Roosevelt Forgets Cares of Office.

OUT AFTER GRIZZLIES

Looks His Last on Civilization for Weeks.

WILL TAKE NO RASH CHANCES

With a Ringing Send-Off From Newcastle, He Hits the Trail With Hunters, Horses and Hounds.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 15 --(Special.)-President Roosevelt is making himself at home at Camp No. 1, about two and a half miles southwest of Newcastle, a little town 12 miles northwest of this place. This morning the departure of his troop of mounted men and hounds and guns made a picturesque spectacle, as the cavalcade wound along the trail on the side of the mountain near Newcastle, Besides the 400 or 500 natives, a large number of Denver newspaper reporters and railroad men witnessed his departure. The President is threatened with unwelcome wisits from over-enterprising reporters, but he has given them all ample warning, and, should they meet with hardships along the trall, it will be their own

The native population is disposed to leave the President by himself. He shook hands this morning with most of them, and, although they were disappointed because he did not afford an exhibition of broncho-busting, they voted him a good fellow and wished him a successful hunt. A rancher brought to town a raggedooking black bear cub and tried to get Jake Borah, the guide, to purchase it and turn it loose for the President to chase and shoot. Naturally the offer was declined. In fact, the danger to the hunt is that it is yet early in the season, and the grizzly bears, the ones who can afford the best sport, are in all probability still holed up in the snow. One, however, does not realize this here, where the grass on the lawn is green and a hundred people are bathing in a great open-air pool of warm water

He Goes Well Armed.

Incidentally, it is well known that Mr. Roosevelt is not going to take any daring chances in this hunt. In spite of lurid stories that he is going to kill the bears with a hunting-knife, he actually took with him both a rifle and a heavy revolver, and will rely upon these to bring down the game.

it could be in any part of the United States. Newcastle, while easily accessible on the Colorado Midland, offers little comfort for the wayfarer at this time of year. Every peak surrounding the village is covered with snow, and the roads to the southward toward the Penny ranch are hard to travel. In addition, the camp is well guarded, and so large a tract has been reserved for the President's pleasure that other hunting outfits would be turned back if found trespassing, Colorado news. papers have published editorials advising that the President be let alone to enjoy himself to the utmost. Cut Off From Communication.

Before starting up the trail to the camp the President told his friends not to worry if they did not hear from him for three or four days at a time, as he excamp are expected often to come to the near-by villages for supplies, and tales of the hunt will be brought out by them. Without this limited means of communication, the President might remain in the mountain fastnesses for weeks and nothing be heard from him. Instructions have been given, if anything is wanted of the President during the time he is on his hunt, to apply to Mr. Loeb. So well have the departments in Washington taken care of Governmental affairs that Mr Loeb's mail has been light ever since starting out, nearly two weeks ago.

DEPARTURE FROM NEWCASTLE

tion Before Going to Camp. NEWCASTLE, Colo., April 15 .- President Roosevelt and his party of hunters reached this famous outfitting point for the hunting and fishing grounds on the White River, at 7:59 A. M. today, and wasted more than two hours for official mail that had been sent to Red Stone, where it had been intended that the seat Government should be established while the President was away in the hunting bear, bobcats and n the train pulled into Newcastle the President, dressed in his shooting clothes of heavy tan duck, greeted the people from the rear platform. He was cheered wildly. After the speech was made and the little conventionalities has been observed, the President gave personal supervision to his hunting outfit. He unsheathed his knife and felt its keen edge, unlimbered his gun and saw that it was in fine working order and looked over the horse, that had been selected for his ride to the camp. This animal is said to be one of the most sure-footed mountain climbers in this part of the country, but is not noted for

The time here was pleasantly occupied. The President shook hands with a majority of the 400 population of the village, after he had been introduced by George H. Norris, Mayor of Newcastle, who announces on his card that he does blackmotines on the care that he does an assembling and wagon making. The party was photographed, the President made a brief address, shook hands with the train crew and viewed the specially decorated engine that drew his train from Colorado Springs, which locomotive according to the guilible, was presented for the President's private menagerie in Washington it has been announced, how-

Getting up early, the party had their breakfast of fresh mountain trout on the train, and with curtains raised viewed the magnificent scenery along the route of the Colorado Midland.

