

The wedding will be one of the most notable events in San Francisco society, as the Miller family are very prominent in the southland. Miss Miller recently visited at the Ralph Hoyt residence here as the guest of Miss Kathryn, and following the wedding trip, Mr. Langton and his bride will come to Portland to make their home.

Miss Isabel Clark has as her house guests during the Rose Festival gaieties, Miss Mary Louise Wakefield, of Spokane, and Miss Mary White of Wallace, Idaho. Miss Clark will accompany Miss Wakefield to Spokane for a brief visit.

Opening a week that was brimful of gaieties, Monday evening, Miss Alberta Bair was a dinner hostess in honor of Miss Ruth Shull and William Norman Burgard, whose wedding will be an event of tomorrow evening at Trinity church. It was a charming affair, although small and most informal, and served as a prelude to the dance given later in the evening at the Waverley Country club by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Robert Porter in honor of Mrs. Porter's sister, Miss Isabel Clark, and her fiancé, Van Rensselaer Sternbergh, who will wed Wednesday at Westminster church. The guests at the dance numbered about 125 of the younger set, and it was a delightful event in every particular.

Monday afternoon Miss Shull and Miss Porter shared honors with Miss Mary Westaway at the pretty tea given by Miss Sara Patrick, when the engagement of Miss Westaway was announced. Mrs. Westaway's sister, Isabel, entertained a dozen of the closest friends of the two brides at an attractive luncheon, and Wednesday evening Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. Isabel Clark entertained a dozen of the closest friends of the two brides at a similar affair. Mr. Burgard was host for a similar affair for the younger set, and his friends at the University club; Miss Dorothy Strowbridge entertained Thursday evening with a dinner of 20 covers in honor of Miss Shull and Mr. Burgard followed by a dance to which she asked 100 additional guests, both affairs being given at the Benson hotel. Thursday afternoon Miss Porter and Miss Shull divided honors at the lovely bridge-tee for which Mrs. C. Lewis Mead was hostess at her home in Irvington.

Miss Shull was the honor guest for the luncheon presided over by Mrs. Grenville Vernon, her sister, and Mrs. Margaret Raeder, who presided at her home; Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dickey were hosts for a dinner and a complimentary dance. Miss Shull and Mr. Burgard, and last night James Brady was a dinner host in their honor at the Waverley Country club.

Mrs. William Kaiser was a luncheon hostess yesterday at her home in the Trinity Place apartments in honor of Miss Porter. In the afternoon Miss Margaret Raeder entertained with a charming tea for Miss Porter, and in the evening Mrs. Westaway presided at a number of the younger set at a dinner at the Waverley Country club's dinner-dance.

A charming event of mid-week was the dinner party presided over by Mrs. Grenville Vernon, her sister, and Mrs. Margaret Raeder, who presided at her home; Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dickey were hosts for a dinner and a complimentary dance. Miss Shull and Mr. Burgard, and last night James Brady was a dinner host in their honor at the Waverley Country club.

Mrs. Harrison Corbett has returned from an extended visit with relatives in New York and Chicago. She went east to attend the wedding of her sister, Mrs. Marjorie Pierson, to Wilson Wing of Providence, R. I. Mrs. Corbett was delightfully entertained by a number of old friends and relatives in New York, Brooklyn, Long Island and Chicago.

Ruth St. Denis, exponent of interpretative dancing and known from coast to coast in the theatrical world as a premier danseuse, was the guest of honor for the tea for which Mrs. H. C. Wortman was hostess on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Wortman. Mrs. Wortman had planned an al fresco party, a rose garden tea, the Wortman gardens being especially admired for their beautiful flowering shrubs, roses and riot of fragrant flowers.

Due to the weather the tea was held indoors, the drawing room being converted into a garden with wonderful flowers. The hostess was assisted by Miss Katharine Laidlaw, who studied with Ruth St. Denis at the Denishawn school of dancing in Los Angeles; Mrs. Jane Burns Albert, Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller, Miss Louise Caswell, Mrs. Charles Edwin Sears and Miss Mary Louise Feldenheimer.

The artistically appointed tea and punch tables were presided over by Mrs. George Wilber Reed, Mrs. Maurice W. Seltz, Mrs. Reginald Mann, of London, England, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Reed, and Mrs. Henry Allan Russell (Helen Wortman).

About 100 of Portland's most prominent younger matrons and maids were asked to share in the gaieties of Miss Sara Patrick's tea, given at the Benson hotel, given in honor of Miss Margaret Porter and Miss Ruth Shull, at the Andrew R. Porter residence, and the assemblage was charmingly surprised when the news of the engagement of Miss Mary Catherine Westaway to Dr. Ray W. Shannon, a prominent young physician of Minneapolis, was made known. Cards were presented each guest as she arrived by little Elizabeth Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy R. Porter.

