HER BONES ARE BREAKING.

Miss Sarah Scott of Fall River Is Suffering From a Singular Disease.

Five years ago Miss Sarah Scott of Fall River was budding into a womanhood that promised an exceptional example of feminine beauty. Today she is a bedridden invalid in whom every physician in New England is taking an interest. She is suffering from osteomalacia, a rare disease of the bones. Her parents were both healthy, and they have another daughter who enjoys a beautiful face and a splendid physique. About 18 months ago Miss Scott complained of a peculiar soreness in her left thigh. While about to step on a train and she was carried into a hospital. The manner of the breaking was so simple that the examining physician's curiosity was at once aroused. After some of the most expert men had looked into the details it was decided that amputation was necessary to prolong the girl's life. Her nerves were in a shattered condition, but the amputation was successful. It was noted at the time that the bone was of a very unusual composition, but no such results as have followed were expected.

her thigh bone snapped at the scre spot,

After the wound had been dressed and while she was being turned in a hospital bed the doctors and nurses were astounded by the breaking of a bone in her right thigh almost in the exact spot where amputation had been performed on the other leg.

The fracture was treated immediately, and for eight months the girl remained at the institution under the care of physicians who studied the case anxiously. Then the broken limb healed, and the girl was taken home. Her general health did not improve, and she became a great care to her relatives. One of the surgeons at a Boston hospital, who knew of her case, settled in Fall River some months ago and made a close study of the disease as it developed.

Not many weeks ago, while the girl was resting her foot on the floor trying its strength without the support of crutches, the right thigh bone again snapped about where it was previously broken. That necessitated a total confinement to her bed. A few weeks later she was trying to chew a small piece of meat when her left jawbone broke.

This caused a noticeable swelling, and her pretty features now look distorted. Two weeks ago she was trying to fix a pillow under her head, using her left arm to push it into place. She hadn't reached her hand to the back of her head before the bones of the arm just at the shoulder joint seemingly fell

She now lies on her back nursing a broken right leg, a broken jaw and a broken shoulder joint. Her left leg is gone, as stated. - New York World.

THE PRESIDENT'S NEW WORD.

He Got It From Professor Proctor's Story

About an Old Kentucky Negro. President Cleveland has a new word. When any one comes to see him on a matter of business now, he says, "Well, now, let's ''spute' about it." He got the word from a story Professor Proctor, the civil service commissioner, told him of an old negro down in Kentucky who was very powerful in theological controversy and was looked up to by the colored people of that section as the ablest exponent of the Scriptures, white or black, they had ever seen. The old gentleman had worsted all debaters, and, like Alexander, sighed for new worlds to conquer. Professor Proctor, with a party of friends, happened to visit the plantation upon which he lived, and while they were sitting on the piazza one morning the great controversialist appeared with a pair of horn framed spectacles on his nose and a big Bible under his arm. Shuffling up to the steps, he took off his hat, made a low bow, and in a most dignified and

The handling of balloons has become part of the regular training of the German soldier, and a captive balloon, kept always in readiness for military work, is now a familiar feature of a German camp. A new arrangement of the electric light is now being tried. From the captive balloon is suspended an electric are lamp of some 5,000 candle power. As soon as night begins to fall the current, carried by an insulated wire, is turned on, and the light is reflected downward. In this way a large open space is illuminated without lampposts, and the evolutions of a body of troops can take place without impediment by night. - Berlin Letter.

Jail Preferred to Mother-in-law.

Thirty husbands were languishing in the Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn last week charged with failure to support or provide for their wives. It turned out, upon inquiry, that most of these unfeeling men liked their wives well enough, but could not stand their mothers-in-law, and when they had the opportunity of going home, if they would agree to face the reception awaiting them there, they shook their heads resointely and said, "Let us remain here in peace."-New York Dispatch.

Hugo Still Untombed.

Complaint is made in Paris that Victor Hugo's remains are neglected. When the great man's remarkable funeral was over, the coffin containing his body was solemnly placed on two improvised benches in the Pantheon. There it remains just as it was left, no attempt having been made to prepare a tomb for it. And nothing more is heard of the great Hugo memorial for which subscriptions were solicited just after the poet's death. - Paris Correspondent.
