

CALDWELL TO RUN FOR SEATTLE MAYOR

Ex-Corporation Counsel Soon to Announce Candidacy.

MYSTERY NOW IS GONE

Mayor C. B. Fitzgerald Postpones Starting of Active Political Campaign for Office.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—Hugh M. Caldwell, former corporation counsel, who took out a blank declaration of candidacy when the season for filing for municipal offices opened Friday morning, plans to announce his candidacy for mayor Monday.

When it became known about the city hall yesterday that Caldwell had a blank in his possession, the politicians thought he would file for the mayoralty, but there was enough of the element of uncertainty about the procedure to make some of the city hall habitués figure that Caldwell intended to keep the blank as a souvenir or bestow it upon some councilmanic aspirant.

But Caldwell set all rumors at rest last night when he said he would file within a day or two, and he made it more definite and certain this morning that he would go through the formality Monday, when he would accompany his filing with a statement of his plans.

Gossipers Have Hard Luck.
That leaves city political followers without a mystery right at hand to gossip about, for there were no new filings this morning and there were no rumors of prospective candidates. The "triple alliance" possibilities have been pretty well threshed out as matters of gossip, the politicians figuring that the organization will have a conciliatory ticket that will include O. T. Erickson and W. D. Lane, who have not yet announced, and two as candidates for re-election, and that the question of mayoralty and corporation counsel nominees still is in the air.

An uncertainty about the candidacies of James E. Bradford, former corporation counsel, and Austin E. Griffiths, one-time councilman and police chief, still exists, with the former regarded as an eligible for the triple alliance endorsement if that organization puts a full ticket in the field.

Fitzgerald Campaign Wags.

In the meantime Mayor C. B. Fitzgerald, who is the only candidate for chief executive who has really qualified for the race, has no intention of starting his active campaigning for the present. The mayor proposes to clean accumulated work on his desk and leave the preliminaries for his friends. He may not attempt an active fight before the filings are closed January 17, for that would leave a month's time for active work. However, if any rival starts work, the mayor intimated this morning that he would be ready to meet him much sooner. Fitzgerald has been in close touch with city affairs through councilmanic and executive duties, and does not require notice that a campaign is on to enable him to meet any issue that comes up.

The city hall closed this afternoon, as did all other public buildings, out of respect to the memory of former Governor Miles C. Moore, who died this week in Walla Walla and whose funeral was held today. The closing of the city hall shut off the opportunity of candidates to qualify, but inasmuch as there were no advance inquiries made at the city clerk's office, it is not believed in official circles that any new aspirants were shut out until Monday.

As it stands, the first two days of filing have produced an actual and one prospective candidate for mayor, an aspirant for corporation counsel and six possibilities for councilmen.

LABOR ATTACKS CHURCH

Spokane Leader Declares Brotherhood of Man Not Reached.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—William J. Coates, organized labor leader of Spokane, today sharply criticized ministers and churches of this city for their attitude toward Samuel Gompers and union labor. The criticism appears in the Labor World, the official publication of the central labor council.

He declared the attitude toward labor is one of the reasons why so few people attend church services. Brotherhood of man is not being preached in the churches, he asserts.

SEALS RETURN $18,000

Oregon to Continue Sale Until Christmas Eve.

The total returns to date from the Christmas seal sale in Portland are $18,000. Judging from the record of past years, this sum is probably matched outside of the city, although practically no change returns have been made. Oregon's budget is $4,260 and in order to meet this the sale will be continued until Christmas eve. A large number of women, most of whom have already given their services for one or more days, have volunteered to take charge of the booths this week. The sale will continue over Monday and Tuesday in the public schools, only a few of the schools having thus far made even partial returns.

The booth sale Saturday netted $290.29. Mrs. Anna Pettibone of the American War Mothers, made the biggest return from the Fifth-street postoffice. Her total was $60.78.

GAME BIRDS TO BE FED

The Dalles Sportsmen in Drive to Raise Funds.

THE DALLES, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—To provide feed for game birds in this county The Dalles sportsmen today circulated a petition asking for funds from the local merchants and hunters. Every dollar that is raised here will be matched by the state and local persons predict that a large amount will be raised to purchase wheat for the game birds, particularly China pheasants and quail.

During the recent snows and cold weather, hundreds of the feathered flock perished from lack of food and shelter. Sportsmen here realize that unless means are taken at once to protect the game, few birds will be left next season.

The CHENEY PHONOGRAPH

Style 5 Georgian

Invented by a Music Master for His Pupils

DETERMINED that the limitations of the phonograph should not prevent his music pupils from learning the details of tone-shading of the masters, Forest Cheney evolved the instrument which today bears his name.

By combining the fundamental principles of the violin and pipe organ, he achieved new heights in the science of tone reproduction.

Tones become rich and full. The serene purity of the reproduction is comparable only to the original production.

That is the story of the invention of the Cheney—its romance is in keeping with the wonderful progress it represents.

Cheney cabinets are made by the master furniture craftsmen of the country. In refinement and beauty they are matched only by the artistry hidden within.
