Whiteaker For Congress.

The Dalles Inland Empire.

The renomination of Hon. John Whiteaker for Representative of Oregon in the Federal Congress by the late Democratic State Convention, was something more than the compliment of a grateful party to an honest public servant who had already done the faithful part oi a representative citizen in the responsible position of a Governor and a State Senator. It was more than the selection of a man from the party ranks merely on the ground of availibility. It was a discarding of prece-BOYD & MILLER-Meat Market-beef, veal, dent and the inauguration of a new order of things which threw overboard the geography.

Hitherto, no Congressman nor Unit ted States Senator has ever been twice elected from this State, to serve two consecutive terms; and in our opinion, the State has been the loser by it more than once. Let the East elect ever so competent and able a Representative to Congress, and the very next State Convention weuld supplant him with a man from the Willamette or Umpqua. Sectional interests were made paramount to ability, experience and all those weightier considerations by which intelligent parties should hope to preserve their integrity, and intelligent party leaders aim to maintain their as- ics $4 50, and work rain or shine.

What Did Paul Say.

Many years ago there lived in Virginia a Baptist preacher named Bthough uneducated, he was a sound thinker and eloquent speaker, and no minister had a more devoted flock.

It was the custom during the inclement season, to hold meeting at the residence of the members and once or twice during the winter, at the house of a preacher.

For years it was observed that Bneither preached nor conducted the meeting when held at his house, but secured the services of a neighboring

The Gazette learns that R. D. Hume intends to remove his salmon cannery from Siuslaw to Alsea bay.

"When I was younger than I am now—in fact not long after the commencement of my ministration—I held a meeting at my own house. It being customary for many of the congregation to remain to dinner, Mrs. , sent my boy, Tim, to our neighbor Paul's for some butter. Tim returned, and located himself standing on the outskirts of the congregation. Being well warmed up in my sermon, thinking neither of Tim or his errand, but only of the most successful mode of pressing home my strongest arguments, I demanded with all the energy

Tim, at the top of his little squeak-ing voice exclaimed, as only Tim could have done:
