The East Oregonian.

SATURDAY.....APRIL 7, 1877

Blue glass is to man what blue grass is to horses—so says a Kentuckian.

Hayes has recognized Hampton as Governor of South Carolina, exit Chamberlain.

Put a cayuse pony under "blue glass treatment" and in ten days he will be a percheron horse.

The brig Roanoke was wrecked on the waters of the Atlantic a few days ago, and eleven persons were drowned.

Tweed will soon be out of jail and penniless, as he yields up all his property and money to the city of New York.

John Curtis of Harrisbury, Linn county, died of an apoplectic fit last Monday morning while sitting in his wagon.

There is a fine horse of the masculine gender down in Linn county which the owner calls "Henry Ward Beecher."

C. S. Miller and Wm. Grant are in Portland for the purpose of completing the organization of the Monumental Mining Company.

C. W. Pope, a well known resident of Clackamas county, was drowned last week in the Clackamas river while out on a hunting expedition. His body was recovered.

A special dispatch to the N. Y. Tribune says Tilden is soon to bring an action for the recovery of the presidential office. The sender of that dispatch must be a member of the Damphool family.

Mrs. Mary E. Baker of Camas valley, Douglas county, indicted in Judge Deady's court for the manufacture and altering of counterfeit coin, is now in the Portland jail awaiting trial.

Hayes' policy undoubtedly is to recognize Hampton as Governor of South Carolina and Packard as Governor of Louisiana, thus carrying water on both shoulders; he will be sure to spill some of it.

A boy aged 13 years struck another boy aged 12, in East Portland, with a sharp axe, making a fearful gash in the abdomen, through which the bowels protruded. That boy ought to be confined in a house of correction until he is 21 years of age.

CRUELTY TO MAN.—If this isn't cruelty to man then we are no judge: "Thank goodness! O. C. Applegate has lost the manuscript of a poem entitled 'Legend of Chemeketa,' on the road between Ashland and Jacksonville. Finders, keepers."

Hayes has appointed a "commission" to interview Louisiana and investigate the bottom facts as to the Governorship. Isn't this a scheme to justify that returning board upon whose count Hays is President? However, he is fond of "High Joint Commissions," as he has occasion to be—for one of them counted him in as President once! Undoubtedly this Commission will report favorably to Packer, and then comes the whitewash.

Yamima Indians, Ponies, Etc.

There are a great many ponies belonging to the Indians of the Yakima reservation now running on the range between Umatilla and Willow creek along the Columbia. And the residents of that section complain bitterly of the fact. These ponies eat out the grass on this range and greatly injure the cattle owners of Butter creek and Willow creek. Besides there are a number of worthless stallions among them, which get with the American mares running on that range, and beget a lot of good-for-nothing half-breed colts. The citizens of that portion of Umatilla county feel that something ought to be done to prevent these ponies from being brought on this range. We call attention to the wrong complained of, and hope the proper authorities may take steps to prevent it. The Yakima Indians, at least, have no rights of pasturage on the Oregon side of the Columbia, whatever the Umatilla Indians may have, and the most of the injury complained of is done by the Yakima Indians. It is believed that no less than two thousand ponies belonging to the Yakima's are now on the range above mentioned.

Local Newspapers.

HEPPNER, MARCH 26, 1877.