The drawing room of the Porter residence was aglow with attractively arranged baskets and clusters of garden flowers, in the pastel tones, and the tea table, dainty and exquisite in appointment and decoration, was presided over by Mrs. Leroy Fields, Mrs. Guy R. Porter, Mrs. James Ambrose, and Miss Harriet Kern. They were assisted in serving by Mrs. Adolph Neu, Misses Margaret and Albert Bair, Margaret Raeder, and Mrs. W. K. Keir.

Miss Westaway is a charming young maid, a daughter of Mrs. Catherine Westaway, and a musician, who formerly made her home with her family at Duluth, and she was graduated from the Conservatory of Music at Duluth. While in this city Miss Westaway has been studying with Mrs. Pauline Miller Chapman. She is popular in the younger set, and she will be extensively entertained with pre-nuptial events.

Dr. Shannon is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Ray W. Shannon of Minneapolis, and he was graduated from the University of Minnesota. The family is not only prominent in the city's affairs, but also socially in Minneapolis, where Dr. Shannon will take his bride to make their future home.

The wedding is scheduled for July 2, and it will be solemnized at the home of the bride-elect's sister, in Butte, Mont.

Each day last week was replete with gaieties at the Waverley Country club, the prime reason being the Oregon state championship golf tournament, in which many prominent out-of-town golfers participated. It was a gala event, attracting large numbers of prominent Portlanders and their house guests, who were in the city to attend the Rose Festival. There were luncheons, teas, dinner and dancing parties almost every day at the club, one of the most elaborate and largest being the tea Friday afternoon, over which Mrs. Graham Glass, wife of the president of the club, presided. She was assisted by a number of prominent matrons and maids during the hours of 4 to 6 o'clock. Presiding at the tables were Mrs. Glass, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, Mrs. Ralph E. Williams and Mrs. William D. Wheelwright. Assisting in the prettily decked drawing room were John S. Napier, Mrs. Chester Griffin Murphy, Mrs. Joseph E. Wiley, Mrs. Guy Menefee Standifer, Miss Helen Honeyman and Miss Elizabeth Huber.

Last night closed the brilliant week socially, with a merry dinner and dance. Several of the brides-elect and their fiancés were entertained at dinner parties, and the evening was charming and delightful in every particular.

Mr. and Mrs. Reade R. Ireland, the former's brother-in-law and sister, Colonel and Mrs. J. Jungmann of Des Moines, Ia., after which they will visit in other eastern cities, including Detroit, New York and Washington. They will return to Portland about the first of July. Mr. Ireland, who was Captain Ireland, and stationed at the Presidio, recently received his release.

Mrs. Ethelwynne C. Lewis and little daughter, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. William MacMaster for several weeks, left last week for Victoria, B. C., from whence they will sail to China to visit Mrs. Lewis' sister, Mrs. Walter Southcott.

Mrs. Walter A. Bethel and three children will leave today for the east to join General Bethel, who has been in service overseas. Mrs. Bethel will leave her children at Camp Farwell, Vt., for the balance of the summer, and then she will go to her home in Chevy Chase, Md., to await the return of her husband, who is en route to the United States.

Mrs. Bethel is a charming young matron, who has been spending several months in Portland with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Strong, while her husband has been abroad. She has been entertained extensively by her old friends and relatives in Portland during her sojourn here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Ruggles Corbett are in the east to visit friends and relatives for several weeks. Mr. Corbett will attend the reunion and commencement exercises at Harvard while in the east, an event that is attracting a great many Portlanders and western men to the metropolis. Yale, Princeton and Harvard reunions are responsible for the New England state's large summer general Portland and other western representatives this summer, the largest assemblage of college men since the beginning of the war.

Mrs. John Albert Marshall of Claremont court, Oakland, Cal., is in Portland with her sister, Mrs. C. D. Brown. Mrs. Marshall has been ill for some time and was accompanied to this city by a nurse.

Mrs. Thomas Martin Fitzpatrick of Boston, who is visiting here for the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Barron, entertained with an informal tea in honor of Miss Edna Minsinger Thursday, the guests including a number of prominent matrons and maids, close friends of the bride-elect.

An event in which the sub-debutante set is greatly interested is the dance to be given Wednesday evening at the Portland Heights club house by the Misses Dorothy Webster Corbett, Mary Gill and Catherine Macey. The guest list includes about 60 of the high school set.

