

GOLD MINES WORKED

Operations in Eastern Oregon Show Much Progress.

OUTPUT GAINS ARE MARKED

Production in Baker, Grant and Malheur This Year Will Amount to $2,819,000, and for State More Than $3,000,000.

GREENHORN, Or., Oct. 4.—(Special.)—Gold mining in the Greenhorn district of Oregon is picking up wonderfully this year, as is the case throughout Eastern Oregon. Where a year ago the United States Geological Survey reports showed gold production of the entire State of Oregon to have been $770,911, as compared with $653,407 in 1912, the production of Baker, Grant and Malheur counties alone in 1913 will approximate $2,819,000, or more than $3,000,000 in gold and silver values for the state as a whole, when the precious metals production of Coos, Curry, Douglas, Jackson, Josephine and Lane counties is added to the tremendous increase in Eastern Oregon, due largely to the introduction of electrical power and reopening of bona fide deep mines within a few months.

The estimate of $2,819,000 is based on the known output of six deep mines, one gold dredge and various other properties for the first eight months of 1913. Four of these deep mines and the dredge have commenced operations during the year.

Probable Output Computed. Exact figures showing the probable gold and silver production for 1913 follow: Rainbow, Mormon Basin, $300,000; Ben Harrison, Whitney, $200,000; Cornucopia, Cornucopia, $200,000; Columbia, Sumpter, $240,000; Highland, Hialeah, $180,000; Humboldt, Mormon Basin, $120,000; Powder River dredge, $480,000; Placer and small quartz mines, $19,000. Grand total, $2,819,000. In the Greenhorn district 20 miners are employed at the Bonanza on one shift. The mill is dropping 15 stamps on ore which is yielding most satisfactory returns.

In the Granite district the Ben Harrison employs 60 men on two shifts, is dropping stamps and doing much development work in the Bonanza mine, six miles from Greenhorn, Or., in an air line. Mormon Basin Active. In the Mormon Basin district the Rainbow and the Humboldt are both big producers, the former being owned and operated by the United States Smelting, Refining & Milling Company, of Boston, Mass., and the latter by the Oregon-Idaho Investment Company, of Baker, Or. More than 100 men are employed on the two properties.

In the Cornucopia district the Cornucopia and Last Chance mines, owned by a New York company, are jointly dropping 20 stamps daily, and amplifying their scope of operations constantly. Sixty men are employed. In the Bourne district the old Columbia, with 49,000 lineal feet of underground workings, is the same steady producer it has been for 17 years.

Just below Sumpter, Or., the Powder River dredge is being worked out from $7000 to $16,000 in fine gold weekly. In the Baker district the Highland, above Haines, Or., is operating a 60-ton daily capacity plant, in commission since June 1, 1912.

LAWYER IS ACCUSED

Crawford Declared Misled in Dallas Saloon Case.

LICENSE BANNED; BAR RUNS

Attorney-General's Opinion Favoring Liquor Shop, Given Through Incomplete Statement, Is Charge in New Chapter.

DALLAS, Or., Oct. 4.—(Special.)—Another chapter in the famous saloon injunction case, which has furnished the newspapers of this city and the state subject for comment, has just come to light. It is in connection with the opinion of Attorney-General Crawford, on which the city permitted J. V. Chitty to open a saloon here without the formal license being issued, and in the injunction issued by Judge Galloway.

It is said that before Judge Galloway had ruled on the demurrer to the injunction, and before he had passed on the motion to dismiss the injunction order issued, G. O. Holman, one of the attorneys of record for the city, but said to be in reality attorney for Chitty, by authority of Mayor Van Ordel, wrote the Attorney-General a letter containing a presumed statement of facts and asking for an opinion. On the statement of facts sent to him, Mr. Crawford handed down his decision holding the saloon could open without the issuance of the mere formal license; and, basing its action on this decision, the city permitted Chitty to open the saloon, though the city and the Auditor and Police Judge of the city are restrained from issuing a license.

It is now said that the statement of facts sent to the Attorney-General by Mr. Holman was not a complete statement, and that Mr. Holman gave the Attorney-General a statement that Attorney-General was not in the courts, Judge Galloway since has handed down a decision wherein he overruled the demurrer of the city to the plaintiff's complaint and overruled the motion to dismiss the injunction.
