

ROSES SHOWER ON DEPARTING GUESTS

Automobile Loads and Huge Boxes of Blooms Used in Supplying Visitors.

TRAIN DECORATIONS LAVISH

Royal Rosarians and Fair Aides Present All Members of Every Party Leaving City With Bouquets; Women Get Candy.

Literally showered with roses by their hosts, the delegations who came to Portland from Oakland, Pasadena and other cities departed yesterday and the night before, after their week of entertainment at the Rose Festival. Huge boxes of cut roses, single bouquets, roses by the basketful, roses by the automobile load, the very finest and freshest that the private rose gardens of hundreds of Portland residences could afford, had been delivered at the headquarters of the Royal Rosarians at the Multnomah Hotel, in response to an appeal from Frank McCrillis, chairman of the Royal Rosarian committee, for Saturday.

The first large party to leave the city was a delegation of the Knights of the Pasadena tournament, and women, who left on the midnight train Friday, returning to California. O. C. Bortzmeier, chairman of the Friday committee, and the women's committee on entertainment sent down to the train boxes of candy and bouquets of Caroline Testouts for each woman in the party, and decorated the interior of the cars with roses.

Mr. McCrillis was at headquarters early yesterday with members of his committee to march to the Union Station and bid farewell to the Pasadena delegation, which departed over the O-W. It is to go north and sail for Alaska.

Train Rose-Redecked.

Great armfuls of roses were borne to the station by the Rosarians and given to the departing Pasadena people, while the interior of the observation car was decked throughout with rose blossoms and evergreens.

Boxes of candy for all of the women in the party were sent by the women's entertainment committee of the Royal Rosarians.

Out of the great banks of roses the committees made up bouquets of beautiful Caroline Testouts, and one was sent to the room of every Oakland man and woman at the Oregon Hotel. Boxes of candy were sent up for the women. All through the forenoon the great bank of roses that was massed upon the tables on the mezzanine floor of the Multnomah grew greater and greater, despite the auto loads that were taken from it by the committee in serving its departing guests.

The women's committee kept informed as to the expected departures, and every party departing was escorted to the station and received all the roses that could be carried, and boxes of candy.

Multnomah Club Host.

Little regular entertainment was offered during yesterday, with the exception of an open house for the Oakland men at the Multnomah Club in the afternoon, when the drill team enjoyed the privileges of the club. In the evening the guests from Oakland witnessed the electric pageant, closing the week's festivity, and then held an informal farewell reception at the Oregon Hotel. When the Oakland people were ready to leave with the last remaining division of the "Royal Oaks," the Rosarians escorted the party to the station and filled their train with roses.

The committee of Rosarians who had charge of the farewell ceremonies were: Frank McCrillis, chairman; E. G. Morrow, vice-chairman; T. W. Reed, C. S. Loveland, G. W. Priest, W. G. Whipp, N. G. Pike, R. H. Crozier, Dr. E. A. Pierce, V. V. Jones, Eugene Brooks, J. S. Beal, Monte Mayer, R. P. Meyer, D. N. Mosesohn and H. L. Keats. Ladies' committee: Mrs. F. T. Hyskell, chairman; Mrs. F. A. Freeman, vice-chairman; Mrs. Phil Metachan, Mrs. F. E. Smith, Mrs. O. C. Bortzmeier, Mrs. W. F. Ross, Mrs. J. M. Scott, Mrs. H. L. Pitcock, Mrs. W. L. Morgan, Mrs. W. J. Hoffmann, Mrs. W. P. Buchanan, Mrs. W. F. Stranbourg, Mrs. M. N. Dana, Mrs. T. J. Seufert, Mrs. G. L. Hutchin, Mrs. Robert Aldrich, Mrs. Clifford Reid, Mrs. C. S. Loveland, Mrs. Fred Lockley, Mrs. J. N. Shetterley, Mrs. F. C. Riggs, Mrs. A. L. Finley, Mrs. V. V. Jones, Miss Tillie F. Cornlius, Miss Elizabeth Neilson and Miss Adelaide Knapp.

NATIVE OF OREGON DIES

Eugene F. Rockfellow, aged 54, is buried at Ashland.

Eugene F. Rockfellow, 54 years old, died last Sunday at Sissons, Cal., according to information just received in Portland. He was a son of Oregon pioneers and was born in Oregon in 1859. He resided there until after his marriage, when he removed to California. He had large land holdings near Sissons and was actively managing his ranch when he was taken ill. The body was taken to Ashland, where it was buried Wednesday.

