

CITIZENS WOULD BEAUTIFY NEW YORK; TOMBS OF NOTED ONES TO BE RAZED

Widening of Second Avenue, New York, Will Disturb Ancient Vaults—Public Market Proves Big Success in Gotham—Wholesalers Oppose Founding String of Retail Groceries Throughout Country.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(Special).—A City Planning Association has been organized by 22 civic associations, with the hope and intention of making Manhattan more presentable and beautiful.

While the co-operation of the city authorities is sought, members of the association point out that, being independent of political affiliations, they are free to demand and even insist upon such reforms and improvements as a consensus of the associated organizations may deem necessary.

After two meetings, resolutions were adopted and presented to the commission of the entire City Planning Commission. Four recommendations were made to the respective organizations and to the city authorities. A city planning commission for the entire city is suggested. The board is appointed by the Mayor and Board of Estimate, to include nine municipal officials, representative of specially interested professions, business, commercial, civic and tax-paying interests of the city; the commission not to exceed 25 in number. The fourth recommendation is that legislation be promptly sought by the city authorities and the allied civic associations making for the performance of such commission and its work and giving it definite powers, to the end that public improvements shall proceed with and not in violation of a broad and harmonious general plan for the development of the city.

When asked to define the scope of the new commission, as proposed, President Robert G. Hall said: "It is to carry out on a still broader scale the same idea as the Fifth Avenue Commission has been appointed to realize. We feel that always have felt that we of the Fifth Avenue Association are guardians of a section of the city which is a matter of peculiar pride to the whole city. The new commission will cover almost everything in the way of abolishing topographical or building evils. It will busy itself with the laying out of city parks, keeping in mind the good of the whole city in improving any single section, so as to make the whole harmonious."

For the purpose of widening Second avenue, the tombs of a number of noted New Yorkers in the beautiful churchyard of history, St. Mark's Episcopal Church, are to be razed. In the churchyard lie some of New York's most famous men, founders of families which are great today and among the best known in both business and society.

There is the Gideon Lee vault, 1823; the Benjamin Stephen, the Gerardus Post, 1823; the Winthrop, the George Witherspoon, the Jacob Lorillard, 1823; the David S. Jones, 1823 (said to be a relative of John Paul Jones); the Thomas Barclay, 1820; the D. Ward Lydig, 1823; the Nicholas Fish, 1830; the P. P. Goebel, 1824; the Van Buren, 1817; the Frederick Gebhardt, the Abraham and George Iselin and others.

One of the most interesting perhaps is that of Alexander T. Stewart, "the merchant king," whose body was stolen from this vault and held for a ransom of $100,000. It was declared to have been recovered, but this statement has always been doubted.

The ground on which St. Mark's now stands has been used for purposes of worship since 1680. The cornerstone of the church was laid April 25, 1795, and it was consecrated May 5, 1798.

A plan to save $1,000,000 a year in the cost of handling food in this city is under consideration by half a dozen of the largest wholesale grocery houses here. It involves the construction of immense warehouses on the South Brooklyn water front. Such a tremendous saving in the expense of yearly carting food will have a marked influence in the cost of living in New York City. It is expected.

More than 1000 feet of water front in South Brooklyn has been obtained on option by agents of the wholesale grocery concerns to "move Hudson street to Brooklyn." Plans for the warehouses have been drawn. They provide for railroad trackage in front of and into the buildings, so that goods may be received from and sent away by ships and cars without truckage, which adds 10 per cent of cost, the burden falling upon the consumer.

At the head of the movement, and other firms considering the plan are F. H. Leggett & Co., Seaman Bros. and R. C. Williams & Co.

The suggestion for a string of retail groceries throughout the country is opposed by some wholesalers. Harry Balf, of Austin Nichols & Co., said to the interviewer that under no circumstances would that firm have anything to do with operating any chain of retail stores. "Our business," said he, "is that of an importing, manufacturing and wholesale grocery concern, and will remain so."

The Federal Transportation Co., with several millions of dollars capital stock, has been organized to finance the grocers' exodus.

One thousand pounds of weakfish, flounders and fluke are each day sold for eight cents a pound by the new fish market under the approach of the Queensboro bridge at First avenue and Fifty-ninth street, Manhattan. The market is run under the direction of the Consumers' Committee of Citizens Men, women and children from all parts of Manhattan come along before the stated time and wait patiently until they are served. It is estimated by one of the fishermen that there are 500 buyers every morning, as it takes only two hours to sell 1000 pounds.

Mrs. Heath, president of the Housewives' League, said the sale demonstrated that the market would be a permanent one. She said she had received letters from scores of farmers who had heard of the new market. "They want to deal directly with the market," she said, "and stop their relation with the commission houses. The former receives 25 cents of more of every $1 the consumer pays, and they are not going to stand for it much longer. We are going to establish markets in different parts of the city, where the prices in the city are the lowest in the country, with other markets right next to us charging their patrons exorbitant prices."

The appellate division of the Supreme Court has decided that when a woman gets a divorce proceeding she is entitled to full payment whether she needs it or not and whether or not her husband is able to pay. The court accordingly reversed an order by Supreme Court Justice Harry W. Merrill, a teller in the National Park Bank for contempt of court because he was behind $10 in paying his ex-wife her alimony of $50 a month under a decree she obtained in 1909.

Mrs. Alice M. Merrill, who asked to have a defendant punished, said that he disobeyed the divorce decree by going to New Jersey and marrying again, and that on March 15 and April 1 last he sent her only $100 each time when he should have sent $25.

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair grower, have resigned themselves to their baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple hair preparation has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist. Buy, sum, it once; it is a druggist. If you wish it returned, add half to one teaspoonful of the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood oils so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

Labbe Heirs Get Readjustment in Seventh-Street Case.

In the case of the City of Portland against Blaise, A. M., E. J., A. G., and C. H. Labbe, heirs of John Labbe, a jury in Judge McGinn's department of the Circuit Court yesterday found that the defendants' property, lots 2 and 3, block 4, Couch's Addition, will be damaged $17,000 and benefited $5500 by the widening of Seventh street between Burnside and Hoyt streets. The case was an appeal from the report of the city viewers, who assessed the damages at $15,000 and the benefits at $3700. The evidence showed the necessity of the taking of 10 feet off the Seventh-
