He would Write to their Parents.

Colonel X., of John Morgan's Cavalry, was not a martinet, but bearded like the pard, he had a military air.

An inspection having been ordered, the Brigadier and his staff visited the Colonel's camp for the purpose of conducting it.

The regiment was in line, undergoing inspection, two privates, who had been ranging the night before in search of butter-milk, had endeavored to sneak into camp unobserved, were detected by the outpost sentries and brought under arrest to Colonel X. at the head of his regiment.

The Colonel, cocking his hat on three grains, sternly ordered them to his tent to await his coming after inspection, remarking to General D. that he would make an example of these rascals.

Arriving at the tent with the General and staff, after ranks were broken the Colonel arraigned the culprits before him.

"Young gentlemen," said he, severely, "you are aware that you have been guilty of a serious offense against the discipline of my camp!"

"Yes, Colonel," was the meek reply. "Well, sir," thundered the Rhadamanthus, "I desire you distinctly to understand that if this offense is repeated I will write to your parents about it. Go to your company."

Turning to the surprised officers looking on, he said: "You see how severe I must be with these young fellows. Discipline must be preserved."

THE REAL AND UNEQUAL—Those who get their ideas of French domestic life from serfious French novels will be a little startled to learn that the widow of "Clam," otherwise the Vicomte de Noe, the great caricaturist, has killed herself in a fit of despondency over the loss of her husband.

Probably even in France, the last place where one would look for conjugal tenderness and devotion even to death, would be in the household of that remorseless and unsparring satirist, who had for years been the Nemesis of French vanity, folly and weakness.

But there is no civilized country in the world in which domestic affection is so strong as in France, some in which the ties of marriage and kindred are so potent an influence; and the true life of France is something as different from the boulevard novel as the true life of America is different from the dime novel.

PACIFIC COAST.

California Growing Crops—Tonnage, Etc. SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Early in the week reports from the country were received of a highly unsatisfactory nature.

It was stated that the crops in many sections were blighted by hot winds and heavy losses were anticipated. Reports were, without doubt, exaggerated, and the cool weather of the past few days has done much to revive the plant, even where the effects of the winds was all too visible.

While there has been some slight loss from this cause, the extent of which cannot be accurately obtained at present, there are two points that may be settled: The wheat crop will be large and quality good. No reliable estimates of amount of export are obtained; but it will, beyond doubt, exceed that of any former year.

The tonnage supply is certain to be small for several months to come, the amount on the way being some 20,000 tons below that being here at this time last season, and over 70,000 tons below total in 1878.

The present list shows that little is due here within the next 30 days, and free arrivals cannot be expected ready to depart until the middle of July. It is believed that the fact that many of the ships now reported to be on the way here have yet to arrive at ports under which they are placed in the published list. This fact makes tonnage to arrive in the early harvest months much less than at first appears at the case renders comparison with former years misleading unless the situation is fully understood.

Spot tonnage is less by one-half than at this date last year. The outlook, therefore, even conceding recently current estimates of crops, is not so bright as it would appear to be by means of a gloomy one.

The week under review has been a gloomy one, unfavorable reports checking business in vessels to arrive and causing holders of spot vessels to show more readiness to meet the market.

The latest charters reported are that the ship Hecla, 1529 tons wheat and merchandise, to Liverpool, £214.

Victoria's Hiding Place. SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Victoria's band has gone to Black Range Mountains, near Hillsboro, New Mexico, to recuperate. Squads from his force are scouring the country, stealing horses and committing other depredations. There are no troops in the vicinity.

Los Angeles, June 8.—W. K. Potter, formerly collector of internal revenue in this city, committed suicide by poison yesterday, at Santa Monica.

A Hoodlum Fatally Wounded by a Poison. SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—Last night, Jack Shady, a notorious San Francisco hoodlum, robbed the till of a restaurant in that part of town.

Two officers went to his house and arrested him. His brother Jim, attempted a rescue and knocked down Officer Prosser with a stone. Prosser fired at him, hitting him in the breast and inflicting probably a fatal wound. Jack was also wounded, slightly in the arm.

Interesting Decision. Judge Sawyer, in the U. S. circuit court to-day, released on a writ of habeas corpus a Chinese fisherman, concerning whom the law prohibiting aliens incapable of becoming citizens from fishing in waters of the state. He decided that the law was a violation of the fourteenth amendment and the Burlingame treaty.

Fire at San Francisco. SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—A fire occurred this morning in the cannery establishment of C. James King of William, at the corner of Sansome and Broadway.

The entire second story and roof and a portion of the lower story was burned, the contents of the building escaping, much damaged by water. The loss is probably $25,000. The cause is unknown. About 150 white employes are thrown out of work.
