

BANANAS, LETTUCE SCARCE ON MARKET

Early Shopping for New Year's Dinner Needed.

APPLES ARE PLENTIFUL

Eggs on Yamhill Street Sell at 43 Cents Dozen and Butter at 50 Cents Pound.

Ripe bananas and good lettuce are scarce on the Portland market and those who wish to insure these articles for their New Year's day dinner should shop early. Lettuce is coming in now from the Imperial valley and this is the best offered, selling at 10 and 15 cents a head and two heads for 25 cents. There are plenty of bananas, but few of them are really ripe and they are priced at 15 cents a pound and about 20 cents a dozen.

There is pineapple in market at 65 and 75 cents each and it looks as though it were good. Oranges are offered in all sizes and prices range from 25 cents to $1 a dozen. Besides Japanese oranges, navela are all that are being shown and quality is excellent. The price difference is dependent entirely upon the size of the fruit. Small sizes are somewhat scarce.

Apples Are Plentiful.

Apples in quantities are offered everywhere and by the box they sell at $2.50 and $4. By the dozen they are 25, 40 and 50 cents. Emperor grapes are still shown at 10 and 20 cents a pound. Winter Nels pears sell for 20 cents a dozen and up and lemon and orange at 10 and 20 cents a dozen. Grapefruit from Florida, large and luscious, is 15 and 20 cents each. Eastern and Oregon cranberries sell at 25 and 30 cents a pound.

Spinach is plentiful and is priced at 10 and 15 cents a pound. The best offered is from the Imperial valley at 15 cents a pound. Choice hot-house tomatoes are shown at 20 cents a pound and cucumbers are selling at 25 and 30 cents each, according to their size. Green peppers are priced at 20 cents a pound and artichokes are 20 cents each. Celery hearts are 20 cents a bunch and with the stalk celery is about 15 cents.

Cauliflower Quality Good.

Brussels sprouts are sold in all the stores at 20 cents a pound. Egg plant is 25 cents a pound and comes from the Imperial valley. Sweet potatoes are generally priced at 5 cents a pound. Cauliflower ranges in price from 15 to 30 cents a head, according to the size, and the quality in all cases appears to be excellent.

Cabbage ranges from 2 1/2 cents a pound on Yamhill street to 5 cents a pound in the stores and red cabbage sells at 5 cents a pound. Beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips and squash are offered at 5 cents a pound in the stores and on Yamhill market the top prices quoted yesterday were as follows: Carrots, 2 cents; parsnips, squash, turnips, 2 1/2 cents. Onions are 3 cents a pound and potatoes at 4 cents a pound. Eggs on Yamhill street are selling at 45 cents a dozen and butter is 50 cents a pound.

YULE AUTO DEATHS THREE

MRS. LOUISE LOWELL, 86, DIES OF INJURIES.

Woman, Struck Down, at First Refuses Medical Aid, Due to Religious Beliefs.

Portland's automobile death toll for Christmas week rose to three with the demise yesterday at the Multnomah county hospital of Mrs. Louise Lowell, 86, of 269 East Forty-fifth street. She was struck down at Hawthorne avenue and East Forty-fifth street by a car driven by George W. Hutchinson, 407 East Sixtieth street, on the night of December 3.

Crossing the street in the darkness, Mrs. Lowell stepped directly into the path of the automobile. She at first refused medical treatment because of religious belief. Later she was taken to the hospital. The body is at Finley's.

Fatalities from automobile accidents for December mounted to six with the death of Mrs. Lowell. On the same night she was hurt by R. E. Watson, 130 Grand avenue, was struck down and suffered injuries from which he died. Little Sarah Rockwood was run over by a cowardly motorist who sped on and left her to die.

Injuries received when he was run down by a street car on Thursday caused the death of O. M. Cornell, 54 station agent, at St. Johns for the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad, at Vincent's, 407 East early yesterday. Screams from his wife, who heard a street car approaching at a rapid rate, did not save him.

In charge of the double car were O. P. Cross, motorman, and W. Olin and A. B. Clark, conductors. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the St. Johns undertaking parlors. Mr. Cornell is survived by his widow, 914 Newark street, and a daughter, Mrs. Guy Anderson. Inquests probably will be held in both cases.

GIRL'S MEMORY LAPSES

Kidnaping Events Not Recalled; Case Against Youth Dismissed.

A lapse of memory suffered by Miss Cecile Davis, 219 Eugene street, whose affections were sought by two youths Thursday night, solved the triangle as far as the law was concerned.