LEADER OF VISITING BODY EXPRESSES GRATITUDE.

A. S. Lavenson Tells of Unexpected Benefits of Trip to Rose Festival.

BY A. S. LAVENSON.
(Vice-President of the Commercial Club of Oakland, Cal.)

The visit of the Royal Oaks to Portland was arranged entirely by a committee of the Oakland Commercial Club and the trip was made under its auspices, therefore the club as an organization has not been to the fore in any of the festivities. As vice-president and ranking officer of the club here present, I feel that the organization should express its appreciation of the reception accorded to its auxiliary body. I cannot do better than to describe it as a wonderful week. When the Rosarians, after their recent visit to Oakland, "jollied" us into the belief that they owed us something in return for the ordinary courtesy due and extended them as guests, we determined to even up accounts by taking them at their word. The result has been that the balance of the account has swung so far in their favor that we probably will have to seek relief in the insolvency courts. This will not be done, however, before every individual who has been a member of our party has completely exhausted his means and the benefits of their hospitality confined to the entertainment features and I believe they will be pleased to know that the visit of the Royal Oaks has been of immeasurable value in making manifest to ourselves many things we did not know. We came all this distance to learn that the people of Pasadena, in our own state, were absolutely with us. This might have been determined in some other way, but it had not been up to the time of our visit to Portland, where the revelation took place.

GEORGE BANCROFT FOUND

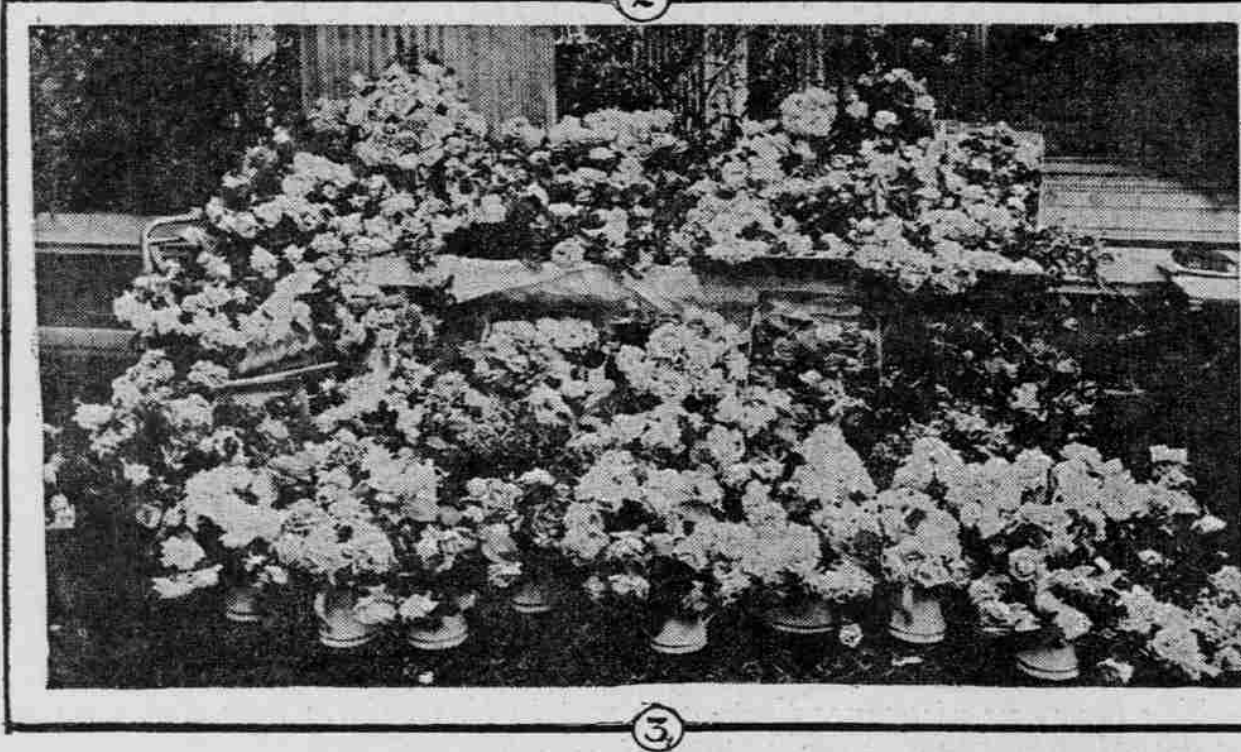

Desires Exposure of Three Days Recovery, Is Expected.

