

"DAD" TRINE DEAD

Famous Athletic Trainer Succumbs to Cancer.

END COMES AT CORVALLIS

In His Prime, Popular Athlete Was Speedy Man in Distances and Sprints—Physical Director at Corvallis College.

CORVALLIS, Or., July 13.—(Special.)—W. O. (Dad) Trine, physical director at the State Agricultural College and one of the best known athletes and athletic trainers in the West, died here at 8 o'clock tonight, after suffering for more than two years with cancer on the face. His chin was affected, and more than a year ago his lower jaw was removed.

W. O. (Dad) Trine, Who Died at Corvallis Yesterday.

For two months the sufferer had been confined to his room, where he lingered between life and death. A committee of the faculty of the Agricultural College will accompany the body to Eugene tomorrow, where interment will be made. Trine ran all the distance races and the sprints. For the 100-yard dash he held a record of 5 1/4, and 4:27 in the mile. He was about 35 years old. Trine was made physical director of the O. A. C. four years ago.

WELL-KNOWN COAST ATHLETE "Dad" Trine Was Recognized as Speedy Man in His Day.

W. O. Trine, better known in athletic circles as "Dad," was one of the best-known trainers of amateur athletes on the Pacific Coast. He first gained fame as a professional foot racer in the early days of the sport on the Coast, and he performed on the track in almost every city of any prominence in sporting circles on the Coast. In the days when Jack King, of Portland, and Dad Moulton, the veteran coach of the University of California, wore the spiked shoe and running trunks, W. O. Trine was at his best, and frequently demonstrated his speed when they were either participants or officials of the meet. Trine's greatest performance on the track is said to have been his defeat of Pendergast, who at that time was rated as the champion of the country.

When footracing commenced to decline in the early '90s, Trine took up coaching of amateurs, and was associated with Moulton in California for several years. About eight years ago he came north and was soon engaged as trainer for the athletes at the University of Oregon. He developed a team that became famous, and ever since his taking up the work of training, this institution has been represented in all branches of outdoor athletics by championship or winning teams. Four years ago Trine was made physical director of the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis, which position he held when he died. He is the man who developed Forrest Smithson, Earl Greenham, Swann, Moore and other famous athletes who have won honor and glory for Oregon colleges.

During the games held under the auspices of the American Athletic Union at the Lewis and Clark Fair in August, 1905, Dad Trine was present with the finest collective bunch of athletes that he could muster at that time of year, but owing to injuries suffered by Smithson and two others, and the failure of Greenham to enter, the Chicago Athletic Club captured the meet. Shortly after these games Trine was attacked by a cancerous growth on his lower jaw and was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital in Portland to undergo an operation. His chin was entirely removed, and at that time it was thought that all of the affected portion of the jaw had been removed. Two months ago he again became a sufferer from the malady, and at that time his life was despaired of for the reason that another operation was practically impossible. The funeral of the dead trainer will be attended by a large delegation of Portland athletes, who are endeavoring to arrange their business to permit of their journeying to Eugene to pay final tribute to the man who has ably assisted the advancement of athletics in Oregon, as well as in the entire Northwest.

ARTESIAN WELL A GUSHER Heavy Flow of Water Struck at North Powder.

BAKER CITY, Or., July 13.—(Special.)—Artesian water, pure, soft, clear, cold and flowing in a steady stream, was discovered Tuesday afternoon by Andrew Lun on his place at North Powder, at a depth of about 200 feet. Mr. Lun had been boring about a week and was greatly surprised when he found water at this short distance below the surface. He will immediately sink two more wells to secure enough water for irrigation purposes. From a study of the natural conditions existing in Baker Valley, Mr. Lun became convinced that there must be great bodies of artesian water somewhere below the surface. A short time since he secured a drilling outfit and a little more than a week ago began drilling on his home place within the city limits of North Powder to see if this subterranean supply of water could be reached. His efforts were rewarded shortly after noon on

DIG OUT OF JAIL

Two Prisoners Make Their Escape at Enterprise.

