INSPIRED BY RACE HATRED

JAPANESE REFUSED TO AID STRANDED LINER.

Mongolia Passenger Not Satisfied With Excuses Made for Officers of Mikado's Training Ship.

That it was race hatred, and race hatred only, that moved the officers of a Japanese training ship to refuse aid to the steamship Mongolia when she was stranded on a coral reef at Midway Island recently, is the belief of H. W. Robbins, of Los Angeles, who was one of the Mongolia's passengers at the time the accident occurred. Mr. Robbins is visiting Portland and is now a guest at the Hotel Portland.

The Japanese Government has offered various excuses for the action of the officers of the training ship, among them that she did not have sufficient fuel and was not provided with enough cable to haul the Mongolia off, but these excuses do not convince Mr. Robbins.

"It was deliberate desertion and nothing else," declared Mr. Robbins yesterday. "The captain of the training ship did not want to assist the Mongolia or her passengers and sailed away knowing, I think, that he could have helped the big liner out of her trouble if he had wanted to. I think it is a disgrace to the Japanese nation, and although the officials of the steamship company have tried to hush up the affair the fact remains that the training ship deserted us without so much as an apology for aid."

"I am convinced that the trouble arose over the cabin passengers of the Mongolia not recognizing the Japanese stowage passengers as their equals when we were landed upon the island. The cabin passengers made their quarters in the houses belonging to the cable company at one end of the island and at the other 40 Japanese stowage passengers were told to stay."

"The white women were allowed to sleep in the houses, but most of the men had to make themselves comfortable in the open air and fared little better than the Japanese.

"The first night the Japanese sent a committee to us and requested that they be allowed to live with us. They asserted that as we were all castaways, everybody should be treated alike and that there should be no separation of the races or classes. The committee called upon us several times. Of course we would not accede to its request. This greatly incensed the Japanese and we expected that they would make trouble for us, but they did not.

"When the training ship arrived off the island and her officers landed, the steerage passengers at once told them of our refusal to allow them to stay at the same end of the island with us. I think that determined the officers of the training ship to give us no aid.

"For two days the training ship cruised about the island taking soundings. We thought she was preparing to help the Mongolia off the reef. Then the night of the second day the training ship disappeared. The next morning the Mongolia floated on a high tide.

"If the Japanese had attached a cable to the stranded steamer it would have been a comparatively easy matter to have floated her. Captain Porter, of the Mongolia, went to the captain of the training ship and beseeched him to sell one of the two steam launches on board. The Japanese refused.

"I believe the training ship took soundings so that in case war ever broke out between the United States and Japan, the cable could be cut at Midway Island.

SAILOR MEN FIGHT HARD

ALARM CITY ASSOCIATION CLUB UNTIL FIREWORKS START.

Heavyweights Hold Score Even Until Second Half, When Three Shots Get Past Goalkeeper Richmond.

For 15 or 20 minutes yesterday afternoon an association football team of towering seamen from the British Steamship Manchester Port, the British ship Glenalvon and the French ship Jacobson, had the Portland Association Football Club's eleven thoroughly alarmed in an exciting game on the Portland Cricket Club grounds, near East Thirty-ninth and Belmont streets. It was not until the second half was well advanced that the city players got in scoring shape. Three goals were then made in rapid succession and the game ended 4 to 1 in Portland's favor.

The unusually good showing of the Seaman's Institute was made possible by the arrival of the Manchester Port in harbor. This ship carries a crew largely from Manchester, England, center of one of the hottest "soccer" regions in the world, 100 organizations existing in and around the town. Several of these men have been first class players in their time, but life on the rolling deep is not conducive to good condition for fast football on land, and this and lack of practice hampered the visitors, whose last games were played 12 months ago, at Bilbao, Spain, where they won a game and lost one.

Cavar, a Frenchman, who was one time a member of the champion Dunkirk eleven, of the Northern Football Association of France, played center for the seamen. He gave evidence of having been a fast, aggressive man, before he went down to the sea in ships. Hodgson and Dofir, Institute backs, played a strong game. Both are heavyweights. Richmond, in goal, was fast and clever, but displayed a tendency toward the erratic. Apart from these, the seamen's outside left deserved a mention.

A notable feature was the interest taken by British captains in the match. Captain Acraman, of the Manchester Port; Captain King, of the Glenalvon, and Captain Birchell, of the Owennee, were intensely interested spectators. It was their cooperation that made so strong a team possible for the sailors. Chief Engineer Methver, of the Manchester Port, was referee.

The city team did not play as well as on previous Saturdays, some unavoidable disorganization existing among the combination. A return match, weather permitting, will be played on the same grounds next Saturday. The line-up follows:

Portland (4): Goal—Robinson; backs—Ryland and Dymont; halves—Dickson, S. Mills and Albinston; right wing—Kilpack and Cuthbertson; left wing—Wilder and Vosper; center—Matthew.

