McAllen & McDonnell

Mrs. Chamberlin is held in high esteem by the Alpha Club, girls who number some of the most prominent members of the younger set, and who have long called Mrs. Chamberlin the club mother.

Miss Harriet Kinney asked a few girls to tea on Monday to meet Miss Goodwin, an attractive New York girl, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin, are guests at the Portland Hotel. Present were Miss Genevieve Thompson, Miss Muriel Williams, Miss Partello and Mr. McCormick, of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Emmons and the Misses Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Emmons, of Detroit, and their family leave on Thursday for Seaside.

Miss Partello, the attractive Army girl, who is a guest of Miss Muriel Williams, was given a small launching party on Monday evening by Mr. Banks, of Chicago, and Miss Ethel Goodwin, daughter of Major and Mrs. Goodwin. Rock Island was the objective point, where an informal dance was given, followed by a supper. Present were Mrs. Walker, of Hongkong, Miss Williams, Mr. Maurice Dooley, Mr. Bodine and Mr. Wilson Clarke.

On Friday evening Miss Williams entertained the same guests with a launching party and a marshmallow roast. Miss Grace Warren and Mr. Frank Williams were additional guests.

Dr. and Mrs. Rupert Chipman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Ladd and Mr. and Mrs. Mathewson have taken a cottage at Garthart Park. These three attractive matrons are constantly seen together, and for the past years each with their cunning sons have occupied the same beach home during the Summer months.

Mrs. Lou von Zoll Clarke leaves on Thursday for a month's sojourn at the beach.

Miss Edna Irvine, of Corvallis, who recently returned from New York, is a guest for a week of Mrs. Charles E. McDonnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Boulton, of New York, Miss Pauline Boulton and Mr. William Boulton have been the motif for a number of informal affairs since their arrival at the Hotel Portland, having been entertained by Mrs. J. E. Mont-

MPETUS has been added to the Summer season owing to the state tennis tournament which has proven the particular leader, and from Tuesday on brilliant playing has been the order of the day. Each day a prominent matron has presided and served ices, assisted by a bevy of girls. There have been many attractive frocks worn which presented a pleasing kaleidoscopic effect.

Mrs. David Honeyman presided on Thursday and though having a sprained ankle, appeared on crutches, gowned in heavily embroidered frock and a stunning hat of black with long weeping willow plume of blue. Mrs. Carl Lewis, who will be remembered as the attractive Miss Laura Jordan, came over from Seattle with Mr. Lewis, who played in the tournament. She was gowned in dainty frock of pink combined with Irish crochet.

Miss Pauline Houlton, of New York, wore a smart linen costume and accompanied Miss Montgomery, attired in a stylish French hand-embroidered costume worn with a small hat and a chiffon veil, with black dots. Miss Margaret Morrison and Miss Margaret Walter were both in white lingerie costumes. Miss Lou Flanders appeared in a mauve linen. Mrs. Alma Katz wore a white-embroidered gown. Miss Katherine Brown, of San Francisco, was gowned entirely in brown, with the exception of a vivid green parasol; Miss Freda Grelle, of New Jersey, wore a gray linen costume. Miss Marion Jackson, a Norfolk costume of pongee, with a hood effect of silk of a coral tint. Miss Dorothy Morrison was handsome in a severely tailored linen costume worn with a tri-colored hat.

Drake C. O'Reilly left on July 29 for Montreal, where he will join Arnold Rothwell and sail for Europe. In England they will meet Mr. Burpee, who is well known here, and together they will tour that country and Ireland, going thence to the continent where they will travel from place to place as fancy dictates. They will in all probability return home by way of Japan.

Just prior of Mr. O'Reilly's departure Dr. Arthur Chance was host at a stag dinner given in his honor at the Hotel Portland, which was followed by a moonlight ride in automobiles. The guests were all bachelors from the Norton. R. J. O'Reilly, Harvey Briggs, Charles Davis, Mr. De Sweeney, Sidney B. Loewenberg and William Miller.

Miss Margaret Montgomery leaves on Monday for a fortnight's visit at the Country Club of Seattle where she will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paschall and

Will H. Irwin, of New York and San Francisco, the brilliant American magazine writer, has been entertained on his brief visit here by Chester Murphy, Frank B. Riley and Forrest Fisher, college friends at Stanford, where he was conspicuous as a member of the class of '88. Mr. Irwin was formerly editor of McClure's, but is now on the staff of Collier's. After the San Francisco congratulation Mr. Irwin attracted much attention in New York through his sympathetic accounts of the disaster and won fame with his graphic account of "The City That Was." He has also been well known as co-author with Gellette Burgess of "The Picarons." Owing to railroad delays, Mr. Irwin was unable to reach California in time to attend the Bohemian Club picnic for which unique organization Mr. Irwin acted three years ago as the sire, writing the clever tract, "The City That Was." Mr. Irwin is a brother of Wallace Irwin, the humorist, who has long contended for Life and Colliers, and will be remembered for "The Shame of the Colleges."

Misses Katherine and Louise Emmons were hosts on Wednesday at a girl's tea at their Riverdale Drive residence which was in compliment to their cousins, the Misses Emmons, of Detroit, who are spending the Summer here. A number of the guests went out on the train, some drove, a few went on horseback and the rest motored. The gallery of the attractive residence which commands such a splendid view was made attractive with Turkish rugs and divans and there refreshments were served. Decorations for the drawing-room were huge blue hydrangeas arranged in brass bowls. Presiding at the table were Miss Louise Carey, who served coffee and Miss Polly Hewitt. Frappe was served by Miss Evelyn Wilson and punch by Miss Vida Reed.