Near Basalt there was a slight accident. The first car of the special train hit a rock that had slid down to the edge of the tracks. The only damage was Traction Companies Will Sell in Three Months.

Recent disclosures and mutualization discussions have served to enlighten the public and emphasize the fact that there is a vast difference

THE PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF PHILA-DELPHIA, as the name implies, is mutual; it is PURELY mutual; it was 'mutualized" at organization, nearly 60 years ago. It has no capital stock, it has no proxy voting, but is personally "conducted solely for members

For many years the advertisements of the PENN MUTUAL have con tained the admonition, "INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INSURE." More people are investigating BEFORE insuring than ever. As a conquence, the business of the PENN MUTUAL is not at a standstill, but, on the contrary, the showing for the first three months of 1905 is larger than the showing for any like period in the history of the company. THE PENN MUTUAL has no foreign business, operating ONLY in the ealthy portions of the United States.

The company was never in a more flourishing condition or the business so large. IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK, the storm center of the nsurance exposures, each of the first three months of 1906 shows a substantial gain over the same month in 1904, the total increase being nearly half a million dollars, while the gain for the whole business of the company is $3,399,444. In the North Pacific Department, including Oregon. Washington and Idaho, there has been a GAIN THIS YEAR over last in EACH STATE EACH MONTH. Many people are investigating before insuring-that is why the business of the PENN MUTUAL is increasing.

The State Humane Society broke up the plans on the grounds that the bear might return to the village and carry off some of the children. It had been caged so long that it was quite victous. After the Humane Society had interfered the captors of the bear tried to sell it to Guides Goff and Borah, but they said they would take their game wild, as domesticated animals had no attraction for the President on an occasion of this character.

At 11:15 o'clock the party started at an easy canter over the bills to the permanent camp, which is located on East Divide Creek, on the Charles Penny ranch, about 23 miles southwest of Newcastle. There is about a foot of snow in that section, and bear tracks were seen there as late as yesterday. When the party had gone out of sight, the President's train was returned to Gienwood Springs, where Secretary Loeb is to have his headquarters.

VOTES CENSURE ON PREMIER Hungarian Diet Stand Firm in Conflict With Austria.

BUDAPEST, April 15 .- The lower hous of the Diet today passed the motion of Herr Ectov for a vote of censure on ex-Premier Tisza for being actuated by political motives in raising the pension of the late President of the House Perczel von Bonyhad from $1600 to $3000. The motion was carried by a large majority. The house then adjourned until May 3. The solution of the Ministerial crisis is delayed meanwhile. The united opposition shows no signs of weakening in its demands or of disintegration, neither does the crown give evidence of a tendency to withdraw from its previous utterances of attitude. The situation, consequently, is serious, to say the least. Hungary feels she is now combatting Austria politically for the recognition of certain external rights which mean much to her national existence, the loss of which would seriously threaten her future independence and lead to a state of affairs between Austria and Hungary which Hungary could not accept with tranquillity.

Therefore, the Hungarians are very likely to remain firm, hoping to force certain concessions from the crown, each one of which would mean to increase Hungarian independence of Austria, as well as a step toward ultimate complete Hungarian na-tional independence. It is believed in wellinformed quarters here that some com nise will be reached between Hungary and the crown before the address com up for discussion, thus avoiding possible heated debates besides the necessity of sending the address to the crown, a sucrifice of high principle. There is of interest, and we will draw a good little doubt that he would have laid down office six months ago had not the pressure been too great to be resisted. The Liberal chiefs are none too eager to assume office at a time when the British interests are so threatened. They do not wish to shoulder the bur-den of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Lord Rosebery has consented to take the foreign portfolio if the Liberals form a Cabinet under Spencer and he has announced his full adherence to the pact with Japan. But Rosebery has enjoined his following not to embarrass the government. He is in po hurry for Lansdowne's post. If further evidence were needed of the dissensions among the Liberals over their Irish programme, it was supplied by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's response to a direct question as to what they would do for Ireland if they had their way.
