cisco where they attended the wedding of Thomas Scott Brooke and Miss Christine Pomeroy. They will remain in this city a month as the house guests of Mrs. Lewis before returning to their home in Washington, D. C.

Yellow and white was the color plan which Mrs. Lewis carried out with chrysanthemums for her decorations and in the afternoon 150 guests called. In the dining-room Mrs. W. B. Ayer, Miss Mary Falling, Mrs. Waiter J. Burns, and Mrs. J. C. Alinsworth were mistresses of the urns and Mrs. Peter Kerr, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, Mrs. Hawley Hoffman, and Mrs. Joseph Bradley presided at the punch howls.

Many affairs, formal and informal, will be given in honor of Miss Brooke while she is in the city.

Mrs. Thomas Scott Brooke, whose photograph appears on this page, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Pitkin Pomeroy, of San Francisco, and a member of a distinguished Southern family and is related also to many prominent Knickerbocker families. She is a stately demi-blonde and has been known as one of the beauties of Callfornia society. Since her debut about seven years ago she has taken a conspleuous part in the most exclusive affairs. She organized the famous Gayety Club, comprising but 25 girls, with the membership so limited that two sisters might not belong, and invitations to the Gayety parties were more eagerly sought than to any other club's dances for many seasons. Mrs. Brooke attended the wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth four years ago and was on several occasions a guest at the White House during the Roosevelt administration. Since her engagement two months ago Mrs. Brooke has been continually feted, and, during the last fortnight, she has been a compilimented guest on every afternoon and evening.

A party among the very young set of Portland's clite took place Thursday when Mrs. John Keating entertained in honor of the third birthday of her daughter Miss Hallie Joyce Keating. The dining room was unique and appropriate with a huge yellow Noah's Ark as the centerpiece of the table, while at the twelve guests' places were yellow-paper caps and tiny baskets filled with French candles as favors for each. Chrysanthemums were the flowers used to carry out further the entire color scheme of yellow.

Those who attended were: Billy Riley, Gilbert Sanborn, Deborah Sanborn, William Panton, Mildred Marsh, Catherine Dryette, Victor Haufer, Rosser Atkinson, Edward Wheeler, Dannie Northrup and John Peters.
