

HARDING'S BACKERS PROSCRIBED BY COX

Support Held Humiliating to American Citizens.

BIG OHIO FORUM PACKED

Governor at Columbus Closes Strenuous Day of Campaigning. Eleven Speeches Delivered.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14.—Severe arraignment of forces which he said were supporting Senator Harding, his republican opponent, was made by Governor Cox here tonight in an address at the state fair grounds coliseum, closing a strenuous day of campaigning...

Artful Dodging Charged. "From the front porch at Marion something has been given out by these groups," the governor said, declaring that the prime object was to "evade the issue of the league," by promoting minor and extraneous issues.

The governor's address tonight was a crowd which filled the largest forum in the state capital. It was the 11th speech of an exhausting day in Ohio for the governor...

Ohioans at Van Wert, Delphos, Lima, Wapakoneta, Sidney, Uxama and Middletown turned out in force with bands, including the celebrated "Cox band" which performed at the San Francisco convention.

Day's Programme Tough. The governor was cheered, hustled and squeezed all day into theaters, halls and courtrooms square rostrums. So strenuous was the day's programme that tonight he telegraphed a protest to Senator Harrison, chairman of the national democratic speakers' committee, and demanded less exacting future programmes.

The league continued virtually the sole subject of the governor's addresses. He told audiences that it was "a sacred and spiritual issue and that he was 'preaching the good news of Christ' as against 'the creed of Cain.' The league, he said, was 'divinely inspired as the Declaration of Independence. He also charged that 'a senatorial oligarchy conspiracy' was directed at world peace and denounced Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as the 'basest conspirator in the history of the human race.'

Boys at Wapakoneta, bearing large lithographs of Senator Harding and shouting for the senator caused Governor Cox to declare that he had discovered a new "contemptible" plan of the opposition. Told by local democrats that the boys were hired by republican leaders, Governor Cox questioned one boy who kept unfurling a Harding poster in a theater aisle directly before the governor. Asked by Governor Cox who had "hired or told" him to flaunt the poster, the boy replied "nobody."

Corruption Again Charged. "You go home and tell your mother that you didn't tell the truth," the governor replied. "There is a great deal of money being used in the campaign and one of the peculiar uses is what we have noticed. In the last two days when we started our meetings, one boy or a group of boys will stand out in front of the speaker and unfurl the lithograph of the opposition candidate. Now that boy was paid to do it."

Governor Cox said he would not permit the incident to disturb him and said that "every trick they have tried to play has resolved itself in our favor."

At Van Wert, commenting upon former President Taft's recent statement that Governor Cox still would leave sufficient anti-league senators to defeat the treaty, the governor said that it indicated an intention to override the nation's mandate. His election and a "great victory for world civilization" were predicted confidently by the governor. Expressing pleasure at being "at home" again in Ohio, the governor said that his crowds indicated that the "wave" of sentiment begun two weeks ago was "sweeping the country."

ELECT COX, McADOO'S PLEA America Must Enter League, Says Former Secretary.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—A republican victory at the polls next month means rejection of the league, nations and the isolation of the United States, declaration for raising and maintaining a large army and navy, and a big increase in taxes, William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, declared in an address tonight. He advocated this country's entry into the league, stressing what he described as the league's effect on world finance and economy. He said that the national debts of the chief belligerents of the war, including the United States, had been estimated at $235,000,000,000. "Staying out of the league and playing a lone hand means that we cannot reduce the burdens of taxation," he declared. "It will also mean universal military training, which is a disguise or soothing term for what is unpopularity known as conscription. We were justified in adopting conscription as a war measure. "It is an interesting fact that Senator Harding has declared himself a believer in universal and compulsory service, oftentimes referred to as conscription."

"The nations of Europe owe the American people more than $10,000,000,000 for money loaned to aid in prosecuting the war against the central powers. In a recent speech Senator Harding intimated that he would rather see this debt canceled, or forgive our foreign debtors, than allow them to work it out through exchanges of goods and commodities. "He suggests an increase in the tariff to such a high point that Europe would not only be unable to pay the debt, but by practically stopping importation would make it impossible for her to buy our surplus products. "This would be a policy of the utmost stupidity, for as we are interested in the American people are concerned,

POWER PERMITS OPPOSED

Legislation Guaranteeing Preservation of People's Rights Urged at Eastern Convention.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 14.—The federal waterpower control commission has agreed to refuse any application for power permits in existing national parks until congress has full opportunity to pass upon the entire question of power development within such parks. J. Horace McFarland of Harrisburg, Pa., president of the American Civic association, announced today at the opening session of the 16th annual convention of that organization. Mr. McFarland also announced that Senator Jones of Washington had promised Secretary of the Interior Payne, a member of the waterpower commission, to introduce a bill withdrawing the national parks and monuments from the provisions of the federal waterpower act and to urge its early passage. "The waterpower people now have the right," said Mr. McFarland, "to file claims on every drop of falling water in any federal reservation, be it park, monument, forest or even cemetery. Parks Held Imperiled. "The national parks now are in imminent peril. The irrigationists want to dam Yellowstone lake in Yellowstone National park. They want to use Hooker lake, Lewis and Clark lake in the same park. They have pushed through the senate and have in the house a bill permitting destruction of Falls river basin. They have already ruined forever the wonderful Jackson lake outside the park. "These rakes control senators and representatives, some of whom threaten to block all applications, all road building, all developments in the parks for your benefit, if their clients are not given first use."

MORRIS DEATH PROBED

ALLEGED PORTLAND COUSIN TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Wife Calls on Fraternal Order to Aid in Hunt for Man Reported Drowned.

MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—It developed today that "a local official of a fraternal order, who has requested Portland police to look up the identity of the man claiming to be a cousin of Joseph H. Morris, supposedly drowned, who was wired to Mrs. Morris this week that he had just arrived from Japan with a trunk full of money and asking that she send him $25."

There has always been much skepticism of Morris drowning, and Mrs. Morris at once consulted local officials of the fraternal order, in which Morris carried $1000 insurance. She asked the order if the telegram might be her supposed dead husband. Mystery surrounds the disappearance of Morris who was a cook at the Westland orchards, had a wife and two children, congenial family life and good reputation, over five months ago while fishing in the Rogue river. His hat, coat and fishing pole were found on the ledge from which he had been fishing, but weeks of dragging and dynamiting the river failed to find the body.