A little son arrived at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Heller Ehrman (Minnie Fieschner) Sunday afternoon. This is their second child, the first baby being a charming little boy, Mrs. Ehrman is a daughter of I. N. Fieschner, and she is one of the most popular matrons in society.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Norman formerly of this city, now of Wilmington, Del., are house guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, 634 East fifty-ninth street and Mrs. Edgar E. Courson, and Rev. Levi Johnson of the First Presbyterian church officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The wedding was attended by about 200 relatives and friends of the couple. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Rose Courson, bride aunt of the bride, sang a bridal hymn, with Mr. Courson at the piano, and the wedding march was played by Miss Doris Clarke.

The entire color scheme of the wedding was the rainbow tones, the floral decorations and gowns of the attendants being carried out in the pastel colors. Mrs. Harold Reed of Los Angeles was matron of honor, and the sister of the bridegroom, Miss Philomene Barnes, was maid of honor. Ben Lindsey of Spokane was best man.

The bride, who is an attractive young woman, was adorned in her shimmering robe of white satin, draped with elaborately embroidered white Georgette crepe. The bodice of the gown was of silk net over cloth of silver, and tiny wisps of silver net, embroidered with silver and elaborated with pearls.

formed sleeves. An unique arrangement of the train was noted—the broad sash of satin forming the train. Her tulle veil was arranged in a mob cap, banded with pearls and clusters of tiny French flowers. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pastel-toned flowers, with showers of broad satin ribbon and Cecil Brunner rosebuds.

Mrs. Reed's gown was of heavily headed white satin, draped with apple blossom pink Georgette crepe. Miss Barnes wore a lovely gown of pink taffeta, ruffled, and both attendants carried old-fashioned bouquets. An aisle was formed for the bridal party from the staircase to the improvised altar in the drawing room, and there were held by the Misses Genevieve Butterfield, Miss Noonan and Dorothy Worcester.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and the parents of the bride, and father of the bridegroom, E. L. Barnes, received with the bridal party. Mrs. Courson's gown was a lovely creation of crushed strawberry satin, elaborately crocaded in silver and gold, with silver verdelape. She wore also a corsage of mauve orchids.

A buffet supper was served during the reception, the coffee urns being presided over by Mrs. Richard Rae of Prineville. Mrs. Norris Gregg and Mrs. Benjamin Gadsby. Assisting about the dining room was Mrs. George Ralph Knight, Mrs. Nealgie Sealy, Mrs. George

ing of dances with the famous Ruth St. Denis, who appeared last week at Pantages theater. About $1200 was realized from this source, the Portland Elks doing the campaigning for the Salvation Army drive. Julius L. Berg was in charge of the Elks at the head of the campaign, and he introduced Judge Arthur Dayton, who was the auctioneer. The ball was attended by a number of notables, among whom Rear-Admiral Fullam of the flagship Minneapolis, and several of his aides, Colonel Creed Hammond, Colonel and Mrs. Collins, Senator Mulkey, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lynch, Mrs. M. E. Mullen, Lieutenant C. L. Mullen, Captain Irving I. Niles were on the reception committee.

Miss Stella Frohman entertained a group of friends at her cottage at Gearhart last week, the party including Frederick and Lans Hart, the former recently returned from overseas, and a noted composer and musician, Hans Frohman, Marian Howe of Carlton, Katherine Holbrook, Richard Jones of Milwaukee, Wis., formerly of this city, and the chaplains, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand C. Smith. They were joined over the week-end by Ernest and Frederick Swigert and Miss Mary Bacon.

Miss Geraldine Courson became the bride of Maurice H. Barnes Wednesday evening at a home wedding. The ceremony was read at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Courson, and Rev. Levi Johnson of the First Presbyterian church officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The wedding was attended by about 200 relatives and friends of the couple. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Rose Courson, bride aunt of the bride, sang a bridal hymn, with Mr. Courson at the piano, and the wedding march was played by Miss Doris Clarke.

A charming event of the latter part of the week was the bride-tee for which Mrs. C. Lewis Mead was hostess Thursday, complimenting three attractive brides-elect—Misses Ruth Shull, Mrs. Westaway and Margaret Porter. The party was given at the handsome residence of the Meads in Irvington, and tables were arranged for 16 young maids for bridge. At tea time, about 50 additional guests called. The pretty drawing room was adorned with baskets of pink peonies and roses, and the tea table was presided over by Mrs. John Shull, Mrs. John H. Burgard and Mrs. Andrew Porter.

One of the gayest and most delightful features of the Rose Festival programme was the Devil Dog club of Oregon's ball Thursday night at the Multnomah hotel. Fully 3000 persons attended, the ballroom, assembly hall, tea gardens and lobby of the hotel being filled with merry-makers. The event was given in honor of the returning service men from overseas, and proved a fitting tribute in every detail. President of the club Harry Grayson arranged a number of delightful specialties, among which was the auction