TO THE EAST OREGONIAN—The opportunity we all have of informing each other of the events transpiring in our respective localities through the medium of the newspaper is far too little appreciated by people generally. Many regard the three cents postage paid for sending a letter to the local paper a dead loss as they also do the years subscription for the paper. Taking it for granted that we are a heathen nation subject to no general authority and governed by no general laws, dependent only on the accumulation of our own hands and compelled to pay for nothing except that which tends to gratify our own selfish animal natures; then we may accept this as a fact and say no more about it. But while we remain an intelligent people controlled by a mutual system of Government with advancement for our motto and education for our motive power we can never accept such nonsense. We are a free people and the perpetuity of our freedom depends solely on the education of each succeeding generation; this is a fact which every one accepts, then let me ask, is there a medium through which general intelligence is more forcibly carried than through the newspaper. Surely not; but some will argue that newspapers are getting too numerous and to support all of them would require all of one's income, this may be true but you are not required to take all of them. Every country paper has its locality and its mission principally is to labor for its respective town or county, and it reasonably expects the support of its immediate vicinity. City papers are published for the benefit of the world at large; those I mean that are published on an extended scale. Now I would suggest that every farmer or stock raiser in Eastern Oregon save enough out of his years expenses, such as he pays for tobacco, whisky, etc., to take three papers ammounting in the aggregate to about $10; he should take one for the county he lives in, one for his State, and one for the United States. Bringing my remarks nearer home I wish to say that in a private conversation with Mr. Darling, agent for the EAST OREGONIAN, I was informed that he had poorer success getting subscribers for his paper in this end of the county and especially on Willow creek than he had in any other part of the county; having traveled several miles and only succeeded in getting two subscribers. The general response, says Mr. D., is "ain't your paper too high?" It must be remembered that it is no easy task to come into a new place and start a newspaper. You say, why? you can get the New York Sun or Tribune nearly ten times larger than the EAST OREGONIAN for a dollar a year. Recollect that the New York Sun or Tribune has been established a good many years and has an enormous circulation, and it is by this very means that we in the course of time can get our local paper for a good deal less than four dollars a year. What is the difference if you dont exactly agree with the editor in every particular opinion he may happen to express. Subscribe for the local paper and lets show the webfoot country that Eastern Oregon is a part of the State and as such, she is able to hold her own in point of intelligence and enterprise.

CORRESPONDENT.

Our Willamette Letter.

COTTAGE GROVE, OREGON, March 13, 1877.

EDITOR EAST OREGONIAN—After a slight dampness of about two weeks we are having nice warm weather; vegetables growing very rapidly, the fields are fast becoming green with the growing grain, and the hills and valleys with grass. The health of this part of the country is very good as far as we know. Some of the farmers are disposed to growl as they are not quite through sowing grain yet; they rested about two weeks from their labors in consequence of the late dampness. We have every indication of Spring now in earnest. Improvements will soon take a new start.

We have a preacher here delivering lectures on the prophetic teachings of the bible. Some call them Adventists; he seems to be making it warm for some of our preachers. They say the will not run for his road if it is the shortest; they dont propose to let Mr. lecturer get away with their sheep, and not even the goats; no, not even the "William" goats. They say they will go for him next Sunday if the Lord is willing they should, which they know he is. Rev. T. Tharp is taking great interest in the lectures.

There is a lady here who has come to the conclusion she has been a woman long enough, and a few days since she took a solemn vow that she would be a man the remainder of her days; how is that for Woman's Rights.

Please tell my friend John Arnold of Grand Ronde that Tilden is not President, but Hayes is; and if he dont like it to say so.

Peach trees have been in bloom for a week.

Plowing goes steadily on, and the farmers are looking ahead for better times.

The grouse say it is Spring. So says the lambs.

I see from your paper that you have a Wool Growers society or club; it would be better if the farmers would look after their own interest in all other branches of industry immediately concerning their interests, for the farm is the helm and pilot of all branches of industry and all trade; it controls a wonderful brake which can stop all machinery. The farming class can wield more influence than any other branch of industry now in existence; all that is lacking is a will to look after their own interest.

The digger squirrels are bulsily engaged in building their Summer quarters.

All of the folks are gone visiting to-day and we are alone, and there is a certain rooster that has caused us to get up and chase him off from the porch, and if he dont soon take a hint we will consider that we are a committee to report the said rooster yery fat. It is not necessary to say how we will ascertain the condition of that chicken.

Dr. McAlister has just returned home; he has been exploring the country south of this place for the last three months.

Lurch Bros. will soon erect a new dwelling house in Slabtown, as they are now both married, and if two families reside in one house it ought, of right, be a very large one, and every room exactly alike and all front to the same points of compass so there will be no choice. Then peace and harmony may prevail—and it will if the two families consider themselves about five miles apart.

Strawberries are not quite ripe yet; there will be a fine crop of that article unless Jack frost gives them a nip.

From the Capital.

SALEM, March 30, 1877.

EDITOR E. O.—If not mistaken, in our last we promised a description of Salem "in our next;" and as our weakness is in doing as we agree, we herewith give our readers a

DESCRIPTION OF SALEM.

Salem is the capital city of the State and is beautifully located, viz: on the east bank of the Willamette river on a magnificent prairie, on a plain that commands a distant view of the surrounding country and especially the snow clad portions of the Cascades. Situated on the O. & C. R. R., 50 miles south and 14 miles west of Portland and 50 miles on an air line from the ocean.

The State capital is now nearly finished and will cost $500,000. Marion county court house cost $110,000. The State penitentiary is located here; is a large, commodious structure built of iron and brick—cost $15,000. A female academy, under direction of the Catholic Church, cost $60,000. There are five common school buildings, built of wood in which are maintained, by tax, free schools the entire year. One merchant flouring mill, run by water, with a capacity of grinding 800 barrels of flour in 24 hours, one custom flouring mill run by steam, one large lumber mill with a capacity of making 25,000 feet of lumber per day, one linseed oil mill, (capacity, 125,000 gallons annually), one furniture factory and one chair factory, two sash and door factories, one foundry and two machine shops, one plow factory, two wagon shops. The city has the best water power in the State; never a flood and never a lack of water. Ten churches, owned by as many denominations, one opera house, one banking house, two grain elevators, the city lighted with gas; there are two daily and three weekly newspapers and one magazine, one semi-monthly amatuer paper, two job printing offices and one special reporter to the EAST OREGONIAN.

CAPITAL NOTES.

The proprietors of the Willamette Farmer suddenly became disgusted with their dingy publication rooms on Commercial street and now may be found occupying a neat and spacious apartment in Gray's block, next door to E. M. Waite's job office.

Chas. Snyder who has been spending the Winter at Pendleton arrived in Salem this week.

The clothing establishment of Murphy & Crossman have changed their quarters from State to Commercial street.

Himes "the" printer of Portland was "doing" Salem some this week.

A large number of emigrants arrived on the last steamer from San Francisco, and a portion of them arrived at the Chemeketa yesterday.

Mrs. Moxley, who has had a millinery store at Salem for a long time has lately moved to Portland.

State fair six months away. Are you going, "C. M. M?"

Chinamen are paying one bit per doz. for chubs, suckers, etc., and "Hoods" claim to be doing a thriving fish business.

The weather has been nice for the past week; the roads are almost dusty and we had a buggy ride; rode with Miss—

R. E. PORTER.

Butter Creek.

MARCH, 26, 1877.

EDITOR E. O.—This vicinity is after the same old sort, "lots of fun on Butter creek." On the 9th inst. Mr. D. C. Curl and Miss Elizabeth Scroggins were "joined in the holy bonds of matrimony" by J. W. Salisbury. The solemization took place at the residence of Salisbury Bros. Some of the young "hoodlums" attempted a chivari by banging on the old log cabin empty oil cans, firing guns, and the like, but causing more trouble to themselves than anyone else. Called it a flash in the pan and dispersed.

James Johnston gave a ball on the 24th ult. Thirty-five numbers were sold at $1 50 each. Mr. John Crawford the well known violinist was employed as musician. Dancing was the order of the evening, of course, and the order was well obeyed. A bountiful supper was partaken about 12 o'clock. A general invitation was extended to all next morning to breakfast.

S. G. Lightfoot, J. M. Hamer and H. A. Salisbury were elected delegates from Butter Creek Grange to the Patrons convention to be held at Pendleton the 2nd Monin April, 1877.

Mr. Stroud had the misfortune to loose a fine work horse a few days ago.

Four inches of snow the 9th of March.

Butter creek high, but no harm done.

The Assessor and deputy Sheriff have been prowling around here of late.

Nice warm rains and growing weather and our items have all gone to grass.

ARTHUR.

George Coggan, who has done much for the improvement of horses in Eastern Oregon, has purchased another fine stallion of the Norman and Clydesdale stock. His weight is 1,700 pounds, is a dapple sorrel, and in every respect presents a magnificent appearance. It is a pity that this great horse is to be kept among the Webfooted people until after the season is over before being brought to Grand Ronde.
