ALBINA SHOPS OF THE O. W. R. & N. company led all unit shops of the Union Pacific system in the safety factor for the period from January 1 to September 30 of this year, according to figures just compiled by H. A. Adams, assistant to the general manager of the Union Pacific railroad, Denver, second and Cheyenne third.

Among the four units of the system, O. W. R. & N. company ranked second, the Union Pacific being first, the Los Angeles & Salt Lake third.

According to an analysis of accident bulletin No. 83, issued by the bureau of statistics of the interstate commerce commission, the Union Pacific system led 27 other railroads of the country of comparative size in the number of accidents during the period from January, February and March, 1922.

In each case the computation was based upon the number of casualties, both killed and injured, and the percentage of such casualties per million man hours. For example, at the Albina shops, January to September, there were 1,766,373 man hours worked, making the casualties per million man hours 3.96.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Dec. 29.—(Special.)—An injunction sought by the commissioners of Coville county to prevent them from opening bids to two bridges to be built across the Tontia Hood river today when Judge Simpson declined to grant the injunction asked. The bids were to have been opened two days ago but Troxel obtained a temporary restraining order and asked that it be made permanent. Judge Simpson, after hearing the testimony held that the time allowed was sufficient. The two bridges are to cost about $2500 each.

PROBLEMS OF DRESSMAKING by Madam Rachel.
CORVALLIS, Or., Dec. 23.—Dear Madam Rachel: Will you please advise me as to some dressmaking?

I have a dark blue corduroy dress to make for a young girl who is not quite 12 years of age, is 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 120 pounds and is still growing. I plan to make the skirt with rather shallow box pleats, the waist a blouse effect with round neck, full slightly V shaped, sleeves to match neck at bottom.

How far from the floor should the skirt be for a child of the above age and proportions and how or what should the neck and bottom of sleeves be bound? Also how should dress be fastened in the back? Please do not answer in the Sunday Oregonian, as I do not get that issue. Thanking you in advance. H. M. W.

H. M. W., Corvallis, Or.—For the blue corduroy I would bind with the rich red duvetya and make the skirt not less than 13 inches from floor line. A bunch of the red flowers placed at the waist line will carry out in happy order the color.

Both the Ladies' Columbia orchestra and Kenneth Allen, the voice coloratura soprano, who were the features of the December 27 programme from KGW, found a "warm" spot in the hearts of the radio fans in the northwest. "Better than the average," seems to be the consensus of opinion of all who listened in that night and reported to KGW.

Here is what Mrs. W. V. Shellus of Woodlawn thought of the programme: "It was exceptionally good. Both the orchestra and Master Allen were above the average. Family enjoyed every number."

And George R. Haddock of Shoshone, Idaho, who tuned in his set near the finish of the concert, but heard all three of Allan's songs, said they were wonderfully clear. Allan's diction is a very simple one of only one tube, but he gets KGW very loud, as he stated in his letter. "The women who played at KGW last Wednesday are sure a fine musical organization. Every number they played was fine," wrote C. R. Shaner of McKee, Or.

N. A. Leach, a local fan, writes that the Wednesday night orchestra played a class of music that especially appealed to him, and he believes that it must have appealed to hundreds of others in the "air."

"It was a splendid entertainment that you gave us that night and hope you will have more of the same kind in the future," wrote Leach.

With a home-made set containing a two-stage amplifier, R. W. Bennett of Rushville, Neb., hears KGW quite often. In a letter received yesterday from Bennett, he said that KGW comes in to him loud and clear.

"I want to thank you for the entertainment you gave us," said Bennett in closing.

Vernon Keane of Hubbard, Or., heard Master Allen's fine vocal solos last Wednesday night, with a crystal detector, he wrote yesterday. "All your concerts come in fine on my crystal detector," said Keane.

"I get your station almost every night," writes Bert Kendrick, resident of Providence, Utah. "This is done with only a single tube and I hear you quite loudly."

In Pullman, Wash., KGW's concerts come in louder than any of the others on the coast, according to Louis Raymond, resident there. Says Louis: "Receive everything you send out and think they are fine. Your station is a dandy."

Last Sunday night's concert, in which three local artists gave a special Christmas programme, seemed to have made a considerable impression on the listeners. "It was great and the whole family enjoyed it," said Taylor in his letter. "Hope to hear more like it from KGW soon. Modest tone and audibility were very good."