In municipal court she could not recall just what occurred at Union avenue and Schuyler street, where Ralph Miller, 23 of Granham, was charged with stealing her away from Leslie Waring, 700 East Fifty-eighth street, and a conniving friend, at the point of a gun. With tact she told her version of the story, forgetting just the right parts here and there. Municipal Judge Ekwall listened carefully then heard the excited testimony of the two rivals, Miller and Waring, could make neither head nor tail of the affair and let the three go, dismissing the charges against Miller. Both youths glared at one another, cast furtive glances at the girl and left the courtroom.

Moving Picture News

PATRONS of the Rivoli theater will receive enlightenment as well as capital entertainment in "The World's Stage," which was written by the celebrated novelist, Elinor Glyn, and which opens there today.

The author holds the mirror up to life—the life of a screen actress in Hollywood, and paints a wonderfully vital and true canvas of the hopes and trials, illusions, dreams, sorrow and happiness of the average screen star. Mrs. Glyn knows Hollywood. Therefore she writes with authority.

It is not a mis-statement to declare as much interest on the screen as her other photoplays, "Her Great Moment" and "Beyond the Rocks," and as much as "Three Weeks" did with the fiction-reading public. She has written in a straightforward manner, telling her story with little flourish, but emphasizing the salient moments which compose the everyday life of a screen star. We not only get a glimpse of the serio-comic adventures of a cheap theatrical troupe, but we get a view of the inside of a picture studio. Then if this were not enough, we are taken into the home of the heroine and there is revealed before us the romantic and the chattering, illusory of a happy domestic life.

It is a vivid picture of life as it is lived in Hollywood. Mrs. Glyn draws the picture in directed by Colig Campbell, who has several screen successes to his credit. He has given the production several novel high lights and has guided the players in a manner that shows he has a firm grasp upon dramatic values.

Dorothy Phillips, long considered one of our best emotional actresses, gives to the screen a further demonstration of her gifted talent. As the heroine who is lifted from a screen star over night, only to have her happiness shattered by a bigger drama in the home, Miss Phillips contributes a study that is marked for its depth and understanding, poise and charm. Kenneth Harlan as the husband who shares her fine illusions, offers able assistance. The cast is further enhanced by the very human study rendered by Bruce McRae, who, as the trusting friend, commands the greatest respect and sympathy.

WIFE SUES EX-OFFICER AGAINST POLICEMAN.

Hazel Gladwyn Offers to Furnish Names of Erving Husband's Women Friends.

One more trouble was added to those experienced recently by Cecil E. Gladwyn, ex-officer, when his wife, Hazel E. Gladwyn, filed suit for divorce yesterday in circuit court. The wife's complaint cites that Gladwyn's conduct was such that he was discharged from the police force and that he was arrested for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and for receiving stolen property.

The wife alleges against the ex-patrolman that he devoted attention to other women, charging that he stayed out all night in drinking bouts. She offered to supply names of the women if the defendant so wishes. The Gladwyns were married July 26, 1919, in Vancouver. They have a son now six months old. The wife seeks $30 a month as support money.

The Yuletide season brought no unusual amount of peace and good will sentiment in the community, conclusions based on divorce filings under these titles: Pearl against John Collins, Florence Louise against Donald Wells, Del A. against Frank P. Farrington, Geneva against Lester E. Hartman, Elva Stralinger against H. E. Stember, Anna C. against R. B. Behmer, James C. against R. W. Walsh and R. V. against Elizabeth G. Lewis.

New Today in the Markets

SPINACH seems to be plentiful enough in stores and on the public market and the quality is good. Extra fancy spinach, from the Imperial valley sells at 15 cents a pound and the Oregon-grown variety is 10 cents a pound.

Large carrots and turnips were in evidence yesterday and are selling at 5 cents a bunch. Winter radishes are three bunches for 10 cents and onions are 5 cents. Turkey on the public market are selling at 35 cents a pound, while stores are asking 45 and 50 cents. The price is still high because there are hardly any of the birds left in Portland, several carloads having been shipped east early in the week. Leg of lamb at 84 cents a pound and prime rib roast of beef at 30 cents probably will be served in a large portion of the homes.

A good roast of pork will be 25 cents a pound.

YOUNG OUTLAWS NERVOUS

Restaurant Man Held Up and Cash Register Looted.

In perfect form and without the least trace of nervousness two youthful outlaws entered a cafe at 754 Savier street, operated by A. A. Schultz, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and holding the proprietor at bay with an automatic rifle, the cash register of $9.25. The pair are thought to be the same juvenile

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES.

