

Happy 75th Birthday!

Dora Hill, AKA Spoiled Bratt

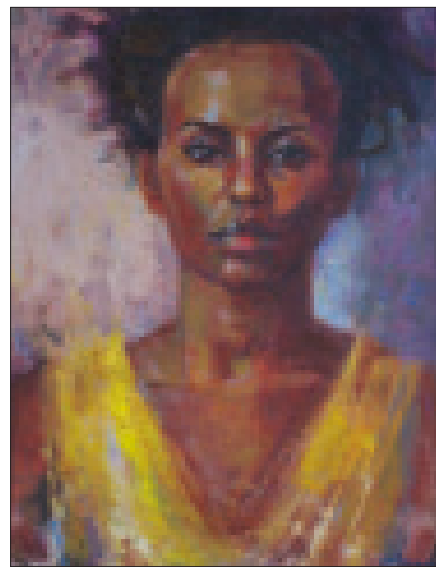

From you loving daughter, Cynthia Hill, AKA DaBratt
Love you very much!

Arts & ENTERTAINMENT

Joanne Kollman's work 'The Arrangement' and 'Woman in Yellow' are from works by local artists featured during January and February in the Beaverton Building, 12725 S.W. Millikan Way.

OPEN TO THE DREAM

OES
Oregon Episcopal School
Always Open

1000 NW Hill Road | Portland Oregon 97211
(503) 488-2111 | www.oes.edu

Community Artists Celebrated

The Beaverton Arts Commission will showcase the work of two community artists as part of its effort to celebrate community values and help connect residents to their artistic and cultural heritage.

Artworks by Stephen Kekule and Joanne Kollman will be on display in The Beaverton Building, 12725 S.W. Millikan Way until the end of February.

"I'm happy that we can continue to display the work of local artists here at The Beaverton Building," said Mayor Denny Doyle. "They brighten up the halls with their creative and vibrant artworks."

Kekule's work stems from his background in architecture as well as his experience working construction. Kekule's paintings are divided into two categories, places with figures or places without.

Kollman is a painter who uses the environment around her to capture figures, landscapes and still life. She focuses on connecting communities beyond their local neighborhoods.

The commission also has revolving art exhibits at Providence St. Vincent Hospital, the Cedar Hills Recreation Center, the Progress Ridge New Seasons, and the Artisan Salon.