POSSE IS IN PURSUIT

Fugitives Reported to Be Desperate Men and Battle Is Expected if Sheriff and Party Succeeds in Surrounding Them.

WALLOWA, Or., July 13.—(Special.)—"Kid" Preston and Carl Dunn broke from the county jail at Enterprise last night and made good their escape. The Sheriff and a posse are in pursuit, but in the mountainous country capture of the fugitives will be difficult, particularly since the men gained such headway on the officers.

The prisoners made their escape by cutting through the floor and digging under the stone foundation of the jail. It required the men several days to do the work, and it is suspected that the prisoners were aided in their escape by friends. Preston was doing time for assault and Dunn was charged with stealing horses. Both have the reputation of being desperate men and handy with a gun. It is feared that should the men be surrounded they will put up a stiff battle.

HOWLING MOB IN HOQUIAM SALOONS CLOSE AND ROUGH ELEMENT "CELEBRATES."

Men and Women Parade the Streets Yelling at the Top of Their Voices.

HOQUIAM, Wash., July 13.—(Special.)—Every saloon, dancehall and place of business closed at 5 minutes to 12 tonight, and for an hour or more over 1000 people thronged the main streets, yelling at the top of their voices. This is the first time that the saloons have ever been forced to close in the history of the city, and the demonstration was prolonged until a late hour. The first trouble occurred when Officer Jones broke a bottle of whisky held by a bystander. Jones was assaulted and knocked to the ground, but managed to regain his feet, when he pulled his revolver and fought his way to the open just as Chief McKenny arrived.

CITY ELECTION FOR RAYMOND Town Proposes to Incorporate With Population of 2500.

RAYMOND, Wash., July 13.—(Special.)—A mass meeting of citizens will be held in Nixon's Hall next Monday evening to name the first set of officers, including a Mayor, Clerk, Treasurer and seven Councilmen, to be voted upon at an election soon to be held to incorporate the town. But one ticket will be in the field and the election will come under the new direct primary law. The proposed corporate city limits take in two by two sections, a half mile of territory, with a population of nearly 2500 people. The proposed corporate limits take in several small ranches, the owners of which are much opposed to being within the town limits and have employed attorneys and threaten to take the matter into the courts.

MINER'S TONGUE IS TORN OUT Man in Klondike Tried to Bite Off a Dynamite Cap.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 13.—(Special.)—William Bell, an old miner, tried to remove a cap from a dynamite cartridge with his teeth on No. 21, above Bonanza Creek, Yukon Territory. The cartridge was exploded and Bell's tongue blown out. Miners immediately got a team and a race against death was started. Bell was carried to a Dawson hospital, arriving there late last night, in time to save his life. The miner waited until Dr. Canto removed the wound, then waiting for a pencil and paper, asked what the doctor had to say. His friends warned him in the same manner that his condition was very serious. Bell is the owner of the Bonanza claim, now being worked by the Yukon Gold Company.

HUSBAND SHOTS HIS WIFE

WOUNDS NOT FATAL—MAN FLEES, BUT LATER GIVES HIMSELF UP.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., July 13.—(Special.)—During a quarrel following the return of a number of photographs, Henry Harrison, a well-known citizen of North Yakima, shot his wife three times tonight. None of the wounds are likely to prove fatal. Following the shooting, Harrison fled, but later gave himself up. He inquired for Deputy Sheriff Grant, whom he knew, and, learning that that officer was not on hand, began a search for him. He was arrested by the Chief of Police. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were married a year ago, separating three weeks ago. Tonight he returned some pictures to her, a quarrel resulting. Without warning, Harrison drew a revolver and fired point blank, the bullet lodging in the woman's left arm. She ran screaming. He fired two more shots, one taking effect in her arm and the other in her back.
