WHY HE VETOED

Hughes Gives Reasons For Action on Two-Cent Passenger Bill.

AGAINST ARBITRARY ACTS

Says Legislature Acted Without Learning Whether Reduction Pair-Improved Facilities More Needed Than Low Rates.

whom they are against. Then you wanter the truth."
Governor Charles E. Hughes, of New York, arriving after an all-night run from Webh City, Mo., in a speech here today, opened a discussion of railroads with particular reference to his veto of the 2-cent fare bill in New York State. He made other stops in Illinois at Lincoln. Bloomington. Pontiac and Joliet. The Hughes special is scheduled to reach Chicago tonight, where Mr. Hughes in a speech will complete his tour of the Middle West states. Mr. Hughes said base in part.

Against Arbitrary Action.

"I have been asked why I vetoed the 2-cept face bill. I will tell you. I do not believe in arbitrary legislative action. I believe in compelling the discharge of public obligations. In giving adequate and impartial service at reasonable rates and a rigorous insistence on the performance of public duty. But we have large enterprises connected with our public service which are of vital importance to the interests of the people.

enterprises connected with our public services which are of vital importance to the interests of the people.

"Our railroads are our arteries of commerce. Upon their efficiency all classes in the community are dependent. We want improved facilities, new stations, letter trackage and increased car facilities. We want freights moved promptly. We want passenger service of the best. Thousands of workingmen are dependent upon the efficiency of our railroad enterprises. Its unreasonable curtailment means loss, not only to commerce but to labor, and the impairment of the thousandfold activities of the community.

"We must insist upon reasonable rates. The Legislature has the power to fix reasonable rates, but it has no power to attempt arbitrarily to reduce earnings unless it knows what it is about. We provided machinery in New York so that matters might be investigated and etudied in advance of action, so that what was fair to be done could be ordered done. That was the reason for my official conduct in the case specified."

is still endeavoring to reach a settlement without recourse to a meeting of the signatories of the treaty of Berlin, fear-ing that it will be impossible to limit the scope of the conference and establish the facts upon which she and Turkey are in-sisting.

After the conference the two ministers had a long talk with Sir Charles Hardings, the permanent under-secretary of the Foreign Office and former Ambassador to Bussia with whom they discussed the Foreign Office and former Ambassa-der to Russia, with whom they discuss-ed Far Eastern affairs and the Anglo-Russian convention. Sir Edward and M. for its ramifications have been far-reaching. Sir Bdward Grey had a busy day before the arrival of M. Iswoisky, the Greek minister being among the earlier callers. He presented a proposal to Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia that the matter of the Cretan proclamation of union with Greece be considered at the proposed international conference, simultaneously with the questions of Bulgarian independence and the amexation by Assiria, Bungary of Bosnia and Herze. simultaneously with the questions of Buigarian independence and the amexation by Asstria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegavina. In the reply to his proposal, however, the Greek Government was notified that until the legal status quo has been restored in the Island of Crete, Great Britain cannot bold out any hope that the Cretan aspirations will be granted.

The Italian Ambassador, Marquis San Guillano, called on the British Foreign Secretary, also, and conveyed assurances that his government was fully in accord with Great Britain, and that there ought to be used departure from the conditions of the Berlin treaty without the knowledge and assent of the signatories, and that a conference of the powers should be called Still another Ambassador, Count Wolff Mesternich, representing Germany, was among the visitors to the Foreign Office. How assured Secretary Grey that his government had no knowledge, previous to the science of the action of Buigaria and America and that as a power Germany was not interested in the Balkans.

Germany's main desire, he said, was to co-operate with the other powers with a view to bringing about a friendly solution of the question and maintaining peace.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The Paris morning papers are filled with alarming but unconfirmed rumors from the Near Least. Among these are the following:

That the Servians have blown up bridges along the Austrian frontier; that the Servians have blown up bridges along the Austrian flags in that a Servian officer has been captured and shot.

From Cettinje come rumors that the Montenegrins burned Austrian flags in front of the palace and broke the windows of the Austrian Consultate.

From Centining comes a story of anti-Carlatian agitations in Smyrna and rumors that the English, Fronch and Italian Consults have asked their governments to send wa

The feeling is growing here that, as Russia and Great Britain hold the same views concerning the actions of Austria-Hittingery and Bulgaria, the way is clear to a definition of the Russian proposal, but unless the Russian Minister can show the best of reasons to the contrary, Great Britain will insist that the conference be limited to a consideration of accomplished facts.

In the meantime Turkey has been urged to continue her prudent reserve, so long as the movements against her are confined to changes of the status in regions already effectively occupied by other powers, but not to tolerate any further encroachments. The dispatch of a British fleet from Malta to the Acgean Sea was decided upon for the purpose of encouraging Turkey to adhere to this policy and to show the populations of other states, especially Crete, that the powers do not view favorably any movements against Turkey at the present moment.

Speaking at today's session of the Austro-Hungarian delegation, Foreign Minister Von Achrenthal expressed the belief that he would be able to carry through the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina peacefully. He said that already he was negotiating with some of the powers with the view of smoothing out existing difficulties. Baron Achrenthal's speech was conciliatory.

"Both commercially and politically," the Foreign Minister said, "we have friendly and benevolent feelings toward Servia and those the government is now ready to translate into action."

Continuing, the Baron suggested that Servia and Bulgaria be invited to appoint representatives on a European Dacube Commission and secure concessions facilitating the passage of their vessels on the Danube.

After declaring that the Bervian government had assured Austria-Hungary that Servia's conspicuous military measures were not aggressive in character, the Foreign Minister said that the further proceeding of the Bervian government would be watched with the closest attention. He declared, however, that the Servian agitation in Beasia and Herzegovina would not be allowed to continue. In conclusion Baron von Achrenthal said. 'I hope that the people of Servia will come to resilize their actual position and adopt a more sensible attitude. We will regulate our attitude toward Servia in accordance with Servia's attitude toaccordance with Servia's attitude to-wards us. Servian Ministers Ruled by Clamor of Belligerent Mob.

BELGRADE, Oct. 10.—Even in official circles it is now believed that war is unavoidable. M. Pasica, Minister of War, in an interview with the Associated Press correspondent, declared that the situation was most critical, saying:

"Hostilities can hardly be averted."

A big mass meeting was held this morning after which the remonstrators marched to the Skupshtina, the members of which are assembling, clamoring for war. Among the members of the assembly the sentiment is apparently warlike.