It was reported to the Sheriff's office from Garden Home yesterday that George Bancroft, who disappeared Tuesday from the home of his brother near that place while under the influence of delusions induced by a nervous breakdown, was found lying helplessly in a gully yesterday morning. He had been exposed to the elements three days, but the message received at the Sheriff's office was to the effect that physicians expect him to recover.

George Bancroft is a son of F. A. Bancroft, former postmaster in Portland. He has been employed as a helper in the United States custom-house here. A few weeks ago he quit because of illness and went to his brother's home at Garden Home for a rest, hoping to benefit his health.

among life-long friends. The feeling created by these two meetings is such as to be a perpetual reminder of this week in Portland and will add much to our obligations to her royal people. And last, but not least, among the benefits of our visit is the opportunity it gave us to know exactly how far our energetic chairman, Fred E. Reed, could go in absorbing (officially, of course) the hospitality extended, and though he was mighty hard pressed we are as well pleased with the manner in which he represented us. We are unanimous in agreeing with the expression of many of Fred's Portland admirers—that he is some chairman.

SHRINERS GO TO POW-WOW

At Kader Temple to Take Part in Spokane Celebration.

One of the biggest pilgrimages yet undertaken by the Nobles of Al Kader Temple of the Mystic Shrine, of Portland, will be that to Spokane Tuesday to attend the annual Pow-Wow and to take part in the Shriner's day programme which is to be a feature of the Spokane celebration. In addition to the large number of members and their friends, the Portland Temple will be represented by the Arab Patrol and Al Kader band. The trip will be made by special train consisting of electric lighted Pullman sleepers, observation cars and diners. The visitors will live on the train during the stay in Spokane. The train will leave Portland at 10 o'clock Tuesday night over the North Bank and will spend through in record time to Spokane, arriving there at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

TO DEPARTING FESTIVAL GUESTS.

BY DEAN COLLINS.

Vanished is Rex Oregonus
From festival realms of the Rose;
Vanished the wreathe petals waving,
When Patryland's gateways unclosed;
But still on the breezes that flurry and drift
The light-whirling rose petals flutter and drift
And incense of rose blossoms blows.

Ended the week of our playing
In rose-festival realms of the kings;
Bright as the wreathe petals waving,
The festive memories cling;
And time, though he speed like the flash o' the sun,
Not faster, not freer, not further can run
Than our light-hearted memories can wing.

Oh comrades, who joined with us gaily,
To bow at the shrine of the rose,
Struck hands unto hands with us daily,
The joys of our festival close,
And "Hail" and "Farewell" cry you all, one by one;
A handclasp in parting; a smile—it is done;
You go as the rose blossom goes.

Again to the Southland is calling
Fair Oakland the choice of her men;
From bright Pasadena is falling
The call for her knights to her ken;
The North summons back the proud sons of her coast
Farewell! But our hands stretching out o'er the Coast
Must draw us together again.

NAVY OFFICERS PLEASSED

STAFF OF CRUISER ST. LOUIS FIND CITY MOST HOSPITABLE.

Formal Adieus Are Said by Mayor Ruslight and Festival Leaders to Captain and His Aides.

Formal adieus were said yesterday by Mayor Ruslight and other municipal officials, Rose Festival boosters, also members of the "H I H" Club, to Captain and his staff of the U. S. S. St. Louis. The cruiser arrived here a week ago today and the naval officers say they have entered the name of Portland in the log book in Capital letters, for it takes rank with the most hospitable cities it has been their fortune to visit.

Mayor Ruslight told them of the pleasure it had afforded him and other friends to have had the ship in the harbor and to have been in a position to entertain the wardroom family, while the "H I H" Club personnel avowed that the staff were full-fledged members of all degrees in that association and whether afloat or ashore their hall in the future would always be answered.

So far as visitors were concerned yesterday afternoon was one of the best attended of the week and despite showery weather the patrons of the vessel were closed to sightseers, save such compartments as are denied inspection by persons outside of the service. When the big vessel gets under way this morning it will be a disappointment to hordes who regarded her as one of the leading attractions of the Rose Festival.

The gift came as a complete surprise to Mr. Morrison, and it was a task for him to make known his appreciation to the various patrons of the route.

OFFICIAL VISITS RETURNED

Participation of Portland Organization in Parades and Pageantry, Despite Numerous Social Demands, Emphasized.

