SOUTHERN VIEW OF THE INACUTEAL.—The New Original Delic, in commenting upon President Lincoln's Inaugural, says:

The only point on which we can have any discussion, any issue with Mr. Lincoln's fior. The singular fact is new stated, this however the two nationalities which divide between them the State composing the former Union. Mr. Lincoln's fior. But a considerable number of this class have returned to Louisiana disgusted with the Black and dispelled our doubts at the same moment. A Prepare Squaw.—The San Francisco correspondent of the New York Times vouches the following incident, which occurred at Fort Yuma, Arisona. An officer had procured twenty dollars' worth of postage stamps, and left them in his camp, to which the Indians have free and cosy access.

On this occasion, a young squaw, who had the run of the quarters, and was very much at home anywhere and everywhere, happened to stray into my friend's room, and seeing the postage stamps began to examine them with postage stamps began to examine them with great curiosity. She discovered they would stick, if wet, and for with a happy idea struck er. Now the fashionalie dress of the ladi s of est description. She was ambitious to dress up and excite the envy of the other Poculou ames. So she went into the postal currency mode her appearance presently on the parade ground entirely covered over with postage nin Franklin and the Father of his Country plastered all over her ladyship's glossy skin in discriminately, regardless of dignety and de discriminately, regardless of dignety and de-cency. The "roar" that greeted her from the commanding officer down to the drummer-boys, was loud enough to be heard nearly at bendquarters in Sun Francisco; but, Indian-like, she preserved her equanimity, and did-not seem at all disconcerted, but sailed off-with the step and air of a genuine Princess, while my friend rushed into his quarters to discover himself minus his twenty dollars. while my friend rushed into his quarters to discover himself minus his twenty deliars' worth of postage stamps, and that what was intended for the mail had been appropriated to the fe-male. She might have been put in the overland coach and gone through—she certainly could not have been stepped for want of being prepaid.

A CHINKS WILARD - A correspondent of the London Times gives the following ne-count of the casts of a juggler in the streets of Pekin: He first of all speke for about five m'au'es

In the middle of his barangue, lowever, he was seized with a fit of choking, and after an effort of trying to get something out of his throat drew forth a little slip of bamboo, like a Lisbon toothpick. then another and another, then he succeed, and out they came from his nostrils, then from his ryes, until he completed the number of thirty-seven, by making one appear half way out of awallowed first a red one, then a blue, and just of all a white one; here was a little interfude of toothpicks and talking, after which he walked gravely round the ring, stopping four tine; each time he gave himself a shake and a jump, when the balls were distinctly heard to a jump, when the balls were distinctly heard to jugle inside him. On completing his round, after several efforts he spat the balls out on the ground in the same order he had awallowed them—the red first, the white last. He then took two more balls, one of polished steel about the size of a hen's egg, and another of glass of the same size. These he first let fall on the ground it size of the same size. real, and passed both down his throat at once until they struck the balls with an audible elick; withdrawing these he placed his hands behind him, and, after several apparently pain ful tria's, each ball rose in the throat, and fell from his mouth to the ground with a heavy

Aran. Foot. - About the eddest "sell" of Aram. Foot.—About the eddast "sell" of the senson took place in this city on Monday morning last. A young man, having formed as unconquestable attachment for a bundle of calleo, hoops and other "fixings" in the shape of a "teminine," and having obtained her consent to a union in the holy bonds of matrimony, treated his fair mamorate to a buggy-ride on Sunday afternoon, after which a nomber of series will be the party of the country, and guests were invited and a supply of cakes wine "and lager" procured at his expense, preparatory to an immediate solemnization of the number of the New York Tomes and the linear later than the advantages of the New York Tomes and the linear later than the later than the linear later than the later paratory to an immediate solemnization of the nuptials. In due time the guests arrived and the "good things" began rapidly to disappear while "all went merry as a dinner bell;" but "nary" word was uttered about the ceremony until after midnight, when the lady complained of being too much fatguard to marry that night, and proposed a postponement until net moraling at ten o'clock. The young man being compelled to make a virtue of secessity of course, gave a re us ant consent. The guests then separated, but early the following morning our hero repaired, "on the wing of love," to the house of his in a acti tride, when lot the blird had flown. On inquiry, he learned, to his infinite mortification, that she had left on the stage for Jacksonville, where she contemplated "annexing" herself to some man who had just struck a rich quartz lead—Yreka Journal, April 6.

A correspondent of the New York Tomes says Mrs. Lincoln has a beautiful hand and foot and ear, showing that she is of a "well-born" family. If a beautiful hand and foot are requisite for proving good blood, the ro all family of England connot be said to possess the art'el. The Queen has a foot like a brick, and the Prince of Wales has very large and not well shaped hands and feet. As for the feet they are huge and flat. How will this fact answer as a test of blood?

Johnson, is a Jackson Democrat of the Old School, and is destinguished at home for a lifeling service in his party's cause. He was beaten for the lower House (in the next Congress, by Mr. Gantt, now a Secession'st, and the Erislature not being that way inclined made him a S nator instead.

W. Braun Lawrence, of New York, recently walked up to Schator Seward, who was conversing with Mr. Lincoln at his parlor door, and addressing him, said: "Sir, we of ong number of years he was under a strict on one of the country. Yes, Mr. Lawrence," replied them addressed to him had been open of for years. This may account for some to the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt which he expressed for the limit of the contempt of the content of the States, he will find that it is far easier to make a flying trip to Washington than to collect tribute in Southern herbors, or to capture Southern forts. Indeed, his issugural, under the circumstances attending its delivery, considering it as the definitive utterance of a preconcerted policy, as the expression of Northern sentiment towards the South, may be considered a declaration of war, and might be justly as regarded by the Conteclerate States. Whether those States will wait for evert acts of correction, or whether they will core der war to exist already, and take the initiative of hostilities, is a question to be solved as their own interests, their honor, and their dignity may dictate.

The Cavet of Hant Clay.—The beautiful marble sarcophagus intended for the remains of Henry Clay, which was designed by Mr. Frederick Graeff, and executed in Philadelphia, is now receiving the finishing touches and will be sent te Lexington, Ky., in a few days. The material used, which is pure white marble, is from a quarry in Montgomery county. On the raised lid, encircled in a lagred-wreath, is the name "Henry Clay," in rel-wreath, is the name "Henry Clay," in black marble letters; on the end in front of the base, the following: "Presented by Wil iam Struthers, marble mason. Philadelphia. The inscriptions on the side of the base are from Clay's speeches. One, "I had rather be right than President. Truth is mighty, and public justice certain." Again, "I can, with unshaken confidence, appeal to the Divine Arbiter for the truth of the declaration, that I have been influenced by no impure purpose, aggrandizement, but in all my public vets I have bud a sole and single eye, and a warm, devoted heart, directed and dedicated to what, in my best judgment, I believed to be the trainterests of my country."
