

Free From Blizzards.

Probably no other recommendation of our beautiful Willamette Valley carries such weight and conviction, as does the fact that we are free from the terrible storms that prevail east of the Rockies.

Last week one of these fearful blizzards blockaded all travel on the roads between the Mississippi and the mountains and even in many localities east of the Mississippi.

From Chicago, January the 8th came the following report:

The blizzard ranging in Kansas, Nebraska, Dakota and Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois is declared to be the wisest extent and more fierce in character than has been known before for years.

The temperature throughout Dakota is stated to be from twenty to forty degrees below, with a wild blizzard blowing. A telegram from Fargo says its thermometer registered twenty-seven degrees below at noon.

From Denver of the same date comes the following:

The blizzard in eastern Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska, which subsided Wednesday and allowed the snow blockade to be raised, was renewed Wednesday night with great vigor, demolishing telegraph wires for miles and refilling cuts on the Santa Fe, the Burlington and the Union and Kansas Pacific roads with snow and to such an extent that all travel was compelled to suspend.

The blizzard in eastern Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska, which subsided Wednesday and allowed the snow blockade to be raised, was renewed Wednesday night with great vigor, demolishing telegraph wires for miles and refilling cuts on the Santa Fe, the Burlington and the Union and Kansas Pacific roads with snow and to such an extent that all travel was compelled to suspend.

Very little snow has fallen during the storm. Immense numbers of cattle have been driven from the North, by the wind drifting the snow, towards the Arkansas river, where they will have to stop, as the river is not frozen so they can cross. No great loss is expected, unless the cold continues two or three weeks, as plenty of grass is uncovered to keep them alive. To day it has been warm, the snow is melting and the storm, it is thought, has subsided.

Gov. Moody inaugurated an excellent work last week, by granting a pardon to the boy Joel Hubbard, of Union county, who had been convicted of horse stealing, though only 13 years of age and sent to the penitentiary. The Governor investigated the case and found the boy was comparatively innocent, and instead of allowing him to be brought under the influence of the state prison associations, which would undoubtedly have confirmed him in a future course of crime, he pardoned him and placed him in the custody of the boy's and girl's aid society of Portland, where he will be brought under proper instruction and have at least opportunity offered him of becoming an honored and useful citizen.

A step in the right direction has been taken in this case and it is to be hoped that it will be followed up by future like action in similar cases.

The Proller murder case for which Maxwell is on trial in St. Louis is attracting a great deal of attention. The detectives have followed up Maxwell's tracks clear round the globe to obtain evidence against him and are making out a pretty strong case. One witness is a girl of the demi monde stripe, to whom Maxwell made admissions of his guilt in San Francisco, and who will be brought all the way from Hong Kong, China. The Proller family are said to be poor, but a brother and two sisters of the murdered man will come from England to attend the trial.

When will men recognize that there are subjects concerning which they have no right to an opinion, nor to express themselves, because they have not within them the elements to make a conclusion which they know is true!