After a week of incessant activity in the role of hosts to all organized parties of visitors who attended the Rose Festival, the Royal Rosarians are resting today, with the consciousness of a week of good work well performed.

The marching delegations of Oakland, Pasadena and Seattle and the Radiators from Eugene, the representatives of the Portola and others, have formed one of the chief features of the Festival entertainments and there has not been a single event during the week in which some or all of them have not been represented.

"Without the guests from the other cities," is the common opinion expressed throughout the city, "the entertainments of the Festival would have been incalculably less attractive."

This sentiment, prevailing in the city, is a matter of self-congratulation among the Royal Rosarians, for the reason that practically every organized delegation which visited in Portland this week came in response to the invitations of the Rosarians and was interested in the Festival through the activities of the Rosarians.

Return Visits Paid.

The two leading California delegations frankly came to start the visit made them by the Rosarians last January. The "Royal Oaks" of Oakland, and the "Knights of the Rose Tournament" of Pasadena, were organized along lines similar to and for purposes similar to those of the Rosarians. The Portola representation came as San Francisco's recognition of the visit paid by the Rosarians during the January trip to California. The Portolach was visited by the Rosarians also last summer, and this year the Tillicums sent for the "Night in Rosaria" pageant Wednesday night, a greater representation than they have ever had in Portland before. Their special float was also entered in the automobile parade.

Two days were passed in Portland by the Eugene Radiators whose organization was inspired by and modeled after that of the Rosarians.

The contributions of the visitors themselves to the Festival were innumerable. It was the brilliant uniforms and enthusiasm of the Oakland, Pasadena and Spokane delegations, with their monarchs, which made the ceremony at the Armory on the opening night the most striking and successful in the history of the Rose Festival.

Royal Oaks Active.

The Royal Oaks high school boys' band proved a welcome feature and acted as an escort for the Rosarians throughout the week. The Oakland drill squad appeared in nearly every parade and its representatives were foremost in the "Hands Up and Down the Coast" movement which was launched Friday.

Pasadena also gave invaluable aid in the pageantry of the week with her scarlet-coated knights, her section in the horse and vehicle parade being the largest and most striking of all. The reception by the Pasadena party at the Multnomah Hotel, Wednesday, was one of the largest and most striking of the social affairs of the entire week. The Radiators, last of the delegations to reach the city, nevertheless made themselves indispensable in the pageantry of the last few days.

The Rosarians were represented in all of the leading parades of the week, in spite of the many social demands that were upon them owing to the presence of their visitors. In spite of the multiplicity of demands that the week made upon them, however, the Rosarians had perfected their organization in preparation for the Festival so well that such of the entertainment of the week as was in their hands moved without a single drawback or feature to mar it.

Festival Sidelights

GAINER THIGPEN, the athletic assistant manager of the Multnomah Golf Club, is now an Indian. At least he has a handsomely beaded pair of moccasins, a buckskin gold pouch and a sacred elk-tooth bracelet. These things were given him by the Blackfoot Indians who have been camped on the Multnomah roof during the week following his initiation into the tribe with all the impressive ceremonials that have marked the several rites of this character that the Indians have performed since they have been in Portland.

DR. B. O. COATES, of Pasadena, one of the Knights of the Tournament of Roses, who was injured when his horse fell at the beginning of the parade Thursday night, was taken to St. Vincent Hospital. His injuries consisted of a broken arm and leg and bruises. His condition is not, however, regarded as extremely serious. Dr. K. A. J. Mackenzie is attending him. As soon as it was learned that he had been hurt the Royal Rosarians secured a nurse and did everything in their power to assist. Great bouquets of roses were sent to his room and representatives from all of the delegations visiting in the city called on him to express their regrets and to proffer any assistance that lay within their power.

THE Glacier National Park Indians were the guests of Ellers Piano House during their visit and they learned that there were other musical instruments than tom-toms. Princess Dawn Mist was fascinated with a player piano.

FRIDAY, June 13, 1913, at 3:15 P. M.

In the presence of an officer whose number ended in 13, were some of the usual hoodoo which surrounded the flight of the man and woman aviators at the Country Club Friday afternoon. The flight did not start at exactly 3:15 but the first preparations were begun at that time. However, neither of the flyers believes anything about "signs."

"I'm going to take just a few more chances than usual," said Alys McKay, the aviatrix. "With all those 13's around we ought to have very little danger."
