BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 16 .- Prince Maximilian of Banen, former German Imperial Chancellor, in an article in the Prussian Year Book, in which he reveals certain facts about his brief term in the chanceslorship, says:

"The German people by the forma tion of a popular government are liberated from the dictatorship of General Ludendorff and will never tolerate another.

another.

"It would be a shame for Germany if its enemies, wishing to talk only with a legally established government, were themselves obliged to convoke a constituent assembly. The government should not surrender this initiative. If it governs democratically, it can be assured of the support of all Germans animated by liberal ideas in the accomplishment of its gigantic task."

The ex-Chancellor showed that the consequences of the offer of an armistice were the resignation of General Ludendorff, the chief quartermaster-Ludendorff, the chief quartermaster-general, and the abdication of the Emperor. He continued: "An attempt was in the making to oust completely the coalition govern-ment. In the first clash in connection with this move, General Ludendorff gave in to the government, but in the second clash he resigned.

The question of the Emperor's abdi-cation, then came up. The Emperor cation then came up. The Emperor was conversant with everything and a decision due to his own initiative might have spared the empire serious convulsions, but his hesitation must not be interpreted against him, as cer-tain influences worked on him to persuade him that his abdication would

If the President intends to delegate any of the functions of his office to Vice-President Marshall, the Vice-President Marshall, Vice-President Marshall, the Vice-President has not been so informed, and this fact in itself was accepted in Government Agencies Study and this fact in itself was accepted in some quarters as clearly indicating that the President has decided that his physical absence from the country does not create such a vacancy in the office as to fall within the section of the Constitution which clothes the Vice-President with authority to discharge the duties of the office during the inability of the President to act. HUGE INDEMNITY EXPECTED Legislation May Be Affected.

In all probability the President will cross the Atlantic on an American bat-tleship, probably on one of the Navy's

The question of what effect the Presdent's absence will have on the work of Congress was freely discussed tonight in Congressional circles. Many held that the President could not approve or veto legislation while absent as the actual signature of the President is required. Under the provisions of the Constitution if bills are not acted upon by the chief executive within 10 days of their passage they automatically become effective.

No pressing legislative matters now pending or in prospect are likely to be completed before the expected adjournment of Congress for over the Christmas holidays. And if Congress does adjourn it will not reassemble until early in Japussy and the Providence til early in January and the President probably will return home soon after-

There was no statement tonight as to whether the American delegates to the peace conference actually will accompany the President or will follow at a later date.
