Plaintiff Sues on Road Work Brilliant Array of Counsel

Fred C. Feldschau, of Tillamook is plaintiff and Clatsop County is the defendant in a case involving the sum of $21,614.86 which the plaintiff alleges the county owes. and grading four miles of road way on the Lewis & Clark river claims he did work which was leaving the bolance due as alleged. Feldschau signed up the contract on Feb. 13, 1917, and worked on the four miles until the county put on a force account because the corporation alleged he had not lived up to the contract to remove at least 500 cubic yards of earth daily. This contention the plaintiff fights be cause, as he alleges, the county would not permit him to work on such portions as he wished, and on which portions he claims be could have moved the 500 cubic yards daily.