Liberty—"The Hotentot."
Columbia—"The Prize of Palomar."
Rivoli—Elinor Glyn's "The World's Stage."
Peoples—Bebe Daniels in "Singed Wings."
Majestic—Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack." Sixth week.
Blue Mouse—Mary Pickford in "Tess of the Storm Country." Second week.
Hippodrome—Harry Carey in "The Kick Back."

Screen Gossip.

Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack" begins the sixth week of his run at the Majestic theater today. That is some record. Additionally, the merry feature will fit in admirably with Manager Lacey's plans for his midnight matinee. The manager plans a series of novel stunts, blended into one entertainment, a glimpse back at the movies of long ago when Mary Pickford and D. W. Griffith were both in their artistic swaddling clothes so far as the art of the screen was concerned. Lacey will not divulge any details regarding the entertainment. He is keeping it as a surprise for his patrons.

One of the quaintest and most singularly interesting photoplays produced this year is "Quincy Adams Sawyer," which is coming shortly to the Rivoli theater. As a novel it was a pronounced literary success. As a stage play it was a hit. And as a photoplay it is infinitely better than either book or stage production. Naturally the screen can offer scenes and other unusual angles, utterly impossible on the stage. This is a production of rare charm and with a tremendous appeal. It has everything—romance, drama, pathos, comedy, and a cast that is distinctly exceptional.

TRADE OPPORTUNITY BIG

America Has Chance in South America, Says Leo Friede.

America, the greatest of financial nations, is not living up to her possibilities in gaining a hold in South America, in the opinion of Leo Friede, Oregon's envoy to the International exposition in Rio de Janeiro, who has returned to Portland after four months spent in touring South America.

Mr. Friede said that in spite of the sufferings of the European countries during the recent war European capital is still the main factor in the development of South American countries. Only one banking establishment, the National City bank of New York, has completed the possibilities in South America and has established branches in the various important cities of those countries.

LOCAL TURKEYS SCARCE

FEW BIRDS IN MARKET FOR NEW YEAR'S DINNER.

Fowls Are Sent to Eastern States When Large Supply Threatens Barge in Price.

Roast beef and leg of lamb will take the place of turkey in most Portland homes for New Year's day dinner. This will be a case of necessity, unless ducks or geese are chosen, for there are few turkeys being offered. At the first of the week all the turkeys in Portland, which were threatening to cause a very serious break in the price, were loaded into several cars and started east, there to supply the demand for New Year's birds. Farmers are offering a few, but meat market showings are extremely meager.

Prime rib roast of beef, the best cuts, will sell today at 25 and 30 cents a pound. Pot roasts will range in price from 15 to 20 cents and sirloin steak will sell at 28 cents a pound. Boiling pieces will have a general price of about 14 cents a pound and round steak will be 25 cents a pound.

The price of lamb has changed but little and is comparatively high, as small lamb is hard to find at this season of the year. Leg roasts are about 34 cents a pound for choice, and shoulder roasts are 22 cents. Loin chops vary from 25 to 45 cents a pound and shoulder chops are about 25 cents a pound. Breast of lamb sells at 12 1/2 cents a pound.

Some very good veal is being shown this week and leg roast will sell at about 25 cents a pound. Shoulder roasts will be 22 cents. Loin chops, fancy, are selling from 25 to 35 cents a pound, and shoulder chops are 20 cents a pound. Breasts of lamb are 15 cents a pound and lamb stew is 12 1/2 cents a pound.

The pig pork which will be offered today is of good quality and seems to be about uniform in excellence. Leg roasts will be about 25 cents a pound and shoulder roasts, well trimmed, are 18 cents a pound. Spare ribs are selling at 22 cents. Loin chops are shown at an average price of 25 cents and shoulder steaks are 20 cents a pound.

Sugar cured hams, bought by the half or whole, are selling as low as 25 cents a pound. Bacon by the half or whole ranges from 28 to 36 cents a pound. Little hams are 18 cents and cottages are 25 cents.

The market offers scarcely any crabs at all, because few have been caught during the stormy weather. There are plenty of shrimps at 80 cents a pound for the meat. Oysters are 60 and 70 cents a pint. Salmon and halibut sell at 30 cents a pound and black cod is 15 cents. Smelt, fresh water, is offered at 35 cents a pound and salt-water smelt is 25 cents a pound. Sand dabs and sole are priced at 20 cents a pound. Dolly Varden trout is shown at 25 cents a pound.

Turkey sells on Yamhill street at 35 cents a pound, while meat markets are asking 45 and 50 cents. Geese are 25 cents on Yamhill street and 28 cents in the markets, while ducks are selling at about 35 cents. Chickens for frying range from 50 to 40 cents a pound.
