible vote was disjualified when the polls had closed. Interest in the school and port district elections ran the registration total back up to ap-proximately 60,000 last December, but since that time scarcely 16,066 votors have registered for the coming munici-pal election The registration books will be open until the might of Feb. Wash, and notified him of his nephew's pal election The registration books will be open until the might of Feb-ruary 8, but it is certain that the total qualified vote will fall far short of expectations.

Councilmanic Race Overshadowed,

The light registration is apparently due to the fact that voters are not sat-isfied with the list of candidates of-fered, and it is impossible to make them take interest in pending bond Issues or charter amendments.

Thus far no interest has been taken the Councilmanic race where 15 candidates are entered for three vacancies and it is reasonably certain that the Councilmanic fight will be overshad owed throughout the campaign by the bitter Mayoralty contest. Neither Con-troller H. W. Carroll, nor Treasurer Ed L. Terry has any opposition, and there ibt but that Corporation Coun sel Hugh M. Caldwall will be re-elected foreign to our real self.