Reid's Many Distinguished Guests.

LONDON, Dec. 1—Ambassador White-law Reid and Mrs. Reid are entertaining their last week-end party at West Park before their departure for the United States, December 3. Among the guests are the German Ambassador, Count Paul Wolff-Metternich; the Duke and Duchess of Roxburgh, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon and Lord Amthill, who has been mentioned as a possible successor of Mrs. Brittain Durand as Ambassador of Great Britain at Washington.

TO BE TRIED AT TACOMA

THOMPSON CASE ENLISTS BRILLIANT ARRAY OF LAWYERS.

Judge Emory Was Much Beloved and Had Long Been Friend of Slayer's Father.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 1—(Special.)—The trial of Chester Thompson, son of Will H. Thompson, the noted Northwestern lawyer, author, poet and veteran of the Civil War, for the murder of Judge G. Meade Emory, ex-King County Judge and one of the best known attorneys of this state, will commence at Tacoma December 6. The trial was taken from King to Pierce County because of the contention that a prejudice exists here which would deprive young Thompson of a fair hearing.

In many particulars the trial will be interesting and sensational. The characters in the tragedy are all widely known and, up to the time of the Emory killing, the two families had been intimate.

The trial of young Thompson for murder has developed animosities that no outcome can settle. Emory's close personal and business friends have aided in the effort to send young Thompson to the gallows, while the aged and broken father will appear in the defense of his son.

Will H. Morris, the man who conducted the defense of George Mitchell and who has an enviable record of acquittals, will be chief counsel for young Thompson. The senior Thompson and W. P. Reynolds of Tacoma will also be in the case. Mr. Thompson was for years counsel for the Great Northern and is one of the shrewdest advocates in the Northwest. He was a brother of Maurice Thompson, author of "Alice of Old Vincennes," and other historical novels. Will H. Thompson himself wrote the most striking poem of the Civil War, "High Tide at Gettysburg," and was himself a veteran of the lost cause. When he retired from public life, Mr. Thompson went in for archery and he was one of the group that competed in the St. Louis Exposition finals.

Judge W. P. Reynolds, who will be with the defense, is well known. He is an ex-city attorney of Tacoma, at present a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad attorney and sat for years on the bench in Massachusetts. In politics, Mr. Reynolds will be remembered as the man who made W. P. Pritchard's bitter fight to succeed Judge Stiles on the Supreme Court bench.

County Attorney Kenneth Mackintosh and John E. Miller, his principal deputy, will make the principal fight for the state. But associated with them will be ex-Assistant Attorney-General Thomas M. Vance. Mr. Vance conducted the Attorney-General's office during 1897-1901, at the time Patrick Henry Winston was ill. He is in the case as a result of the insistence of Judge Emory's old-time friends and associates who wanted extra help.

Emotional insanity will be the defense of young Thompson and a small army of witnesses will be in attendance on his behalf. The county has already subpoenaed 29 persons to testify against him and will likely add to this number. Beginning with a fight over the selection of a jury the case will be contested bitterly through each stage and it is not expected to end before Christmas.

Dividends of Express Company.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 1—Thirty-eight per cent dividends were paid last year by the Pacific Coast Express Company, which operates on the Tacoma Eastern Road and is owned by W. M. Ladd, C. E. Ladd, Edward Cookingham, of Portland; John Bagley, of Tacoma, and associates, who also own that railroad. The report of this express company for the year ending June 30, 1906, just filed with the railroad commission, shows the total actual property valued at $9,830 and the gross income for the year $9,650. From this $875 was paid for operating expenses and $3925 was paid the Tacoma Eastern, leaving the net income nearly $2150, from which a 28 per cent dividend on $2000 stock was paid, leaving a surplus of $220.

The report of the Tacoma Eastern was also filed today. It shows an income from operations for the year of $165,000, which, after paying interest and taxes, left about $50,000 net income. Passenger revenue was $57,000 and the freight revenue was $216,000. Operating expenses were $179,000.

A remarkable double wedding has been celebrated in a Viennese church. A manufacturer named Muller married a widow, while at the same time his son married the widow's daughter. Thus the father becomes the father-in-law of his own son, and the mother also the mother-in-law of her daughter.

Humphreys' Seventy Seven Cures Grip and COLDS

"Some one walked over my grave" is a common remark that follows a shudder. The shudder may be the first sign of a Cold, and is caused by the checked circulation of the blood. The use of "Seventy-seven" restores the circulation, starts the blood coursing through the veins and breaks up the Cold.

"77" is for Grip, Colds, Influenza, Catarrh, Pains and soreness in the Head and Chest, Hoarseness, Sore Throat and prevention of Pneumonia.
