Mayor Welcomes Visitors. When the party arrived at Centralia Thursday morning the members were welcomed by a large herd of Elks and escorted to the splendid Elks' Hall.
Here a fine lunch was spread and certain amber liquids dispensed, after which mayor Thomas welcomed the Portland boys in a fitting, eloquent and felicitous speech. To this welcome Mr. Cashin, of the Hazelwood-Company, re-sponded, which remarks were followed by impromptu remarks by other memers of the party.

The party was then ushered out to a flock of nine automobiles, and two guests and two "chaperones" were loaded in each. Soon they were spinning over the well-paved streets and viewing the fine business sections and the splendid residential districts and having the waterworks, lighting plant, school structures and other civic im-provements pointed out to them.

The Pacific Highway passes through Centralia and about six miles of this road is finished, three miles north and nearly that distance south towards Chehalis. The people of the latter town will connect up with it from that city this season. The party was taken over this fine driveway, which is 20 feet wide, well graded, indeed, it is the equal of any of our Portland streets.

Then a visit was not to the spirit was the constraint of the spirit of t executive this year for a similar demonstration tour over the Sunset Highway, but the Governor was unable to go to Eastern Washington.

Then a visit was paid to Chehalis, taking in the various sections of the city and stopping at the St. Helens Hotel for light refreshments.

The party then split up and in ones and twos made a tour of the fine business places, getting acquainted with the proprietors, renewing acquaintances the proprietors, the proprietors, the proprietors, the proprietors, the proprietors, the proprietors, the proprietors and talking shop generally.

At 8 o'clock the party left for Portland, only sorry that their stay had been so short; but with hearts full of kindliness for the good people of Central Proprietors, and Mrs. and Mrs. E. E. Beard, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Moore.

WAGE LAW SESSION CALLED

Washington Commission to Consider Pay for Waltresses.

OLYMPIA, Wash. April 24.—(Special.)—Labor Commissioner Olson has issued a call for a meeting of the Industrial Welfare Commission May 1, Brewer is a firm believer in the adage, at which time formal action will be taken, either accepting or rejecting the $11 wage recommended for waitresses and $9 for other women hotel and restaurant help.

While the $11 wage is the highest recommended in any state no opposi-tion has been met by this proposal. Seattle hotel men have reised strenu-ous objections to the proposal to fix $9 as the minimum wage of chamber-maids, saying it would force them to

At the meeting of the Commission plans will be laid for a joint meeting with the Oregon and California welfare commissions, which probably will be held at Portland in June to arrange uniform action, if possible, itoward establishing minimum wage rates for women employes of fruit canneries.

PASS OPINION IS HAMPER Idaho Railways May Give County

Officials No Free Fares.

LEWISTON, Idaho, April 24 .- (Special.)-The opinion of the Attorney-General of the state, who held that a railroad could not discriminate, and in the event it issues or seeks to issue passes to one or several state or county officials, must issue them to all who apply, probably will result in state and county officials doing without passes during the next two years, because the railroads are not inclined to be bound by any such ruling. This is indicated in a letter received by the Commission from George T. Reid, assistant to the president of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, The Commission has heard nothing definite from the Oregon Short Line, the main common carrier in this state. The issue is one of considerable importance to Sheriffs and their deputies and to many state officials.
