White Bird presents the return of the celebrated flamenco dancers Soledad Barrio and Noche Flamenca, with performances Thursday, Dec. 3 through Saturday, Dec. 5 at the Newmark Theater.

Heart and Soul of Flamenco

White Bird presents the return of Soledad Barrio and her Noche Flamenca dance company, one of the most authentic flamenco touring groups in the field today. Shows are scheduled Thursday, Dec. 3 through Saturday, Dec. 5 at the Newmark Theatre, downtown.

The star of the program is Soledad Barrio, a performer the New York Times calls "one of the great dancers of any genre," and a person who critics say brings essence, purity, and integrity to one of the world's most complex and mysterious art forms.

The Noche Flamenca company is also composed of dancers

Marina Elana, Laura Peralta, and Xianix Barrera, guitarist Salva De Maria, and singers Manuel Gago and Emilio Florido.

Tickets start at $26 and are available at whitebird.org and at Portland's 5 Box Office, 1111 S.W. Broadway. Shows begin each night at 7:30 p.m.

James Sharinghousen and Aislin Courtis star in a new holiday show for the whole family.

Holiday Shows for the Family

The Clackamas Repertory Theatre continues its second season of interactive shows for children with two holiday-themed Saturday performances Dec. 5 and Dec. 12 at 10:30 a.m. in the Osterman Theatre at Clackamas Community College.

"Wing It," loosely based on Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," has Jazz, the squirrel, acting a little "Scroogey" when he is visited by the Ghost of Christmas Future. The children in the audience will help the other characters get Jazz back in the Christmas spirit with singing and dancing and a chance to come up to the stage for their moment in the spotlight.

Word is Santa will be in the audience!

"Wing It," is geared for children 2 to 10 years old and is developed and directed by Travis Nodurft, Clackamas Rep company member, professional clown and Oregon City sixth-grade teacher. Admission is a suggested $5 donation at the door.
